1. ——— Validity of tender.—Contract Act, s. 38.—Tender of interest on mortgage-debt.—Under a mortgage-deed taken to secure the repayment within three years of a sum of Rs. 16,000 advanced by the plaintiff, with interest at 15 per cent. from the 2nd July 1874, the date of the mortgage, it was stipulated that interest should be paid every six months, but that if a year's interest should be unpaid, then the whole amount due for principal and interest should become payable at once; and also that the mortgagor might, after payment of interest, pay towards satisfaction of the principal any sum not less than Rs. 1,000. The first year's interest was allowed to go into arrear, but in September 1875 the defendant went to the plaintiff with Rs. 19,000, a greater sum than was due for principal and interest, and told him to repay himself from that sum. The offer was refused, and the plaintiff thereupon brought a suit on the 9th July 1877 for Rs. 16,000, with interest from the date of the mortgage to the date of the suit and subsequent interest. Held that the tender made by the defendant, although not valid according to English law, was valid under section 38 of the Contract Act. Per WILSON, J.—Section 38 of the Contract Act substantially requires that there should be a genuine and unconditional offer, in case of payment, to pay unconditionally at a proper place, made by a person in a position to pay. KANYE LALL KHAN v. KHETTERMONY DOSSEE

2. ——— Unconditional tender.—Costs.—In a suit to recover Rs. 323-15-6, the balance of the price of goods sold, on which an account had been come to between the parties, it appeared that the defendant had tendered before suit a sum of Rs. 1,043-5, stating in the letter of tender that the sum so tendered was the only sum due. At the trial, the plaintiff obtained a decree for the full amount claimed by him. Held, both in the Court below and on appeal, that the tender was bad, and therefore the plaintiffs were entitled to their costs. Held per KENNEDY, J., that the tender was bad, being a tender of part of an entire debt. Held per GAITHER, C. J. (MARKET, J., concurring), that the tender was also bad, as the plaintiffs could not have accepted the sum tendered without giving up the remainder of their claim. CHUNDER CAUNT MOOKERJEE v. JODONATH KHAN

3. ——— Agent.—Cheque in payment of debt for rent.—Suit for rent.—Costs.—The landlord of a house through his agent sent in rent-bills to his lessee. The lessee gave the agent a cheque payable to her attorney for the amount demanded. The attorney realised the amount of the cheque and gave the money to the agent, who tendered it to the landlord's attorney, who refused to accept, and the money was returned to the lessee's attorney. Held, in a suit for the rent, that, under the circumstances, the tender amounted to payment. Held, further, that although, as a general rule, the amount of a tender not accepted ought to be paid into Court in order to entitle the defendant to costs, yet that, as the tender in this case amounted to payment, the defendant was entitled to have the suit dismissed with costs. The case for the prosecution was that the prosecutor's wife left her husband's house in company with the first prisoner, and that previous to her departure she, by means of false keys supplied to her by the second prisoner, opened the room where the family jewels and money were kept and removed them. The jewels were deposited with the second prisoner for safe custody. 1. EVIDENCE AND PROOF OF TITLE.*(a) GENERALLY.

1. ——— Evidence of title.—Oral evidence.—When the Principal Sudder Ameen, reversing the decision of the Munsif, dismissed a claim to the possession of certain land, on the ground that "mere oral evidence unsupported by any documentary evidence was not admissible to establish a man's title to landed property," the High Court on appeal reversed his decision and held that oral evidence, if believed, may be as good for proving a man's title as documentary evidence. DUREAN FAKHER v. NOBIR-CHANDRA MAZUMDAR
[1 B. L. R., S. N., 16; 10 W. R., 217]

2. ——— Documentary evidence in India.—The presumption in favour of the genuineness of documents offered in evidence in India is very weak, but it must not be held that the presumption is in favour of forgery, and when a long series of documents is produced showing a reasonable origin of title nearly a century ago, a regular deduction of that title and a possession consistent with it, confirmed by the fact of such possession existing at the time of the commencement of the respondents' title by purchase in 1833, the evidence of extrinsic improbability should be very strong indeed to counterbalance the weight of such testimony. *WISE v.
BHOOSUR MOYEE DEBIA*
[3 W. R., P. C., 5; 10 Moore's I. A., 165]

3. ——— Pottah granted by Collector.—A pottah of land in Calcutta granted by the Collector is not a muniment of title, but only evidence of a holding according to a local and fiscal regulation. FREEMAN v. FAIRLIE
[1 Moore's I. A., 305]

4. ——— Forged documents.

documents proved to be forged, but the other evidence adduced by him is not impeached, the Court, in rejecting the forged documents, will take the unimpeached evidence into consideration, and, if satisfied, adjudicate thereon. SEVYAJI VIDAYA RAGHUNADHA VALOJI KRISTNAN GOPALAR v. CHINNA NAXANA CHETTI . . . 10 Moore's I. A., 151

5. ———— Suit for possession.—In a suit to recover possession of land which both the plaintiff and defendant claimed to have reclaimed from jungle and to have possessed many years, and for which each claimed to have obtained a pottah from Government, the mere fact that the land was included in plaintiff's pottah was held to be insufficient, without going into the facts to ascertain possession, to entitle him to a decree. GOLAM REZA CHOWDHURY v. CHANDOO MEAN LUSHKUR . . . 15 W. R., 45

6. ———— Possession.—Presumption.—The ordinary presumption that possession goes with the title would be of no avail in the presence of clear evidence to the contrary; but where there is strong evidence of possession on one side opposed by evidence apparently strong also on the other side, the Privy Council held that in estimating the weight due to the evidence on both sides, the presumption might, under the circumstances of the case, be regarded, and that with the aid of it there is stronger probability that the case of the side that had possession was true than that of the party out of possession. RUNJEET RAM PANDAY v. GOREBDHUN RAM PANDAY . . . 20 W. R., P. C., 25

7. ———— Possession.—Litigation Act (XV of 1877), arts. 143, 144.—Conflicting evidence of possession.—Presumption of title.—Where two adverse parties are each trying to make out a possession of twelve years, and the evidence is conflicting and not conclusive of either side, Held that the presumption that possession goes with the title must prevail. DHARM SINGH v. HUB PERSHAD SINGH . . . I. L. R., 12 Cal., 38

8. ———— Possession.—Presumption of Waste lands.—In disputes as to the right to the possession of jungle lands, it is only in cases where neither party has exercised any acts of ownership over the lands in question that the Court may resort to evidence of title, and presume that the party proved to have the title has also possession. RAM BHADRU v. KUTU BHATTU . . . 5 C. L. R., 481

9. ———— Suit for possession.—Possession of title-deeds and receipts for rent.—In a case involving the alternative question of fact whether certain land belonged to A. or C., neither the one nor the other of the opposite party venturing to state who his opponent was, and the testimony of the witnesses on this point being doubtful, Held that A., who was in possession of the title-deeds and of the receipts of rent, ought to succeed, unless there was something on the record to contravert such strong evidence. KHODA BUKSH KHAN v. CHOA . . . 19 W. R., 162

10. ———— Suit for declaration of title.—Onus probandi.—Production of title-deeds.—The plaintiff sued for declaration of her title to property of which the defendant was in possession, but of which she produced the title-deeds in favour of herself. Held, the onus was on the defendant to disprove the plaintiff's title, and the defendant was not allowed to raise certain fresh issues; but the plaintiff was, under the circumstances of the case, entitled to rely on the title given her by the production of the title-deeds in her favour. SWARNAMAYI RAUR v. SRINIDASH KOYAL . . . 6 B. L. R., 144

11. ———— Possession.—Uninterrupted and undisputed possession.—Uninterrupted and undisputed possession for a long time constitutes sufficient prima facie evidence of title; but if this possession is admitted to be under an adoption, it will avail nothing if the adoption fails. HAIMUN CHULL SINGH v. GUNSEHAM SINGH . . . 5 W. R., P. C., 69

12. ———— Suit for possession.—Where, in a suit to recover possession of land, the plaintiff succeeded in proving that he had been in possession up to a recent date, and that he had been forcibly dispossessed by the defendant, the lower Appellate Court threw upon the defendant the burden of proving his title, and, on his failing to do so, decreed the case. Held that this was a fair inference of title and of a right to be replaced in possession without going further into the title,—that is, to the mode of its acquisition. TRILCHIT GHOSH v. KAILAS NATH SIDHANTO BHOWMIK BHATTACHARYA . . . 3 B. L. R., A. C., 288; 12 W. R., 175

13. ———— Proof of title.—Suit for possession.—In a suit to recover possession, on the allegation that plaintiff had been illegally ousted, though holding under a lease from defendant, the latter urged that, though plaintiff had been allowed to hold the tenure as a tehsildar or collector of rents, he had never been the ijaradar or farmer in possession. The Judge found that the estate was really let out in ijara to the plaintiffs by the defendant, who had recovered rents and granted him receipts on account of the ijara melad. Held that this was a complete finding in favour of the plaintiff's title, and that it was not necessary for him to sue for the pottah which had been wrongfully denied him by defendant. JOHNEEROODDEEN MAHOMED v. DABBER PERSHAD SINGH . . . 13 W. R., 21

14. ———— Proof of title.—Evidence of possession.—In a suit to establish title, evidence of plaintiff's possession prior to the summary award under section 15, Act XIV of 1859, under which he was dispossessed, may be good evidence of his title, and must be considered. BULLBER KANT BHUTTACHARJEE v. DOORJO DUTT SHIKDAR [7 W. R., 89]

15. ———— Possession.—Evidence Act, s. 110.—Specific Relief Act, 1877, s. 9.—In a suit for possession, where the plaintiff proved that he had been in possession of the lands in dispute, and that he had been ousted by the defendants, who were unable to give any proof of their right so to oust him, or of a superior title,—Held (PRINSEP, J., dissentiente) that the prior possession of the plaintiff was prima facie evidence of title, and that he was entitled to a decree. Per PRINSEP, J.—Proof of prior possession and of illegal dispossession are in themselves no evidence of title, except in a possessory suit under the Specific Relief Act (1 of 1877). Section 110 of the Evidence Act applies only to actual and present possession, and does not declare generally that possession shall always be prima facie evidence of title. KAWA MANJI v. KHOWAZ NUSRO [5 C. L. R., 278]

16. ———— Possession.—Lands attached by Government as being disputed lands.—Disputes respecting the boundaries of the zemindaris of Yettiapooram and Rammad in the district of Madura having led to acts of violence by the ryots, the Government, in the year 1836, to preserve the public peace attached the disputed lands and took possession for the benefit of the party to whom the lands should be judicially awarded. At and before the time of the Government taking such possession, the zemindar of Yettiapooram was in possession of certain lands adjacent to, and taken as a part of, the lands in dispute. The lands remained under attachment by Government for a period of nearly twenty years, no steps having been taken regarding them till the year 1855, when the zemindar of Yettiapooram brought a suit against the Collector of Madura and the zemindar of Rammad to recover possession of the land so formerly occupied by him, and for the mesne profits thereof while in the possession of the Government. Although no clear title in this suit was proved by either zemindar, it was held by the Courts in India, and affirmed on appeal by the Judicial Committee, that the fact of possession of the lands by the zemindar of Yettiapooram before and at the time of the attachment by Government was, under the circumstances, evidence of title, and the Government was ordered to restore the lands to him. ZEMINDAR OF RAMMAD v. ZEMINDAR OF YETTIAPORAM . . . 10 Moore's I. A., 47

17. ———— Proof of possession.—Suit for possession.—In a suit to recover possession of two plots as parcels of the plaintiff's ancestral jammal lands, the Court of first instance found that one plot was parcel, but was not satisfied that the other was so also. The lower

Appellate Court agreed with the first finding, but further found that there was sufficient evidence of possession to show that both plots were parcels of the jammal. Held, reversing the decision of FIELD, J., that on second appeal the High Court was not entitled to question the sufficiency of that evidence; and, further, that one plot having been found to be parcel of the jammal, it was sufficient to give evidence of possession and ownership to prove that the other plot was also parcel. Dadabhai Narasidas v. 18. ———— Registration after proclamation.—Evidence of assertion of title.—The act of registration after a proclamation under section 20, Regulation XXXVII of 1793, amounts to a public, open, and notorious assertion of title on the one side, and the omission to register, unexplained by proof of the ill-health of the claimant, or absence in a distant country, or ignorance, affords an equally strong presumption of the non-existence of any title on the other. USUDOOZLAH v. IMAMAN [5 W. R., P. C., 26; 1 Moore's I. A., 10]

10. ———— Suit for declaration of title.—Onus probandi.—Production of title-deeds.—The plaintiff sued for declaration of his title to property of which the defendant was in possession, but of which she produced the title-deeds in favour of herself. Held, the onus was on the defendant to disprove the plaintiff's title, and the defendant was not allowed to raise certain fresh issues; but the plaintiff was, under the circumstances of the case, entitled to rely on the title given her by the production of the title-deeds in her favour. *SWARNAMAYI RAU v. 11. ———— Possession.—Uninterrupted and undisputed possession.—Uninterrupted and undisputed possession for a long time constitutes sufficient prima facie evidence of title; but if this possession is admitted to be under an adoption, it will avail nothing if the adoption fails. HAINUN CHULL SINGH v. GUNSEHAM SINGH [5 W. R., F. C., 69]

12. ———— Suit for possession.—Where, in a suit to recover possession of land, the plaintiff succeeded in proving that he had been in possession up to a recent date, and that he had been forcibly dispossessed by the defendant, the lower Appellate Court threw upon the defendant the burden of proving his title, and, on his failing to do so, decreed the case. Held that this was a fair inference of title and of a right to be replaced in possession without going further into the title,—that is, to the mode of its acquisition. TILLOCHUT GHOSH v. KAILAS NATH SIDHANTO BROWNIK BRUTTACHARI . 3 B. L. R., A. C., 298: 12 W. R., 175

13. ———— Proof of title.—Suit for possession.—In a suit to recover possession, on the allegation that plaintiff had been illegally ousted, though holding under a lease from defendant, the latter urged that, though plaintiff had been allowed to hold the tenure as a talsildar or collector of rents, he had never been the talsildar or farmer in possession. The Judge found that the estate was really let out in ijara to the plaintiffs by the defendant, who had recovered rents and granted him receipts on account of the ijara mehal. Held that this was a complete finding in favour of the plaintiff's title, and that it was not necessary for him to sue for the pottah which had been wrongfully denied him by defendant. *JOHEEROODDEN MAHOMED v. Section 110 of the Evidence Act applies only to actual and present possession, and does not declare generally that possession shall always be prima facie evidence of title. KAWA MANJI v. KHOUWAZ NUSIO [5 C. L. R., 278]

16. ———— Possession.—Lands attached by Government as being disputed lands.—Disputes respecting the boundaries of the zemindaris of Yettapooram and Ramnad in the district of Madras having led to acts of violence by the ryots, the Government, in the year 1836, to preserve the public peace attached the disputed lands and took possession for the benefit of the party to whom the lands should be judicially awarded. At and before the time of the Government taking such possession, the zemindar of Yettapooram was in possession of certain lands adjacent to, and taken as a part of, the lands in dispute. The lands remained under attachment by Government for a period of nearly twenty years, no steps having been taken regarding them till the year 1855, when the zemindar of Yettapooram brought a suit against the Collector of Madras and the zemindar of Ramnad to recover possession of the land so formerly occupied by him, and for the mesne profits thereof while in the possession of the Government. Although no clear title in this suit was proved by either zemindar, it was held by the Courts in India, and affirmed on appeal by the Judicial Committee, that the fact of possession of the lands by the zemindar of Yettapooram before and at the time of the attachment by Government was, under the circumstances, evidence of title, and the Government was ordered to restore the lands to him. *ZEMINDAR OF RAMNAD v. Appellate Court agreed with the first finding, but further found that there was sufficient evidence of possession to show that both plots were parcels of the jammai. Held, reversing the decision of FIELD, J., that on second appeal the High Court was not entitled to question the sufficiency of that evidence; and, further, that one plot having been found to be parcel of the jammai, it was sufficient to give evidence of possession and ownership to prove that the other plot was also parcel. *Dadabhai Narisda v. 18. ———— Registration after proclamation.—Evidence of assertion of title.—The act of registration after a proclamation under section 20, Regulation XXXVII of 1798, amounts to a public, open, and notorious assertion of title on the one side, and the omission to register, unexplained by proof of the ill-health of the claimant, or absence in a distant country, or ignorance, affords an equally strong presumption of the non-existence of any title on the other. USUDOOOLAH v. IMAMAN [5 W. R., P. C., 26; 1 Moore's I. A., 19]

The grantee entered into and remained in possession for upwards of twelve years. Held that the position of the grantee was not that of a lessee, and that his possession (although in its inception an act of trespass against the husband) having continued for upwards of twelve years, had perfected his title to the lands. One who holds possession on behalf of another does not, by mere denial of that other's title, make his possession adverse, so as to give himself the benefit of the statute of limitation. *BEJOY CHUNDER BANERJEE v. The damages were disallowed, but the Civil Judge made a declaration of title in the plaintiff's favour, basing that entitlement on the statute of limitations. Held that where a man seeks a declaration of a title other than the possession which he has, mere possession for the period of the statute will not justify the declaration, which, allowing it to be made, ought to be based upon a finding of the title alleged by plaintiff, and not upon the existence of a possession for the period required by the statute to bar the action of another. 36. ———— Possession.—Proof of title and possession.—Suit for injunction.—Hindu law.—K. C., a Hindu, died in March 1864, possessed, among certain other property, of a house, and leaving three sons, R., B., and T. He also left a will, of he which appointed R. executor, and declared that "the whole of my estate, both real and personal, and the existing shop, you, R., are the proprietor of the whole." R. was directed to furnish the expenses of the household and carry on the shop, and pay for religious observances, &c. The testator then left legacies to his daughters and others, but made no mention of his sons B. and T. R. applied for probate of the will and a caveat was entered by B., but the opposition was withdrawn on a compromise, and the will was proved; the compromise, however, was never carried out. In August 1866 R. died, leaving a son, M., and his two brothers, B. and T., surviving him, and having made a will appointing T. executor, and giving him the power of dealing with all the property. T. applied for probate, but was opposed by M.; but on 23rd May 1867 probate was granted. On 26th March 1867 B. and T. mortgaged a two-third share in the house to the defendant, and on default in payment of the mortgage-debt, the defendant obtained a decree for payment or sale on 6th January 1868. On 17th August 1867 T. mortgaged the whole house to the plaintiffs to secure payment of money borrowed to carry out A.'s will. The plaintiffs obtained a decree for foreclosure on 15th July 1869, and subsequently a decree for possession. In a suit brought by the plaintiffs in possession, alleging that the defendant's mortgage and decree threw a cloud on their title, and that they would be injured by the sale, the plaintiff prayed that the defendant might be restrained by injunction from proceeding to sale, and his mortgage be brought into Court and cancelled. Held that, to entitle them to relief, they must prove their title as well as their possession, and on failure to do so the suit must be dismissed. *ROOPALL KHETTRY v. The power of levying tolls under Act VIII of 1851 is vested in the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and is restricted to levying tolls only at the toll-bar: the establishment of a toll must be by some distinct resolution of the Government notified in some way or other by the Government. The word "extortionately" in section 6 of Act VIII of 1851 is not used in the same sense as it is used in the Penal Code, but as meaning an unlawful demand of toll accompanied by pressure, the pressure in this case being the exercise of the powers indicated in section 3 of the Act by seizing the complainant's horses and carts and detaining them until the toll was paid. *UTTOM CHUNDER GANGGOOLY v. TOWN DUTIES, BOMBAY.

— Act XIX of 1844—Suit to levy a tax on cotton and cotton seeds purchased in, and exported from, Broach.—Cess illegal.—Agency.—Trust.—The plaintiff, manager and part proprietor of a Vallabhnacharya temple at Broach, sued the defendant to establish the right of the temple to levy a cess on cotton and cotton seed purchased in Broach and exported from it. The defendant denied the plaintiff's right and contended (inter alia) that, even if the right existed until 1844, it was then abolished by Act XIX of that year, which "enacted that from the first day of October 1844 all town duties, kusubviras, molhtarphas, baluti taxes, and cesses of every kind on trades and professions, under whatsoever name, levied within the Presidency of Bombay, and not forming a part of the land revenue, shall be abolished." Held that Act XIX of 1844 applied to the cess claimed by the plaintiff. The expression "cesses of every kind" included the cess on cotton and cotton seeds, and absolutely put an end to the right, if any existed, of the Government or of any private individual of levying the same. Held, also, the suit could not be regarded as a suit for money had and received by the defendant to the plaintiff's use, or as one to recover money received by the defendant as trustee or agent. *GOSYAMI SHRI PURUSHOTAMJI MAHARAJ v. MARK. . . 3 E. L. R., Ap., 4

1. — Injunction to restrain use of trade marks.—Combination by figures.—The plaintiffs, from 1872, imported and sold an article described as 7½ lb grey shirtings, and marked as follows: "In the centre of each piece of cloth a stamp in blue colour of a turtle in a star, with the words 'trade mark,' underneath, in a semi-circular form, is the name 'Fleming, Galbraith, & Co., Manchester,' and under this the number 39 within a star, and at the bottom of each piece the number 2008." In 1877 the plaintiffs discovered that the defendants were importing from the same manufacturers, and selling cloth of a similar quality marked as follows: "A stamp in blue colour of a rose in a square; underneath are the words 'Ralli and Mavrojani' arranged in a semi-circular form, and under this the number 39 in a star, and at the bottom the number 2008." On the facts of the case the lower Court (MACPHERSON, J.) granted an interim injunction to restrain the defendants from so marking their cloth, on the ground that it was a colourable imitation of the plaintiffs' mark and calculated to mislead the public; and on appeal the Court (GARTH, C. J., and MARKBY, J.) upheld that decision so far as to continue the injunction. Held per GARTH, C. J.—If the imitation of the plaintiffs' marks generally, or the use of the number 2008 in particular, would be calculated to deceive or mislead the public, the defendants ought to be restrained from such use or imitation. Under the circumstances the use of their marks by the defendants would be calculated to deceive the public into the belief that they were purchasing goods imported by the plaintiffs. Per MARKBY, J.—The number 2008 was not part of the plaintiffs' trade mark proper: nor on the evidence was it so associated with the plaintiffs' name as to indicate to the public that the goods bearing that number came only from the plaintiffs' firm as importers; on the evidence it was merely a quality mark, and therefore not calculated to mislead the public into the belief that they were purchasing the plaintiffs' goods while in fact they were purchasing those imported by the defendants. Seemle.—There may be a right to exclusive use of a trade mark by traders who are importers only. RALLI v. FLEMING

2. — Right to use of trade mark.—Rival traders.—Similarity of name.—No trader importing goods can lawfully adopt a trade mark which is calculated to cause his goods to bear in the market the same name as those of a rival trader. TAYLOR v. VIRASAMI . . . I. L. R., 6 Mad., 108

3. — Restraint use of trade mark.—Evidence of fraud.—The ground upon which a person is restrained from using another's trade mark is that he is gaining an advantage by the use of a particular trade mark which is the property of another. It is not necessary to prove intentional fraud, or to show that persons have been actually deceived. It is sufficient if the Court be satisfied that the resemblance is such as would be likely to cause the one mark to be mistaken for the other.

EWING v. GRANT, SMITH, & Co. . . 2 Hyde, 185
BALFOUR & Co. v. KILBURN & Co.

[1 Hyde, 270

4. ——— Possession and use of trade mark.—User in foreign market.—Abandonment.—Estoppel by conduct.—Such possession and use of a trade mark in one market as to constitute a right in it, establishes in the owner thereof an exclusive right to that trade mark in other markets, although the owner may not have used it in such markets. To constitute a mark a trade mark, it must have been adopted as a symbol devised to distinguish a particular class of goods as the goods of that class manufactured or selected by a particular manufacturer or merchant. Where the plaintiffs by their conduct led the defendant to believe that they claimed no right to a certain trade mark, and that it was open to the defendant to adopt it as his own, and the defendant did adopt it, and by his industry secured a wide popularity for it in the Indian market.—Held that the plaintiffs were estopped from denying the defendant's right to use the trade mark in the Indian market. LAYERGE v. HOOPER

6. ——— Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 6.—Withdrawal of suits from subordinate Courts.—Remand by higher Court.—Fresh suit.—The power given by section 6 of Act VIII of 1859 to a Zillah Judge for the withdrawal of suits from subordinate Courts should only be exercised upon cause shown, and ordinarily not without opportunity given to the parties to the suit to be heard upon the question. The terms of section 6 were inapplicable to suits which the subordinate Court had received by order of remand from a Court to which the District Court was itself subordinate. A suit sent by the High Court to a subordinate Court under a remand to the High Court by Her Majesty's order in Council, and in which, under the Council's remand order, the plaint has been amended, a new statement filed, and new issues framed, is substantially a new suit. *MAHOMED ZAHOOB ALI KHAN v. 17. ————— Civil Procedure Code, 1877, s. 24.—Place of suing.—grounds for transfer.—Section 24 of the Civil Procedure Code does not empower a High Court to transfer a suit instituted within its own jurisdiction to the jurisdiction of another High Court, but only to declare in which Court a suit shall proceed, and, if necessary, to stay all further proceedings within its own jurisdiction. The defendants in a suit instituted at Mainpuri, who resided and carried on business at Surat, applied under section 24 of the Civil Procedure Code that the suit might be tried at Surat, on the ground that it would be tried with greater convenience to them at that place. Held that there being no balance in favour of either justice or convenience on the side of the Surat Court, the suit should proceed at Mainpuri. TULA RAM v. [I. L. R., 6 Cal., 30]

19. ————— Civil Procedure Code, 1877, s. 25.—Transfer from Court in which a suit has been wrongly instituted.—A suit for the infringement of certain inventions, instead of being instituted in the Court having, by virtue of section 22 of Act XV of 1859, jurisdiction to entertain it, was instituted in a Court subordinate to such Court not having such jurisdiction. The Court having jurisdiction to entertain such suit, at the joint request of the parties, transferred it for trial to itself under section 25 of the Civil Procedure Code, and tried it. Held in the High Court that, inasmuch as the parties had assented to the transfer of the suit, and its transfer brought it into the right Court, the fact that the suit had been originally instituted in the wrong Court did not render the transfer illegal, and the Court having jurisdiction had properly tried the suit. PEARY LALL MOZOOMDAR v. KOMAL KISHORE DASSIA . . . I. L. R., 5 All, 371

But held by the Privy Council (reversing this decision) that under section 25 of the Civil Procedure Code the superior Court cannot make an order of transfer of a case unless the Court from which the transfer is sought to be made has jurisdiction to try it. Peary Lall Mozoomdar v. Y. THILINGA . . . I. L. R., 8 Mad, 548

21. ————— Reasons for transfer.—Amending issues.—Procedure on transfer.—The mere transfer of a suit for the convenience of the public, or for the acceleration of business, from one subordinate Court to another, does not affect the authority of the Judge of the District Court to transfer it to his own file, or to another Court, or to re-transfer it, if he see sufficient cause for so doing; nor would the circumstance that a case had been up on appeal to the High Court on a preliminary point, and been remanded for a trial on the merits, limit the authority of the District Court Judge to bring it upon his own file, or to transfer it to the file of a Court other than that in which it was instituted. The omission of the Judge to assign his reason for transferring the case does not vitiate his proceeding. When a Judge transfers a case to his own file, he is at liberty to amend the issues first laid down, and to raise additional issues, and to go into the whole case, except upon any question upon which there has been a judicial finding. TARUCKNATH MOOKERJEE v. GOUREE CHURN MOOKERJEE . . . 3 W. R., 147

22. ————— Procedure on transfer.—Evidence of witnesses.—Where a suit which was filed originally before a Principal Sudder Ameen, who had fixed the issues and recorded the evidence of witnesses, is transferred by a Judge to his own file, the Judge, his Court being a Court of original jurisdiction, ought to have the witnesses before him and take their evidence de novo. UNNOPOORNA v. 23. ————— Civil Procedure Code, 1882, s. 25.—Court to which suit is transferred not taking fresh evidence.—Where the trial of a suit was commenced by a Subordinate Judge and then transferred by the District Judge to his own file under section 25 of the Civil Procedure Code, and the latter did not retake the evidence, but dealt with the case as it came to him from the Subordinate Judge and dismissed the suit,—Held that the District Judge had not tried the case within the meaning of section 25 of the Code. BANDHU NAIK v. 28. ——— Power to transfer.—

Grounds for transfer.—Inconvenience.—Expense.—The 13th section of the Letters Patent (1855) of the High Court at Fort William gives the Court power to order a suit to be transferred for trial only where the transfer is agreed on by the parties, or for the purposes of justice; and in the absence of agreement it must be made out that there will be inconvenience amounting to this, that, if the case be tried in the Court in which it was originally laid, the trial will be unsatisfactory. The mere fact that it would be less expensive to try the case in the High Court is not sufficient of itself for the Court to act upon and order the case to be transferred. GOODERAM KHAN v. Assam was presented to the Court of Chancery in England by one of the shareholders of the Company, and a provisional liquidator was appointed. On 5th November, at an extraordinary meeting of the Company, it was resolved that the Company should be wound up, and liquidators were appointed. On 12th November, the petition for winding up came on for hearing, and an order was made that the voluntary winding up should continue subject to the supervision of the Court. On 18th November, by deed under the hands and seals of the liquidators, M. was appointed their attorney in India. On 27th October certain immovable properties in Assam belonging to the Company were attached in execution of decrees in certain suits in the Court of the Munsif of Debroghur. On 9th December the properties were put up for sale, and purchased at prices which it was alleged were considerably under their value. Applications were made to the Munsif's Court at Debroghur by the purchasers for confirmation of the sales, which applications were opposed by M., and pending the Munsif's decision an application was made to the Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore for an order to stay all proceedings in the decrees, on the ground of the order for winding up the Company of 12th November, which application was refused on 15th February 1871. On 16th February 1871 the Munsif made an order confirming the sales. M. thereupon petitioned the High Court for the removal of the suits from Assam to the High Court, to be tried in its extraordinary original civil jurisdiction, on the ground that no appeal would lie against the order of 15th February, refusing to stay the proceedings in the suits; and that if an appeal should be preferred to the Deputy Commissioner from the order of the Munsif confirming the sales, his decision would be final. The application was opposed on behalf of the purchasers. Held, the Munsif not having had notice of the winding-up order of 12th November, had power to sell the property on 9th December, and the sale having actually taken place, and there being nothing to show that there was any irregularity in the proceedings, the High Court would have no power, if the cases were brought down, to set aside the sale. This, therefore, was not a proper case for the exercise of the power which the High Court possesses under clause 13 of the Letters Patent. IN THE MATTER OF DECREE-SUITS IN THE COURT OF MUNSIF OF DEBROGHUR . . . 7 B. arisen wholly within the jurisdiction of the High Court. Held on appeal by PRACOCK, C. J., and MACPHERSON, J., that the defendant H. S., by joining in the application to have the suit removed to the High Court, admitted the jurisdiction of that Court to try the suit in the exercise of its extraordinary original civil jurisdiction, and could not afterwards dispute the jurisdiction. The law, therefore, to be administered by the High Court must be the same law and equity which ought to have been applied if the suit had been tried in the Court at Hooghly. Per MACPHERSON, J.—The law which would have been applicable to the case if it had been tried at Hooghly, is practically the same as the English law, whatever may be the nationality of the parties. *GHOSE v. ## 3. GROUND FOR TRANSFER.

37. ———— Expense, inconvenience, or other good reason.—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 23.—Practice.—Section 23 of Act XIV of 1882 is only intended to provide for those cases where, on the ground of expense or convenience, or some other good reason, the Court thinks that the place of trial ought to be changed. Parties desirous of obtaining the transfer of a case from one forum to another ought clearly to explain to the Court by petition and affidavit what is the nature of the claim and defence; they should further state what are the issues and the evidence required, and then satisfy the Court that, either on the ground of expense or convenience, or otherwise, the place of trial ought to be changed. *KHATTA BIBI v. A party applying under section 23, Act X of 1877, must first of all give notice to the other party or side; the application should then be received by the Munsif and transmitted to the High Court through the District Court. *PERRUNJOTE v. 1. ——— Power to transfer.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, s. 178.—Reference to High Court.—Burma Courts Act (Act XVII of 1875), s. 80.—The Local Government has no power, under section 178 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, to transfer for trial to the Court of a Commissioner a criminal case duly committed for trial to the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon; but the Local Government has the power to transfer a case from the district of Rangoon to the Sessions division of Pegu. *QUEEN-EMPRESS v. 2. ——— Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, s. 526.—District Magistrate and Civil and Sessions Judge (and Magistrate) of Bangalore subordinate to High Court.—The District Magistrate and the Civil and Sessions Judge of the civil and military station at Bangalore are Magistrates subordinate to the High Court at Madras within the meaning of section 526 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The High Court, therefore, has power to transfer a case from the Courts of those Judges to any other Criminal Court. Under the circumstances disclosed, the High Court transferred this case. SCOTT v. RICKETTS. I. L. R., 9 Mad., 356

3. ——— Power of High Court, Bombay.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, s. 526.—Act III of 1884, s. 11.—Cantonment Magistrate, Secunderabad.—The High Court of Bombay having been vested by notification of the Governor General of India in Council, No. 178, of 23rd September 1874, with original and appellate criminal jurisdiction over European British subjects, being Christians, resident, amongst other places, at Secunderabad, outside the Presidency of Bombay and within the territories of His Highness the Nizam of Hyderabad, the Cantonment Magistrate of Secunderabad in his character of a District Magistrate is subordinate to the High Court in criminal matters relating to Christian European British subjects in Hyderabad within the contemplation of section 526 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, Act X of 1882, as amended by Act III of 1884, section 11; and the High Court possesses, by virtue of the appellate jurisdiction so vested in it, the power of transferring a criminal case pending in the Cantonment Magistrate's Court either to itself or to any Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction. The High Court by an order under section 526 of the Criminal Procedure Code

(Act X of 1882) transferred the present case of defamiation from the Court of the Cantonment Magistrate at Secunderabad to the High Court for trial, on the ground that no machinery for a trial by jury existed at Secunderabad. QUEEN-EMPRESS v. EDWARDS. I. L. R., 9 Bom., 333

4. ——— Power of High Court, Bombay.—Act II of 1864.—Transfer of case from Court of Political Resident at Aden.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, s. 526.—A prisoner charged with having committed murder at Perim was committed by the Magistrate there on the 26th August 1885, for trial before the Political Resident at Aden, by whom he was convicted and sentenced to death on the 14th September 1885. On the 26th January 1886, the High Court of Bombay reversed the conviction and sentence, on the ground that the Court of the Resident had no jurisdiction over the Island of Perim, and that the Resident, not having been appointed a Judge of a Court of Session for that island, was not competent to try the prisoner. The High Court ordered a re-trial before a competent Court. On the 10th February 1886 the Government of Bombay issued the notification (No. 823) above set forth. On the 11th March 1886 an application was made to the High Court of Bombay for the transfer of the case to another Court of Session or to the High Court for trial. Held that Perim is a Sessions Division, and that, after the establishment, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, of a Court of Session for the Perim Sessions Division and the appointment of the Resident at Aden as Sessions Judge of that Court, the accused stood properly committed to a Court of Session. The High Court, therefore, could transfer the case from that Court, under section 526 of the Code, to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction, or to the High Court of Bombay. PER BIRDWOOD, J.—The High Court cannot, under section 526 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Act X of 1882), any more than under section 25 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), direct the transfer of a case, which is not properly before a subordinate Court of competent jurisdiction, to receive and try it. Peary Lal Mozoomdar v. Komul Kishore Dossia, I. L. R., 6 Cal., 80, followed; Queen-Empress v. Thakur, I. L. R., 8 Bom., 312, distinguished. PER JARDINE, J.—After the High Court had annulled the proceedings in the Court of the Resident at Aden as without jurisdiction, the case could not be treated as still pending in his Court; and as there was no Court of Session in existence at the time of the commitment, it necessarily followed that the case remained in the Magistrate's Court. But, whether the case was considered as pending in the Court of a Magistrate or of a Resident, or of a Sessions Judge, the High Court had the power to transfer it, and that under the circumstances the case should be so transferred to the High Court for trial. *QUEEN-EMPRESS v. Where no such specific decision has been given, the High Court, when the case has been transferred under section 147, Act X of 1875, may either try the case de novo, or dismiss it on the ground that the Magistrate has come to no finding on which the conviction can be sustained. *QUEEN v. The Police Magistrate heard the evidence for the prosecution, and, without disbelieving it, decided it did not amount to the offence charged. Held that, assuming that an error of law had been committed, the High Court had no power to issue a mandamus to the Magistrate to commit the defendants; it was not a case where the Magistrate had declined jurisdiction; he had exercised his jurisdiction and heard the case. Held, also, it was not a case which the Court could transfer under section 147 of the High Courts' Criminal Procedure Act. *IN THE MATTER OF THE EMPRESS ON THE PROSECUTION OF MATHCOLM v. 19. — Power to transfer.—Power of single Judge on original side of High Court.—On an application made for the transfer of a case from the Sessions Court at Patna for trial by the High Court at Calcutta, on the grounds mainly that all but one of the charges against the prisoners were for offences committed in Calcutta; that the selection of Patna as the place of trial was calculated to prejudice the prisoners; that the police at Patna were getting up the case against the prisoners by improper and illegal means; that by these means was created such a feeling of dread and insecurity among the witnesses and others in Patna as would prevent a fair trial from taking place there; that some of the witnesses for the defence, although willing to give evidence in Calcutta, refused to go to Patna to give evidence; and that many difficult points of law were likely to arise at the trial; but these allegations were denied by the affidavits filed in opposition to the application. Held (MACHESON, J., doubting), the High Court had power under clause 29 of the Letters Patent to transfer the case for trial by itself. The Court, however, refused the application, on the ground that a sufficient case had not been made out for the exercise of the power of the Court. Per PHEAR, J.—A single Judge, sitting on the original side of the Court, has power to entertain an application for the removal of a criminal case from a Court in the mofussil to the High Court in the exercise of its extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction. QUEEN v. 22. ——— Proof of grounds for transfer.—Grounds necessary to obtain transfer when application is opposed by accused.—Before the transfer of a case from one Criminal Court to another can be made, in cases in which the accused objects to the transfer, the prosecution must bring forward the very best evidence to prove that a fair trial cannot be had in the district in which the case is ordinarily triable. 24. ——— Judge forming premature opinion.—Convenience.—Relieving judicial officer of case he wishes not to try.—The High Court does not exercise its powers of transfer in a case of forgery or perjury solely on the ground that the Judge who is to try the case has formed an opinion that the document has been forged or the perjury committed. But when the transfer can be made without risk of any improper interference with the course of justice, and without much inconvenience to the parties and witnesses, the transfer would be proper, not only as a fair concession to the accused person, but as a means of relieving the Judge from a position which he would himself desire to avoid. 3. —and ss. 67, 68.—Mortgage-decree.—Execution of decree.—A decree-holder, who had obtained a decree in the year 1880 against his judgment-debtor, declaring his title in certain mortgaged properties and authorising a sale, sought, after several previous applications keeping the decree alive, to execute his decree again on the 15th April 1885. The judgment-debtor objected, on the ground that no suit had been instituted or decree obtained under section 67 of the Transfer of Property Act as directed by section 99. Held that section 99 of that Act was not intended to apply to decrees already obtained declaring a lien and authorising a sale, but even assuming that it was so intended, section 2 of the Act saved the right of the decree-holder to obtain a sale of the mortgaged properties. *Ganga SAIKAI v. 4. —cl. (c), and s. 86.—Mortgage.—Conditional sale.—Suit for possession on foreclosure.—Beng. Reg. XVII of 1806, ss. 7, 8.—The procedure laid down in the Transfer of Property Act may be applied to the case of foreclosure of a mortgage executed before the Act came into operation, provided it be so applied as not to effect the rights saved by section 2, clause (c) of the Act. Where, therefore, under the provisions of Regulation XVII of 1806, notice of foreclosure had been served on a mortgagor by conditional sale, the mortgage having been executed and the foreclosure proceedings taken before the Transfer of Property Act came into force, and after the expiry of the year of grace the money not having been paid, the mortgagee instituted a suit for possession on foreclosure, and when such suit was defended by a third party who had purchased the mortgaged property at an execution sale and obtained possession before the completion of the foreclosure proceedings, and the necessary notice had not been served upon him,—Held that it was competent to the Court to apply the procedure prescribed by the Transfer of Property Act and grant the mortgagee a decree in the terms of section 86, substituting the period of "one year" for the period of "six months" therein mentioned. *Ganga SAIKAI v. of Act IV, 1882. Ganga Sahai v. Kishan Sahai, I. L. R., 6 All., 262, approved. Per Wilson, J.—It is a general rule in construing statutes that in matters of substantive right they are not to be so read as to take away vested rights, but that in matters of procedure they are general in their operation. There is nothing in the Transfer of Property Act from which it can be beyond reasonable doubt concluded that the Legislature intended to depart from this settled principle of legislation. Per TRIVELIAN, J.—There is a clear distinction between “relief” and the mode or procedure for obtaining such relief. The “relief” remains unaffected by a change of procedure. The “rights and liabilities” of a mortgagor and mortgagee, and the “relief” in respect of such rights and liabilities, are the same under Act IV of 1882 as they were before. A different procedure for enforcing such rights and obtaining such relief has, however, been adopted by the Transfer of Property Act. BHOBO SUNDARI DEBI v. RAKAL CHUNDER BOSE

2. — — and s. 2.—Condition against alienation.—Inheritance.—Deed of compromise.—Beng. Civil Courts Act, VI of 1871, s. 24.—In a suit for possession of certain shares in certain villages, a compromise was effected between the plaintiffs and B., the defendant. The terms of the compromise were embodied in a deed, the terms of which were (inter alia) as follows: “The said B. will hold possession as a proprietor, generation by generation, without the power of transferring in any shape. The following shares recorded in B.'s name shall not be transferred or sold in auction in payment of any debt payable by the said B., and in the event of their being transferred or sold, such transfer will be invalid, and the plaintiffs will then be entitled to set aside that transfer, and to obtain possession.” B. obtained possession of the shares allotted to him by the compromise. Subsequently, certain creditors of B. attached the shares referred to in the deed in execution of a decree obtained against the heirs of B. for money lent to B. on a bond, which he had executed while in possession of the shares, and in which he made a simple mortgage of them. The representatives of the plaintiffs in the suit in which the compromise was made objected to the attachment. Held by OLDFIELD, J., that the deed of compromise passed an absolute estate to B. and his heirs to which the law annexed a power of transfer, and that, in reference to section 10 of the Transfer of Property Act, the stipulation against alienation on B.'s part, or against sale by auction in execution of decrees against him, was void. Per MAHMOOD, J.—That the rule contained in section 10 of the Transfer of Property Act was not binding upon the Court in this case, inasmuch as the question was one of succession or inheritance, to be governed by section 24 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act; that it was for those objecting to the attachment to show that, under the Hindu law, the rights of B. in the property ceased to exist at his death, or that his estate devolved upon them free of his debts; that, the Hindu law being silent on this subject, the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience must be applied, to which, so far as transfer was concerned, effect was given by section 10 of the Transfer of Property Act; that the restriction imposed by the deed of compromise upon B.'s powers of alienating the absolute estate which it conferred upon him were opposed to the policy of the law and could not be recognised; and that B. must be held to have had an absolute estate which would devolve upon his heirs, and which could be sold in execution of decrees for his debts. *The Tagore Case, 9 B. N. purchased the same property pendente lite by a registered deed of sale. Held that there was here no competition between a registered and an unregistered instrument to which section 50 of the Registration Act could apply; and that N.'s purchase was, by section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, subject to the decree passed in B.'s favour. *BHAGWAN DAS v. 2. ——— Right of Suit.—Suit to set aside a document.—Actionable claim.—The co-sharers of a Hindu family, one of whom was a minor, owned certain immovable property in Munsiligunge near Dacca. In 1873 a perpetual lease of this property, executed by all the co-sharers except the minor, was granted to certain persons hereinafter called the lessees. On the minor's behalf the lease was executed by his elder brother as guardian of the minor. In May 1882, the minor, who had previously attained his majority, sued the lessees and his co-sharers for a declaration of his right to and for possession of his share in the said property, alleging that the perpetual lease was not binding on him. ## TREASURE TROVE.

1. ——— Beng. Reg. V of 1817.—Hidden treasure.—Duty of finder of hidden treasure.—Rights of finder, zemindar, and Government.—Some persons while digging a field in a certain zemindari found an earthen pot containing money. The finder and the zemindar both claimed to be entitled to the treasure, but the provisions of Regulation V of 1817, with regard to the finding of hidden treasure, were not complied with by them, and on this ground the Judge held they were not entitled to it. The Government claimed the money on the ground that the provisions of the Regulation had not been complied with, and it was made over to the Collector, an appeal to the High Court being dismissed. 3. ——— Mad. Reg. XI of 1832.—Right to idols discovered.—Right of owner of property.—Right of trespasser.—Omission to give notice to authorities.—Certain idols and vessels of copper were discovered accidentally by one Shaik Mira and his brother, while digging for stones, in a masonry building underneath the ground in a rather elevated part of the bed of the tank of Ammandur which belongs to the zemindari of Shivaganga. No intimation of the discovery was given by the finders to any public authority, but the Subordinate Magistrate, being informed of it by the police, proceeded to the spot and recovered the idols on the third or fourth day after they were found. They were then sent by the Magistracy to the Court of the Principal Sudder Ameen of Madras to be dealt with under the provisions of Regulation XI of 1832. Proclamation inviting claimants was made and petitions asking for possession of the idols were presented by three parties—1st, by the Rani of Shivaganga, on the ground that she was trustee of the Devasthanams on her estate, on which the idols had been found; 2nd, by the Stanikam of a temple in the village of Ammandur; and 3rd, by the finder. The Principal Sudder Ameen adjudged the idols to be the property of the Rani, and directed that they should be delivered to her. The finder appealed to the Civil Court, which reversed the decision of the Principal Sudder Ameen and directed delivery to the appellant. Against this order the Rani appealed to the High Court on the grounds—1st, that Regulation XI of 1832 only applies to cases in which the ownership of the property is undiscovered, and that, in the present case, the Rani was presumably the owner of the property found; 2nd, that a trespasser could not benefit by the finding. Held that the Rani had no title to what had been hidden in former times in the soil now belonging to her: that it had been found that these idols were hidden in a stone chamber specially appropriated to that purpose, and that she could not, therefore, claim a title as owner. As to the objection that the finder, being a trespasser, could not benefit,—Held that it was unnecessary to consider this objection unless the Rani had some right or title to the treasure, the same as she had in the soil of the tank: that she had not such right, and therefore that the contention as to the right to the property found lay between the finder and the State, which had made no claim. An objection, not before taken, was allowed to be argued at the hearing, —viz., that the formalities prescribed by the Regulation had not been complied with. Held that, though immediate notice had not been given by the finder, the property was within three or four days of its discovery in the hands of the authorities, who might be said, therefore, to have supplied the necessary notice. ## 1. GENERAL CASES.

1. ——— Landlord and tenant.—Damage to reversionary interests.—Right of landlord to sue for damage.—English law, Non-applicability of.—Many of the tenures in India are in the nature of a partnership, in which he to whom the land belongs participates with the cultivators in the crop. Therefore the law of England, that a landlord who has parted with his possession to a tenant cannot sue in trespass for damage to the property, unless the wrongful act complained of imports a damage to the reversionary interests, does not apply to landlords in India. VENKATACHALAM CHETTI v. ANDIAPPAN AMBALAM . . . I. L. R., 2 Mad., 232

2. ——— Wrongful distraint of crops.
—Distraint without notice.—Penal Code, s. 79.—Resistance to wrongful distraint.—A zemindar was held to be justified in exercising his right of private distraint of crops, if he had served the defaulters with written notices under Act X of 1859, section 116; and, in such a case, ryots, who knowingly resisted the distraint, were held to be not protected by the Penal Code, section 79. But, if the zemindar's people enter upon crops with intention of distraining without notice, the ryot-owners are justified in considering such action as trespass. QUEEN v. KANAIAT SHAHU [23 W. R., Cr., 40]

3. ——— Land taken by Government without formality prescribed by Beng. Reg. I of 1825.—Right of owner to maintain suit against Government for rent.—Lands were occupied by the Government for the purpose of making an embankment without the observance of the formality required by Regulation I of 1825. Held that the owner of the land was entitled to maintain a suit against Government for the rent of the land during the time he was kept out of possession. JOYNAIRIN BOSE v. COLLECTOR OF 24-PERGUNNAHS v. JOYNAIRIN BOSE . . . W. R., F. B., 18: 1 Hay, 122

4. ——— Suit to prevent trespass.—Suit to close doors.—Cause of action.—Possibility of injury.—No suit can lie to close doors opened by a person in his own wall, on the ground of a possibility of his committing trespass on the land of the plaintiff, or of his having actually committed such trespass. It will only lie when the opening of the doors is in itself such an irremediable injury that the plaintiff would not be sufficiently compensated by money damages. GIBBON v. ABDUR RAHMAN KHAN . . . 3 B. L. R., A. C., 411

5. ——— Sale for arrears of rent.—Sale under defective notice.—Reversal of sale for irregularity.—A., a zemindar, sold the right of B., his putnidar, for arrears of rent under Regulation VIII of 1819. This sale was subsequently set aside at the suit of B. for irregularity. A. then sued B. for the arrears under Act X of 1859, and B. pleaded limitation. Held that A. was not guilty of a trespass in bringing the property to sale under a defective notice, and A. could not have sued for arrears pending the proceedings to set aside the sale. 6. ——— Trespass on burial-ground.—Penal Code, s. 297.—Trespass by co-owner.—A., B., C., and D. were co-owners of a plot of land in which they were accustomed to bury their dead. A. and B. opened a saw-pit close to the graves of D.'s relatives, but did not disturb any of the graves. Held that they were wrongly convicted under section 297 of the Penal Code. 7. ——— Liability for trespass by defendants not actually committing it.—Committee under Act XX of 1889.—Held, in a suit under Act XX of 1883, that where the evidence showed that certain acts of trespass by one of the defendants were for the benefit and on behalf of the members of the committee, and were afterwards adopted and taken advantage of by them when they had acquired a full knowledge of those acts, the defendants for whose benefit the acts were done were liable for the trespass. *VENKATASA NAIKER v. ## 2. HOUSE-TRESPASS.

8. ——— Breaking open chest in house by inmate of house.—Penal Code, s. 457.—T, being an inmate of his uncle's house, broke open a chest and took out property from it. He was convicted of an offence under section 457 of the Penal Code. Held that he could not properly be convicted under that section. QUEEN v. TASUDUK HOSSEIN . . . . . 6 N. W., 301

9. ——— Breaking open door in execution of decree.—Penal Code, s. 456.—Where the accused persons, execution-creditors, in company with an authorised bailiff, broke open complainant's door before sunrise with intent to distrain his property for which they were convicted on a charge of larking house-trespass by night or house-breaking by night.—Held that as they were not guilty of the offence of criminal trespass, there being no finding of any such intent as is required to constitute that offence, and that as criminal trespass is an essential ingredient of either of the offences with which they were charged, the conviction must be quashed. IN THE MATTER OF JOTHARAY DAVAY . . . . .

10. ——— Cattle-yard.—Building used for custody of property.—Penal Code, ss. 442, 457.—The Court inclined to hold that a cattle-yard which was originally walled on four sides, and in one side of which, fallen out of repair, there was a gap stopped with a thorn, was a building used as a place for the custody of property, within the meaning of section 442 of the Penal Code. QUEEN v. DULLEE . . . . . 6 N. W., 307

11. ——— Entry into house with forged warrant of arrest.—Penal Code, s. 453.—Where A, gives with a forged warrant of arrest into a house, and takes away one of the inmates against his will under the authority of such warrant, he is guilty of house-trespass, by putting such person in fear of wrongful restraint, under section 452 of the Penal Code. QUEEN v. NUNDMOHUN SIKHAR . . . . . 12 W. R., Cr., 33

1. ——— Right of stoppage in transitu.

Contract for goods free on board.—Insolvency.—Goods contracted to be sold and delivered "free on board," to be paid for by cash or bills at the option of the purchasers, were delivered on board, and receipts taken from the mate by the lighterman employed by the sellers, who handed the same over to them. The sellers apprised the purchasers of the delivery, who elected to pay for the goods by a bill, which the sellers having drawn, was duly accepted by the purchasers. The sellers retained the mate's receipts for the goods, but the master signed the bill of lading in the purchasers' names, who, while the bill they accepted was running, became insolvent. In such circumstances, held by the Privy Council (reversing the decision of the Supreme Court at Bombay) that trover would not lie for the goods, for that on their delivery on board the vessel they were no longer in transitu so as to be stopped by the sellers; and that the retention of the receipts by the sellers was immaterial, as after their election to be paid by a bill the receipts of the mate were not essential to the transaction between the seller and purchaser. *FRAMJEE COWASJI v. 2. ——— Conversion.—Assignment of goods in certain warehouses on advances.—Seizure of goods.—Advance and assignment not simultaneous.—Incomplete assignment.—A bill of sale and assignment of goods described as being in certain warehouses belonging to A, was given by him for the loan of a sum expressed to have been paid on the day of the date thereof. Upon an action of trover brought against the assignee of A., who had seized the goods, it appeared in evidence that a portion only of the goods was in the warehouse specified at the date of the sale, and that no part of the loan was paid on that day, the same being discharged by instalments a few days afterwards: whereupon the Judges of the Supreme Court held that there had been no valid transfer, and consequently no conversion, and gave an interlocutory judgment in accordance with such view. Held by the Judicial Committee on appeal from that decision, and from an order refusing a new trial, that the decision was not justified by the evidence, and must be reversed and a new trial granted. MUTTYLOLL SEAL v. O'DOWDA [4 Moore's I. A., 382]

3. — Suit to recover notes lost by gambling.—Act XXI of 1848.—Illegal consideration.—Bond fide holder for value.—Trust for specific purpose.—The plaintiff, the manager of the Oriental Bank, placed in the hands of D., a broker, thirteen Government currency notes for Rs.1,000 each on D.'s representation that there was some Company's paper at a certain place which he could procure at a more reasonable rate than in the Calcutta market, if the money were given him to purchase it. If the Company's paper was not procurable, the notes were to be returned to the plaintiff. D. did not go to the place stipulated to purchase the Company's paper, but, meeting the defendant and others, he went into a house hired for gambling, and lost at cards, and paid away to the defendant some of the notes he had received from the plaintiff. The plaintiff now sued the defendant to recover the notes so entrusted to D., on the allegation that they had been entrusted by him to D. for a specific purpose, and that the defendant was not a bond fide holder for value. He (the plaintiff) stated in evidence "that if the paper had been bought, he would either have taken the papers at the most favourable market price for the bank, or have sold them and given D. the profit." Held, the plaintiff was entitled to recover. The defendant was not a bond fide holder for value. Per PAUL, J., in the Court below, and per NORMAN, J., on appeal.—The notes were especially entrusted to D. for the purchase of the Company's paper. Per PHEAR, J.—Upon the case put forward by the plaintiff, the transaction was a short loan, and not a bailment, and did not bear the character of a trust. But upon the evidence the notes were the property of the bank, and remained so in D.'s hands, and therefore the plaintiff was entitled to recover on behalf of the bank. *BULDEO NARAIN v. 1. — Creation of trust.—Owner of property constituting himself trustee.—Father opening an account in name of his son.—In order that the owner of a fund may constitute himself a trustee of it, he must either expressly declare himself a trustee, or must use language which, taken in connection with his acts, shows a clear intention on his part to divest himself of all beneficial interest in it, and to exercise dominion and control over it exclusively in the character of a trustee. From the single circumstance that an account has been opened by a father in his books in the name of his son, in which money is credited to the son, no presumption can be raised in India that the father intends to create a trust, in favour of his son, of the sums appearing in the account. ASHABAI v. TYED HAJI RAHMATULLA [I. L. R., 9 Bom., 115]

2. Subsequent disposition by settlor.—Disposition out of income.—Held that where a trust has been once perfectly created, although there may have been no transmutation of possession, it cannot be defeated by any subsequent act of the settlor, and apparent dispositions of portions of the property afterwards made by him to particular members of a family, the individuals constituting which have, as a class, a beneficial interest in the whole, must be regarded, not as gifts to them for creations of new trusts in their favour which he had no power to make, but as the acts of a trustee, and available only to the extent of the shares to which such persons may be entitled. But this applies only to dispositions out of the principal of the fund, and not to payments made out of its income to particular members of the family for their maintenance, or other expenses, as there may be circumstances which would render it inequitable to take an account of the latter, so as to charge such persons with what they may have received beyond their respective shares. JAYAKUT LITTHAT v. SOYA MAT. . . 2 Bom. 130; 2nd Ed., 133

3. Invalid declaration of trust.—Intended transfer of property.—Incomplete gift.—Evidence of interested parties.—The plaintiff, H., was the daughter of one K., deceased. K., some two years before his death in 1896, contemplated conferring a bounty to the extent of Rs.5,000 on each of his daughters, M. and H. For M. he bought a house at Zanzibar and settled it on her by a formal deed of settlement with various limitations. For H., too, he at first intended to buy a house; but finding houses in Bombay were too dear, he purchased a Government promissory note of the nominal value of Rs.5,000. The note was purchased in his own name, and a separate account of it opened in his books, headed "The account of one promissory note bearing 5 per cent. interest." This account he debited with all expenses over and above the Rs.5,000 incurred in and about the purchase of the note, such as for premium, carriage hire, &c., charging, moreover, 9 per cent. interest on these items of debit (which interest he carried as a gain to his general interest account) and he credited the account with the interest collected on the note from time to time, allowing interest at 6 per cent. on these items of credit. He kept also a separate account of the proceeds of the note, headed "The account of interest on one promissory note for Rs.5,000." The plaintiff stated that on the day when the note was bought her father K. brought it and showed it to her, saying, "This is your note; take it when you want it," and that she left it in his custody, saying, "I will take the note when my sons grow up and do business." Corroborative evidence—which, however, differed in details from, and was in some respects inconsistent with, the evidence of the plaintiff—was given by the plaintiff's son and husband, as well as by a fourth witness not interested in the case. No interest was ever paid to the plaintiff by K. himself, although he lived for two years after the purchase of the note; but after K.'s death his son recognised some claim in the plaintiff to the income of the sum of Rs.5,000 set apart by K., and he paid her sums, equivalent to the proceeds of the note, with more or less regularity down to the date of his death. The note itself, however, he sold without communicating with the plaintiff, and appropriated to himself the sum realised by the sale, although he continued the account of interest on the note, and even headed that account in H.'s name. Later still, after the death of K.'s son, his grandsons, the defendants, made similar payments for some time, but irregularly, and finally they refused to pay anything further. The plaintiff sued for the note or its value, and for arrears of interest accrued due thereon, asserting that the evidence established a declaration of trust in respect of the note. Held that the evidence was insufficient to establish a valid declaration of trust, for while K.'s books of account might very well be held to corroborate the testimony of a trust which was itself of a satisfactory description, they were insufficient of themselves to establish such a trust; while the oral testimony—which, if taken together and accepted as reliable, might well suffice to establish the acknowledgment of a trust—contained such discrepancies and was so generally misty and uncertain in character that it ought not to be accepted unless corroborated by undisputed facts in the case incapable of being explained except on the hypothesis advanced by the plaintiff. PER SARGENT, C. J.—The equitable doctrine of the transfer of ownership by acknowledgment of trust, when it is sought to establish it by oral evidence, requires to be applied in this country with the greatest caution; and we cannot doubt that to allow an acknowledgment of trust to be established by the evidence of interested parties, speaking as to conversations which took place seventeen years ago without the corroboration derived from other evidence pointing irresistibly in the same direction, would be to introduce a most dangerous mode of appreciating evidence in this country, and would offer a direct encouragement to perjury. The suit dismissed, but without costs, K.'s intention that H. should have the benefit of the Rs.5,000—to which, however, he had failed to give effect—being clear. HIRAI v. JAM MAHOMED KHALAKDINA. . I. L. R., 7 Bom., 239

4. Gift.—Regulates to complete gift.—Dower constituting himself trustee for donee.—Enforcement of trust by representatives of donee.—Trustee, Liability of.—The plaintiffs M. and B. were Parsis, and were married in the year 1851. The defendant was the widow of B. M., who was the father of the plaintiff B. The plaintiffs sued to recover from the defendant certain Government promissory notes which they alleged had been presented by B. to M. at her marriage for her sole and separate use. They alleged that the said notes, then of the nominal value of Rs.1,500, were endorsed in the name of the said B., and had been deposited by him for safe custody with M.'s grandfather, J.; that the said B. during his life used from time to time to receive the said notes from J. and draw the interest thereon for M.; that B. died in 1864, and that after his death the defendant, who was his widow and executrix, used to draw the interest for M.; that in 1869 she obtained possession of the said notes, and had

eversince continued in possession thereof, informing the plaintiffs that she was duly keeping them and collecting the interest for M.; that the plaintiffs had been living with the defendant until shortly before the present suit, and having then separated from her, had called upon her to hand over the notes and the accumulated interest, which she refused to do. The defendant denied that her husband B. had ever presented M. with Government notes for her separate use. She alleged that the notes which had been deposited by B. with J. were her own separate property, and not M.'s; that she and her husband had dealt from time to time with them, and that no interest was ever paid to the plaintiffs, or either of them, or for their benefit. She further stated that some of the notes which had been deposited with J. had been disposed of by B. in his lifetime with her consent; that in 1893 she obtained the remaining notes from J. and sold them, and applied the proceeds to her own benefit. At the hearing it was proved that, on the occasion of the plaintiff's marriage, presents were made to M. both by her own family and by that of the bridegroom R. Two accounts were then opened in the books of the firm of J. N. & Co. of which M.'s grandfather J. was a partner, one of which showed her acquisitions from her own family, and the other her acquisitions from the family of her husband. The latter account contained an entry (under date August 1854) to the effect that B., the father-in-law of M., had bought two Government notes for ₹1,500 in M.'s name, and had obtained the interest on them, which was duly credited to her. Other documents were produced, proved to be in the handwriting of B. and J., in which the said Government notes were alluded to as the property of M., and as having been purchased with her moneys. In 1894 B. died without having endorsed the notes over to M. or to any one in her behalf, and they remained in his name in the hands of J. until 1899, when the defendant got possession of them. Held that B. was liable to answer for the notes as a trustee, and after B. the defendant as his executrix and representative. In the documents put in evidence, B. alluded to the notes as M.'s property. His placing them, as he did, with M.'s grandfather, was itself an acknowledgment, according to the practice of the class to which he belonged, that the benefit was to be hers and her children's. He thus sufficiently admitted an obligation as trustee. The legal ownership was his, but he had acknowledged with sufficient clearness an obligation to hold and use the ownership for the benefit of another. Such a purpose clearly manifested constitutes a trust, and burdened with a trust the property passed from B. to the defendant as his representative, and could be enforced against her. Held, further, that having regard to the general practice among Parsis, the conduct of B. in relation to the notes showed that it was his intention that the property should be enjoyed in sole and separate use by M. and her children. MEERAI v. PEROEZBAI

6. ——— Recognition of trust.—Deed of gift. Validity of.—Oudh Estates Act (I of 1869), s. 8.

—A talookdar, deceased before annexation, had provided by will for the succession of his five widows, one at a time, to his estate, with remainder to a son of his nephew. Settlement was made with the senior widow after the Mutiny, a saund granted to her as talookdar, with full power of alienation, and her name was afterwards entered in the lists prepared under section 8 of the Oudh Estates Act, 1869. But certain of her acts were not explicable except on the understanding that she was abiding by the will. Held, in a suit by the widow next in order, that such senior widow had undertaken the trust of carrying out the provisions of the will, and that a deed of gift made by her transferred only her interest, which was an estate for life. *RAMANUND KUAR v. —The representatives of a testator, who has created trusts for religious or charitable purposes, in which the representatives are not personally interested, may institute proceedings to have abuses in the trust rectified, there being no officer in this country who has such power of enforcing the due administration of religious or charitable trusts by information at the relation of some private individual, as is possessed by the Attorney General in England. A suit for this purpose should not be admitted unless the plaintiff gives sufficient security for costs. In order that a decree for an account may be made in favour of the plaintiff in such a suit, he must allege substantially in his plaint that which must be a distinct breach of trust;

In 1877 K., the son of B., sued the representative of M., for possession of a moiety of such share, alleging, with reference to the statement recorded in the record of rights, that such moiety had vested in M.'s assignors in trust to surrender it to B. or his heirs on payment of a moiety of the sum they had paid on account of revenue, and paying into Court a moiety of such sum. Held that that statement could not be regarded as evidence of the alleged trust, and that, assuming that the alleged trust existed, the suit was barred by limitation. M. having purchased without notice of the trust and for valuable consideration. KAMAL SINGH v. 14. ——— Wajib-ul-urz.—Absent shareholders.—Held that a village administration-paper which provides for the surrender to absent shareholders on their return to the village of the lands formerly held by them does not necessarily constitute a valid trust in their favor, although it may be evidence of such a trust. In 1865 (Sambat 1921), at the settlement of the village, the following statement was recorded by the settlement officer in the wajib-ul-urz at the instance of H. and D., with whom the settlement was made, S. and his brother being absent from the village and having been absent for some ten years: "We, H. and D., are equal sharers of our 8 annas and S. and (his brother) of the other 8 annas in the village according to descent: ten years ago S. and (his brother) went away into Oriz; their present residence is not known; they have not left woman, child, or heir of any kind in the village: on that account the entire 16 annas of the village are in possession of us, H. and D. At the time of the preparation of the khewat we made a gift of 4 annas of our own eight annas to P. and have given him possession of 4 annas of the 8 annas belonging to S. and (his brother), keeping the remaining four annas in our own possession: when S. and

(his brother) return to the village, we three who are in possession shall give up the 8 annas share of the aforesaid persons." In March 1880 S. sued P. for possession of the 4 annas mentioned in the wajib-ul-urz as having been made over to him by H. and D. out of the 8 annas share belonging to S. and his brother. He based his suit upon the wajib-ul-urz, but did not expressly state that the share in suit had been entrusted to H. and D. on the understanding that it should be returned to him when he reclaimed it. The lower Appellate Court dismissed the suit as barred by limitation, on the ground that P.'s possession of the share in suit became adverse in 1866 or 1867, more than twelve years before the institution of the suit, when S., having returned to the village, had claimed the share and P. had refused to surrender it. On second appeal it was contended by S. that under the terms of the wajib-ul-urz P.'s possession was that of a trustee, and his possession could not be held to be adverse. Per SPANKIS, J.—That inasmuch as there was no direct evidence that the share in suit had been entrusted by S. to H. and D. on the understanding that it should be returned to him when he reclaimed it, and as such a trust could not be implied from the terms of the wajib-ul-urz, which amounted to nothing more than an acknowledgment of S.'s title and an offer to surrender possession when he returned, and as when he did return in 1866 or 1867 P. refused to surrender possession, S. was bound to have sued to recover the share in suit within twelve years from the date of such refusal, and as he had failed to do so, the suit was barred by limitation. Per PEARSON, J.—That although no mention was made in the wajib-ul-urz of such a trust as was contended for, yet the terms of that document strongly suggested the creation of such a trust. Having regard to the terms of the wajib-ul-urz, and to the fact that S. and his brother were not strangers to H. and D., nor merely co-sharers, but near blood-relations, probably residing together on the same premises and partners in agricultural labours, further inquiry should be made with the view of elucidating the nature of the acquisition of H. and D. of the share and of their subsequent possession. SIDHAR SAINI v. 19. — Statute of Frauds.—Stat. 29 Charles II., c. 3.—The plaintiff, who was the widow of G., sued the defendant, the executrix of J., to recover a sum of Rs. 324-9-6, part of the purchase-money of a house which had been sold by J. in his lifetime, and which the plaintiff alleged had been, shortly before his death, conveyed by her husband G. to J. in trust to sell and hold the proceeds in trust for G.'s family. The defendant denied the trust and insisted that J. had purchased the house from G. for valuable consideration. Both J. and G. were Parsis. Held that, even assuming that no consideration was given by J. to G. for the house, the plaintiff was not entitled to succeed. In the absence of consideration, the trust of the house, which was admittedly conveyed by G. to J., would have resulted to G., unless, under the provisions of section 7 of the Statute of Frauds (29 Charles II., Cap. 3), he (G.) had declared in writing some other trust which was to supersede the resulting trust in his own favour. No such declaration of trust in writing was proved. If, on the other hand, the trust did result to G., he, no doubt, might, as equitable owner of the house, have disposed of his interest by will. If he did so, the plaintiff had not qualified herself to sue as his representative. Probate had not been obtained of the will, and until the will was proved it could not be said that G. had made a particular declaration of trust by it. Nor without probate could the plaintiff take up the position of legal representative of her deceased husband entitled to enforce his rights, and, amongst others, his rights under the supposed resulting trust. Except as executrix or as administratrix the plaintiff could not recover property, or enforce rights equitably vested in her deceased husband. BAI MANICK-BAI v. BAI MERBAI . I. L. A. subsequently married, and, after his marriage, executed a deed of revocation, declaring that the trust-property should be held for himself absolutely. The trustees refused to hand over the trust-property, and A. thereupon instituted a suit to have the trust set aside. His wife was a minor, and there was no issue of the marriage. Held that, although there might be cases in which, where no other person but the settlor was interested, the deed might be regarded as a mere direction as to the manner in which the settlor's property should be applied for his benefit, and as such revocable by the settlor, yet that, in the present case, there being an infant beneficiary, the deed could not be revoked. *GOLAM YASSIN v. In order to secure certain money which it had borrowed by the issue of debentures, the D. Company on the 23rd November 1888 conveyed certain lands, &c., to three trustees, K., G., and D., by way of mortgage. With regard to the appointment of new trustees in case any trustee should die, &c., the indenture of mortgage provided that, in certain events, the surviving or continuing trustees might convene a meeting of the debenture-holders for the purpose of nominating a new trustee; and that at such meeting the election of such new trustee should be decided by a majority of votes of the debenture-holders present in person, each party having only one vote, and in case of an equality of votes, then the chairman of the meeting should have a casting vote. K., one of the trustees appointed under the deed, died on the 9th February 1886, leaving a will whereby he appointed three executors. At the time of his death K. was the holder of one moiety of the debentures, viz., 1,400 debentures of the value of ₹7,00,000. The two remaining trustees, G. and D., called a meeting of the debenture-holders for the 27th February 1886 to elect a trustee. Previously to the meeting and for the purpose of having the large interests of K.'s estate adequately represented, the executors of K. distributed some of the debentures in their hands, belonging to K.'s estate, among nominees for the purpose of voting at the meeting; and they also sold some of the debentures. Among the persons to whom debentures were sold were the first three plaintiffs. Pursuant to the notice convening the meeting, the plaintiffs and other persons to whom debentures belonging to the estate of K. had been given or sold, presented themselves and claimed to attend the meeting; but none of them, except the three executors (plaintiffs 4, 5, and 6) of K., were allowed to attend, and they were admitted only in their capacity as executors. Defendant No. 1 was chairman of the meeting, and he ruled that the three executors had a joint right, in their capacity as executors, to give one vote upon any proposition that might be submitted to the meeting. At the meeting it was proposed that the holders of the debentures, who claimed admission to the meeting, should be permitted to attend. The chairman ruled the motion irrelevant, and would not allow it to be put. The executors, therefore, withdrew from the meeting. After they had withdrawn, the third defendant, P., was elected a trustee. At the date of the meeting the executors had not obtained probate of K.'s will. On behalf of the defendants it was contended that P.'s election was valid; and that the persons to whom the executors had given or sold debentures belonging to K.'s estate had been properly excluded from the meeting of the 27th February, inasmuch as the executors had not at that time obtained probate, and, consequently, the title of their alienees to the debentures was still incomplete. Held that P. (defendant No. 3), had not been validly appointed a trustee to the indenture of the 23rd November 1883. Under that indenture, debenture-holders had the right to vote; and the debentures were payable to bearer. The fact that the executors had not at the date of the meeting obtained probate did not affect the rights of those to whom they had given or sold debentures, and such persons had, consequently, been improperly excluded from the meeting. MATHURADAS LOWJI v. This settlement was made, and under it a portion of the legacy was assigned to trustees, who did not execute the deed or undertake the trust, and no other trustee was substituted for them. O. G. & Co. at various times advanced money to J. S., and in acknowledgment received promissory notes from her for a portion of such advances; and in a suit by O. — (XXVII of 1866), s. 3.—Hindu trusts.—Equitable jurisdiction of High Court.—Appointment of new trustee.—Supreme Court Charter, 1823.—The High Court may exercise the summary powers conferred upon it by the Trustee Act (XXVII of 1866) in the case of Hindu trusts. Section 3 of the Trustee Act, which provides that the power and authority given by the Act to the High Court shall be exercised only "in cases to which English law is applicable," cannot be intended to limit the operation of the Act only to cases to which, in their whole extent, the law prevailing in England applies without qualification or reserve, as this would virtually exclude the Act in any case on which an Act of the Indian Legislature has any bearing. The cases referred to in the section must be cases to which English law is in some measure applicable, but in what measure is not indicated in the Act. English law must be regarded as applicable in the sense intended if the principles recognised by the English Equity Courts are applicable. At the date of the grant of the Charter to the Supreme Court of Bombay in the year 1823, English equity had become a system which would deal with a body of quasi-common law in a scientific manner and in obedience to known and uniform rules. When it applied its method to the determination or the constitution of a right, even based on the Hindu or Mahomedan law, it administered English law. In this sense "English law was applicable" at the date of the passing of the Trustee Act of 1866 to all cases in which peculiarly equitable doctrines had obtained recognition in the relations between the native inhabitants of Bombay. Those doctrines could not be employed to subvert the native substantive laws, but they afforded a means of ameliorating them by a system of rules borrowed from the English Court of Equity. Trusts are recognised in the Hindu as well as in the English system of law. But while the substantive Hindu law insists strongly on the suppression of fraud and the fulfilment of promises, it fails to furnish the detailed rules by which effect is to be given to its principles in cases of trust. If the Court is called on to give effect to a trust in any given case, it looks to the Hindu law of property to determine the estate of the trustee, but with reference to the duties of trustee and the rights of beneficiaries it is governed by the rules of English equity. There are no others that it can apply. In meeting an exigency, or in taking cognisance of a form of right not directly provided for in the Shastras, the Court, in exercising its jurisdiction under section 41 of the Charter of 1823, may apply Hindu law. But, taking Hindu law as one of its data, it applies "English law" also in the form of equity to all or nearly all the questions that arise. IN RE KAHANDAS NARRANDAS . I. L. R., 5 Bom., 154

Act XXVII of 1866, section 35, is analogous to 13 and 14 Victoria, Cap. 60, section 32. B., deceased, who had taken out letters of administration in England to the estate of his deceased brother, to hand over to him, the said G. B., the balance in question,—the said G. B. claiming to be the administrator of the domicile of the deceased, and, as such, to be entitled to all the personal assets of his estate wheresoever situate. Being in doubt as to whether he might safely accede to the request, the Administrator General of Bombay, by petition under section 43 of the Trustees and Mortgagees Act, XXVIII of 1866, submitted the question to the High Court for its opinion, advice, and direction. Held that the question being one of considerable difficulty and importance, and involving, moreover, in its decision questions which might seriously affect the rights of parties inter se, it was not a question such as was contemplated by section 43 of the Trustees and Mortgagees Act, XXVIII of 1866, nor one upon which the Court ought to give any opinion merely on an ex parte petition of this character. Where two opposite factions commit a riot, it is irregular to treat both parties as constituting one unlawful assembly, and to try them together, inasmuch as they do not have "one common object" within the meaning of section 141 of the Penal Code. *QUEEN v. [12 W. R., Cr., 75]

4. — Affray and unlawful assembly.—There is no ground for the distinction between an unlawful assembly as a premeditated act and an affray as a sudden one; for according to section 141 of the Penal Code, an assembly which was not unlawful when it assembled may subsequently become an unlawful assembly. A dispute arose and the Magistrate on inquiry ordered, under section 530 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, A. to be put in possession of the part of the land on which the edifice had been erected. B. subsequently brought a suit in the Civil Court to establish his title to joint possession of the whole parcel, and for a declaration that A. was not entitled to erect any edifice thereon; and he further prayed that such edifice should be removed. B. obtained a decree, whereupon his servants went on the land and pulled it down. They were charged before the Deputy Magistrate with having committed mischief, and on this convicted and fined. On the 8th October the accused, who, were the servants of B., found the men in the employ of A. were putting up this erection, a nawbat-khana, again, and accordingly protested against its erection, pulled down the bamboos, thrust aside the servants of A., throwing to the ground one man who was clinging to the bamboos. On the 9th October 1877 these servants were charged before the Magistrate with rioting, and convicted under section 147, Penal Code. Held, per JACKSON, J., that, as the accused were not on the land in question as members of an unlawful assembly, nor for any unlawful purpose, the —Hereditary tenure.—Evidence of possession or receipt of rent.—There is no long uniform current of decisions at Madras sufficient to show that every polliam, not permanently settled, is necessarily only a tenure for life, or at the will of the Government. Each case must depend upon its own particular circumstances. The existence of a proprietary estate therein, and the tenure by which it has been held, are matters judicially determinable on legal evidence. In India the proof of possession or receipt of rent by a person who pays the land revenue immediately to Government is prima facie evidence of an estate of inheritance in the case of an ordinary zemindari. The evidence is still stronger if it be proved that the estate has passed on one or more occasions from ancestor to heir. There is no difference in this

1. SUITS.

1. Question of valuation.—Procedure.—Whether or not a suit has been properly valued is a preliminary question which ought to be disposed of before the case goes to trial. JOYTARA DASSEE v. MAHOMED MOBARUCK
 [I. L. R., 8 Calc., 975; 11 C. L. R., 399

2. Computation of value.—Stamp duty.—Valuation of subject-matter for purpose of determining jurisdiction.—The valuation of a suit for the purposes of stamp duty, and the valuation of the subject-matter of the suit for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of the Court in appeal, are two different things. The value of the suit for the purposes of stamp duty is fixed by certain rules which determine an artificial value for those purposes. The value of the subject-matter of a suit on appeal, on which depends the jurisdiction of the several grades of civil suits, is the actual value of the property in litigation. AUKHIL CHUNDER SEN ROY v. MOHINY MOHUN DASS

3. Valuation for purposes of jurisdiction.—Court Fees Acts.—The valuation of suits for the purpose of jurisdiction, is perfectly distinct from their valuation for the fiscal purpose of court fees. Therefore court Fees Acts, which are fiscal enactments, are not to be resorted to for construing enactments which fix the valuation of suits for the purpose of determining jurisdiction. DAYACHAND v. HEMCHAND DHARAMCHAND

It does not contemplate a case on which the Court refuses to hear a suit on the ground that a sufficient court fee has not been paid. See *Ajoodhya Pershad Singh v. Gunga Pershad, I. L. 9. ———— Cases in which revenue cannot be calculated.—Market value.—In cases where, for the purpose of the stamp on an appeal, it is impracticable to ascertain accurately what portion of permanent revenue has been assessed on the lands in dispute in a suit, the appellant should furnish to the Registrar a memorandum giving an estimate of the market value and the date on which it has been calculated. 12. ———— Character of suit.—Valuation altering with wording of plaint.—A suit should be valued according to its real character. 15. ——— Valuation of plaint presented again after return of plaint.—Between of plaint for want of jurisdiction.—Second presentation under Court Fees Act, 1870.—Act XXVI of 1867, Plaint presented under.—Where a plaint in a suit was originally presented, when Act XXVI of 1867 was in force, in the Court of the Munsif, and, being above the amount for which that Court had jurisdiction, was returned for presentation to the Subordinate Judge, and when presented there it was admitted and heard, and afterwards it was found that under Act VII of 1870, the Court Fees Act which was then in force, the lower standard of valuation necessary would have made it cognisable by the Munsif,—Held that by analogy to the cases which decide that the date of a suit for the purposes of limitation is the date when the plaint was originally presented, the suit must be assumed to have been brought when the plaint was filed in the Munsif's Court, and therefore was properly valued under Act XXVI of 1867. *KHELILAT CHUNDER GHOSH v. 28. ——— Plaint insufficiently stamped.—Court Fees Act, VII of 1870, s. 12.—The law allows a plaintiff in some cases to rectify a mistake as to stamp duty, but this privilege is subject to qualification, and does not exist where the relief to be granted is altogether distinct from that originally sought. In such a case, the plaintiff should not be allowed to put an additional stamp on his plaint. Where a plaintiff sued on a stamp of ₹10 for a declaration of his title to land worth ₹19,000, in the possession of the defendant, it was held that the suit could not be maintained, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to put an additional stamp on the plaint and convert his suit into one for possession. *CHOKALINGAPESHA NAICKER v. Whether a suit be merely to obtain a decree, declaratory of the plaintiff's title to, or whether it be to establish his title, coupled with a prayer for possession of, the rights of a deceased person, the inheritance is the object in dispute. 30. ——— *Court Fees Act, s. 12, and sch. A suit by a person against whom an order has been made, under section 246 of Act VIII of 1859, disallowing his claim to the attached property, need not be valued according to the value of the property, but can be brought on a stamp of ₹10, under Act VII of 1870, schedule II, article 17 (iii). *CHUNIA v. The defendants objected to the valuation of the suit and to the suit being heard by the Civil Courts, no proceedings having first been instituted before the revenue authorities. Held that such a suit should be considered to be one for a declaratory decree, or for something in the nature of an injunction, and that, therefore, the plaint should not be stamped according to the value of the entire estate. *JOYNATH ROY v. This portion of the claim he valued, under clause 2 of section 7 of the Court Fees Act, at ten times the amount of the value claimed for one year. The value of the claim thus stated exceeded the pecuniary limit of the jurisdiction of the District Munsif. The Subordinate Judge held that this portion of the claim was not actionable, inasmuch as the right to the emoluments was conditional upon services to be rendered, and did not fall under clause 2 of section 7 of the Court Fees Act, not being a fixed sum payable periodically, and therefore he held that the plaint was improperly valued, and that the suit was not within his jurisdiction, and that the plaint should be returned to be presented to the proper Court. S. sued M. in the Court of the District Munsif, and prayed for a decree for the removal of M. as manager and for the appointing of himself as manager of the property. M. objected that the Court had no jurisdiction, because the property exceeded in value the pecuniary limits of the jurisdiction of the District Munsif's Court as fixed by section 12 of the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1878. Held that S. was not entitled to sue for the removal of M. without praying for his ejectment from the property, and that, as the property exceeded in value Rs. 2,500, the District Munsif had no jurisdiction. *SONACHALA v. In 1861 another co-owner had, in a suit to which some only of the present defendants were parties, obtained a decree for the periodical allotment of the lands; and in 1863 such decree, which clearly recognised the existence and validity of the custom, was affirmed on appeal. Held that the plaintiff need not pay an institution fee on the aggregate amount of the value of all the shares in the village, and that the stamp on the plaint need only be proportioned to the value of the property actually sued for. *VENKATASAMI NAYAKKAN v. 52. ———— Jurisdiction.—Subject-matter of suit.—Act XIV of 1869, s. 25.—What prima facie determines the jurisdiction of a Court is the claim, or subject-matter of the claim, as estimated by the plaintiff; and the determination having given the jurisdiction, the jurisdiction itself continues, whatever the event of the suit. And this is so notwithstanding a bona fide error in the estimate made by the plaintiff, but plaintiff cannot oust the Court of its jurisdiction by making unwarrantable additions to the claim which cannot be sustained, and which there is no reasonable ground for expecting to sustain. The subject-matter of a claim, within the meaning of section 25 of Act XIV of 1869, is the specific thing sought by the plaintiff. In a partition suit, where the plaintiff seeks for a division and separate possession of his share in joint property, it is the share so claimed which is the subject-matter of the claim, and not the whole of the joint property which is sought to be divided. *LAKSHMAN BHATEKAR v. 62. ———— Jurisdiction of Munsif.—The integrity of a joint usufructuary mortgage having been broken in consequence of the mortgagee having purchased the right of several of the mortgagors, one of the mortgagors sued in the Munsif's Court to recover his share of the mortgaged property, alleging that the mortgage had been redeemed. The value of the mortgagee's right, quid such share, was under R1,000. The mortgagee set up as a defence to such suit that a bond, under which a sum exceeding R1,000 was due, had been tacked to the mortgage, and that until such sum had been satisfied the plaintiff could not recover possession of his share. Held, on the question whether the Munsif had jurisdiction, that the value of the subject-matter of the suit was the value of the mortgagee's right, quid the plaintiff's share; and as the value of such right did not exceed R1,000 even if it were held that the mortgaged property was further incumbered with such bond, such suit was cognisable in the Munsif's Court. A., the purchaser of the share of S., brought a suit for recovery of possession of one third of the mortgaged property against the mortgagees who had purchased the shares of P. and T., the other mortgagors. Held by the Full Bench with reference to section 7, article ix of the Court Fees Act (VII of 1870), that the defendants-mortgagees having bought up the equity of redemption of two of the mortgagors, and pro tanto extinguished their mortgage-debt, and so by their own act empowered the plaintiff to sue for redemption of one third of the property, the principal money now secured as between them and the plaintiff must now be regarded as one third of the original mortgage amount, namely, Rs.1,333-5-4, more particularly as fiscal enactments should, as far as possible, be construed in favour of the subject. Balkrishna Dhandu v. Nagvekar, I. L. R., 6 Bom., 324, referred to. Held, also, with reference to the terms of section 20 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act (VI of 1871), that the “subject-matter in dispute” in suits of this kind was the amount of the mortgage-debt and the mortgagee’s rights which were sought to be paid off; that from the terms of the plaint it was obvious that in the present case the subject-matter in dispute was Rs.1,333-5-4, the one third of the original mortgage sum of Rs.4,000; and that it was therefore beyond the limits of the Munsif’s pecuniary jurisdiction. Per MAHMOOD, J.—It is a rule of construction that while in cases of taxation everything must be strictly construed in favour of the subject, in questions of jurisdiction the presumption is in favour of giving jurisdiction to the highest Court. Civil Courts Act (VI of 1871), s. 22*—The plaintiffs sued for the possession of certain immovable property, alleging that they had mortgaged such property to the defendants, and that the mortgage-debt had been satisfied out of the profits of the property. The defendants set up a defence to the suit which raised the question of the proprietary right of the plaintiffs to the property. The value of the mortgagees' interests in the property was below Rs. 5,000; the value of the mortgaged property exceeded that amount. On appeal to the High Court from the original decree of the Subordinate Judge in the suit, it was contended that the appeal from that decree lay to the District Court and not to the High Court. Held that the "subject-matter in dispute," within the meaning of section 22 of VI of 1871, was the mortgage and the mortgagees' rights under it, and that, the value of this being only Rs. 2,000, the appeal should have been preferred to the District Court. Not being able to substantiate this ground in the first Court, the plaintiff, on appeal, raised a new ground,—viz., that the alienation was bad, because, under the Mitakshara law, the owner of a share in a joint ancestral estate is not competent to alienate his share without the consent of the other heirs. Held that such variance could not be allowed, and that the plaintiff must prove his case as laid in the plaint. *SRI PRASAD v. ants to purchase, certain indigo seed, but that the defendants had refused to take delivery, although the plaintiffs were ready and willing to deliver the same. Upon the evidence of the plaintiffs, it appeared that there was no contract as alleged in the plaint, but the contract, as stated by them, was that they (the plaintiffs) were to purchase seeds as agents for the defendants. The Judge dismissed the suit on the ground that the plaintiffs were bound to prove their case as stated in the plaint. Held that that the suit ought not to have been dismissed on that ground. The issues raised admitted of the true question being tried,—viz., whether, under the circumstances, the defendants were liable to pay the price of the seed; and if they did not, the Court ought to have amended the issues, or framed additional ones. The object of the plaint is merely to bring the matter in dispute before the Court, but it is for the Court, upon the statements before it, to determine the real issue between the parties. *ARBITRATOR v. A plaintiff must be limited to the case which he puts forward in his plaint, but he may put forward an alternative case in his plaint from the commencement, as the defendant then will know that he has more than one case to meet, and will not be taken by surprise. *LAKSHMI-BAI v. The Principal Sudder Ameen made a decree for the restoration of the lands according to the terms of the mortgage produced by the defendants. The Civil Judge reversed the decision. Held, on special appeal, that the Principal Sudder Ameen was justified in making the decree which he gave, it not being inconsistent with the relief prayed for by the plaintiff. *UNIONA KANDYIE KUNHI KUTTI NAIR v. 23. — Suit for redemption.—Evidence given of other mortgage than the mortgage in respect of which suit brought.—Evidence Act, I of 1872, s. 35.—Statement of a survey officer as to entry as occupant how far admissible.—The plaintiff sued to redeem certain lands alleged to have been mortgaged by his ancestor to the ancestors of the defendants in 1823. At the hearing the deed of mortgage, in respect of which the suit was brought, was produced, but another mortgage of about the same date was produced and proved by the plaintiff. The lower Courts passed a decree for the plaintiff. The defendants appealed. Held (reversing the decree of the lower Courts) that where a particular instrument is sued on as the basis of a right, it is incumbent on the plaintiff to establish his case on that particular cause of action, not on a cause of action merely bearing the same common name, or of the same description, and so included in the same class. Under section 35 of the Evidence Act, I of 1872, a statement by the survey officer that the name of this or that person was entered as occupant would be admissible if relevant, but it would not be admissible to prove the reasons for such an entry as facts in another case. GOVIND-RAY DESHMUKH v. RAGHO DESHMUKH
[I. L. R., 8 Bom., 543]

24. — Change of nature of suit.—The plaintiff sued to redeem a mortgage, alleging that it was made in the year A.D. 1821 for Rs25. The defendant admitted the mortgage, but alleged that it was made in A.D. 1791 for Rs110, and contended that the suit was barred by limitation. The Subordinate Judge held that the mortgage had been made for the amount and at the date alleged by the defendant, but that the suit was not time-barred, as the mortgagor's title had been acknowledged by the mortgagee within the period of limitation. He accordingly made a decree for redemption on terms consistent with the plea of the defendant, but opposed to that of the plaintiff. On appeal, the Assistant Judge agreed with the first Court as to the merits of the case, but reversed its decree on the ground that the plaintiff was not entitled to succeed on a state of facts inconsistent with the case set forth in the plaint, observing that a plaintiff ought not to be allowed to change his cause of action. Held by the High Court, on second appeal, that the decree made by the first Court in favour of the plaintiff did not in any way proceed upon a cause of action different from that made in the plaint, and that the cause of action remained the same,—namely, the right of the mortgagor to redeem from a mortgage. A plaintiff ought not to be allowed to alter his case so as to convert a suit of one character into a suit of another and inconsistent character. LAKSHMAN BHISAJEE v. HARI DINKAR DESAI . I. L. account having been taken of what was due on the mortgage, the mortgagor might at any time make a tender of such mortgage-money with interest up to date, and require that the land should be restored. The plaintiff, representing the interest of the original mortgagor, sued for redemption of the mortgage, treating the above decree as regulating the rights of the parties from the time when it was made. Held that the plaintiff not having sought by his plaint to redeem the mortgage, or alleged that there had been acknowledgment, could not in the present appeal fall back on a right to redeem such mortgage, although the latter might be within limitation, as that would be to make a case different from the one tried and decided in the Courts below. Accordingly, the suit had been properly dismissed. HARI RAVI CHIT-LUNKAR v. SHAFUJI HOLMASI SHET

The property was not hypothecated as security for the mortgage-money. Held that it was inequitable to dismiss the suit for that reason, the defendant having been guilty of a breach of the contract of mortgage, for which the plaintiff was entitled to compensation; that although the plaintiff did not expressly claim such relief, yet, regard being had to the pleadings and evidence in the case, the suit might be treated as one for such relief; and that on estimating the compensation which should be awarded, the principal mortgage-

29. ———— Unfructuary mortgage.—Suit to enforce hypothecation.—Compensation for breach of contract.—Money lent.—Money held and received for plaintiff's use.—An instrument of mortgage provided that the mortgagors should deliver possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and the latter should retain possession, setting off profits against interest, until the former should redeem, by payment of the principal sum, which they were at liberty to do in the month of Jaith in any year they pleased. The mortgagors having failed to deliver possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagee sued them for the principal sum and interest, asking for enforcement of lien. The instrument of mortgage did not contain any hypothecation of the property. Held that, although the suit, so far as it sought enforcement of lien, wholly failed, there being no hypothecation of the property, yet it was not equitable or proper that, as regards the money-claim, the mortgagee should be relegated to a fresh suit, inasmuch as a cause of action was disclosed, whether the suit was regarded as one for compensation in damages for breach of contract, or for money lent and received for the plaintiff's use, or for money lent, and the suit should be determined on its merits. SHEO NARAIN v. This plea was put in issue in the first Court, which found that some papers had been delivered as alleged, and made a decree ordering the delivery of certain other of the papers. On appeal, the attention of the Judge was principally directed to the point whether the receipt of the papers by the plaintiff's son was a receipt by him as plaintiff's agent. Held that this point was a departure wholly from the case made below, and ought not to have been entertained on appeal. PUNCHANU ROY v. The Court of first instance found that the plaintiff's allegation of possession was false, and dismissed the suit. Held, on appeal, that the suit was rightly dismissed, for though a plaintiff who brings forward a bona fide case, which he proves in substance, though not in form, would be assisted by the Court, in the absence of such special circumstances no such assistance would be afforded. *TERLITFUT SINGH v. Subsequently he ousted the plaintiff from certain lands, and hence the suit by the plaintiff for recovery of possession thereof, on the ground that the property in dispute was a lakhmiri tenure created by the Raja of Tippera, and that the plaintiff was owner thereof, partly by purchase and partly by inheritance. The lower Appellate Court found as a fact that the late shikmidar, and not the Raja, had granted the lands in dispute as brannat, but not in favour of the person through whom the plaintiff claimed. The Court, however, passed a decree in favour of the plaintiff, as he had been unlawfully dispossessed. Held that the plaintiff having failed to prove the case as set up by him, and upon which he claimed, could not be entitled to a decree upon grounds other than those stated in the plaint. *ISWAR CHANDRA CHUCKERBUTTY v. had appointed N. to act in the matter of the agency, for money belonging to it which H. had paid N. for the purposes of the agency, and which was not accounted for by N., claiming the same on the ground that N. had been appointed to act as a sub-agent without authority. The lower Appellate Court found that N. had been appointed by H. to act in the matter of the agency with authority, but, instead of dismissing the suit with reference to this finding, gave the plaintiff bank a decree against H. on the ground that he had not exercised ordinary prudence in selecting N. as an agent for his principal. Held that, inasmuch as the plaintiff bank had not claimed relief on the ground that H. had failed in his duty in naming N. as an agent for his principal, but on the ground that N. had been appointed without authority, and had failed to prove its case, the suit should have been dismissed. *HAMILTON v. 58. ———— Suit for rent on unstamped lease.—Failure to prove lease.—Right to recover damages for use and occupation.—The plaintiff alleged that he had given possession to the defendant of a certain estate, in consideration of the payment by the defendant of annual rent for a term of five years; that the defendant had paid the rent for the first three years of the term, but had neglected to pay any for the last two years, and that since the expiry of the term the defendant had remained in possession; and he claimed to recover possession of the property and a certain sum for its use and occupation by the defendant. He also claimed to recover the same sum as damages for the retention of the estate by the defendant, from the date up to which the defendant had last paid rent. The agreement between the parties was contained in certain letters which were unstamped. Held that although the claim to relief made by the plaintiff on the basis of the contract must fail, because there was no evidence of the contract on which the Court could act, yet he could fall back on his claim to recover damages for the use and occupation of the land, as the defendant could not defend his possession, being equally incompetent with the plaintiff to rely on the terms of a contract of which he could not give proof, and as he did not deny the use and occupation alleged, he had no answer to the claim for damages. *MAAGIVERON v. 65. ———— Failure to prove right to pottah.—Right to have fair and equitable rate of rent fixed as occupancy ryots.—The plaintiffs sued as ryots to obtain a pottah corresponding with a kabuliat which they said had been taken from them by the defendants, who were 12-anna shareholders in the land, and, according to an alleged promise, to give them a pottah. The plaintiffs failed to make out the ground on which they relied, but the lower Appellate Court, being of opinion that the plaintiffs had made out a right of occupancy under the rent law and were entitled to obtain a pottah from the zemindar at a fair and equitable rate of rent, and finding no evidence as to what such a rate would be, gave them a decree at the old rate. Held that the decision was erroneous, as there was no evidence on which the question of a fair and equitable rate could be determined, and as it rested on a ground not taken by the plaintiffs, who came into Court on a special contract. If the plaintiffs' right to a pottah had rested on the ground of their being occupancy ryots, they might claim a pottah from all the 16-anna shareholders, who ought to have been made parties and the case remanded for trial by the first Court. Thus, where a plaintiff allowed the Court below to decide the case as if his contention was an ordinary case between a landlord suing to enhance and a tenant resisting his claim, and the statement of the defendant divulged the material circumstances of the case that the plaintiff's estate was let in farm, the High Court refused to allow the plaintiff on appeal to rest upon an alleged stipulation in a farming lease, the existence of which he altogether suppressed in the Court below, reserving to him the right of collecting from the tenantry an enhanced rent during the currency of the farming lease. HUBO SOONDUREY v. Among other properties plaintiff claimed one fifth share in a talook, not as a debutter property, but, in right of her husband, as her absolute property. The first Court found that this share was the property of a certain idol, and held that she had not maintained the allegation in her plaint, and even if entitled to it in her right of joint shebait, she could not recover in that capacity, as she had not framed her plaint in that way and had not sued as shebait. The plaintiff failed to prove the jumabundi. Held, the plaintiff must, if he accepted the admission of the defendant at all, accept it as a whole, and was therefore only entitled to a decree for Rs15, and not to a decree for all the years for which he claimed rent at Rs13 per annum. *BONOMALKE CHURN MYTEE v. The plaintiff brought a suit for arrears of rent on a new agreement alleged to have been entered into by the plaintiff and the defendant, whereby the latter agreed to pay a higher rate per bigha. The lower Appellate Court found that the new agreement had never, in fact, been entered into, and gave a decree for the old rate of rent without going into the question whether it was a fair rent or not. Held that the decision was correct. SUFDAK REZA v. The lower Appellate Court, agreeing in the first Court's view of the facts, and finding that the defendant admitted that he owed rent in money, decreed the claim to the extent of the admission. Held that the lower Appellate Court was right, and that the reservation of right by the first Court was of doubtful operation. BIBHEEJAN v. 93. ——— Suit for ejectment.—Entry under unregistered lease.—Holding over.—Landlord and tenant.—Proof of terms of lease.—Decree for rent upon admission of different tenure by defendant.—The plaintiff sued in 1881 to recover certain land and arrears of rent from the defendant, alleging that the defendant's ancestor entered on the land as a tenant in 1865, under a lease for five years, which was not registered. The defendant denied the lease of 1865, admitted that she was the tenant of the land, but denied that she could be ejected, and claimed to deduct from the rent certain emoluments. Held (1) that the plaintiff could not prove the tenancy alleged in the plaint, inasmuch as the lease of 1865 was not registered, and, therefore, could not eject the defendant; (2) that the plaintiff was entitled, upon the defendant's admission, to recover from the defendant, in this suit, the amount of rent admitted to be due, and no more. NANGALI v. ## 1. BILLS OF SALE.

1. ———— Effect of execution of bill of sale without delivery.—Specific performance.

It is very questionable in any case whether the effect of the execution of a bill of sale by a Hindu vendor is to pass an estate, irrespective of the actual delivery of possession. Where the vendor sells an estate of which he is not in possession, in consideration of advances to enable him to sue for its recovery, it is not open to the purchaser, after failing to complete his part of the contract, to claim specific performance and delivery of the recovered estate on tendering the balance of the purchase-money. *PRABHU SEN v. 2. ———— Suit to compel transfer of property.—When a bill of sale, though signed and registered, has not been delivered, and no part of the purchase-money has been paid, the vendor cannot be compelled to complete the transfer. LALLA INDUREET LALL alias GUJARPUR PERSHAD v. JEMOORA

. . . . . 5 W. R., 248

3. ———— Incomplete contract.—A bill of sale, though duly executed, was not delivered to the purchaser, but was deposited with a third party, to be held by him until the purchaser should perform certain acts, the performance of which was the consideration for the sale. The purchaser subsequently by a trick got possession of the bill of sale before he had performed all the acts in question. Held that, under such circumstances, no effect could be given to the bill of sale as against the vendor, so that a suit for possession of the lands covered by it would not lie. RAJ CHUNDER CHOWDREY v. RAJ NATH CHOWDREY

[W. R., 1864, 222

4. ———— Vendor under bill of sale remaining in possession.—Allegation of fraud.

Suit to set aside bill of sale.—When a person grants a bill of sale to another person absolute in its terms, he cannot sue to have it set aside on the ground that he has all along remained in possession; and if he alleges fraud in the contract, and adduces the fact of non-payment of the consideration-money as evidence of fraud, he will be bound to show proof of non-payment. TEKAJI MBERAJ SINGH v. JOY-MUNGUL SINGH . . . 1 Ind. Jur., N. S., 78

5. ———— Bill of sale as construed by intention of parties.—Right of purchaser to sue.

—Cases will often arise in which, though a bill of sale may in terms purport to convey the property itself, yet it is clear upon the face of the instrument that the intention of the parties was to convey the right of entry or the equity of redemption, and nothing more. In such cases the Court should not lay stress on the mere terms of the instrument, but give effect to the intention of the parties, and recognise the purchaser's right of action to eject the trespasser or to redeem the mortgage. BAI SURAJ v. DALPAT-RAJ DATASHANKAR . . . I. L. R., 6 Bom., 380

2. BREACH OF COVENANT.

6. ———— Covenant to restore estate to original owner or heirs at fixed price

before selling to another.—Sale under reservation to keep in actual possession or re-sell it to vendor at fixed price.—Subsequent alienation.—Right of reconveyance.—Where a share in an estate had been sold under a stipulation that the purchaser should possess it himself as landlord, or, if desirous of parting with it, should restore it to the original owner or his heirs at a fixed price; and the purchaser, having been restrained by this agreement from selling off this property to a third person, had, on his retirement to England, given other persons a farming lease of it for fifteen years, Held that as the object of the original stipulation was to secure the constant possession of the share to someone with whom the original owner or his heirs, who still retained the residue of the estate, could keep up friendly relations, the grant of the farmer's lease was a violation of the covenant; and that the heirs of the original owner were entitled to have the share in suit conveyed to them at the stipulated price. RAM-NATH SEN LUSHKUR v. WISE . . . 25 W. R., 378

7. ———— Covenant repugnant to interest created.—Contemporaneous "ikramanah."—Condition restraining alienation.—M., a cosharer in a village, transferred to A., another co-sharer, a 2 annas share by deed of sale. Upon the same date A. executed an ikramanah in which he agreed that he would not collect the rents of the 2 annas transferred to him, that he would not ever demand partition of that share, and that he would not alienate or mortgage it or otherwise exercise proprietary rights over it. It was further provided that in the event of A. committing any breach of covenant the sale should be avoided, and the proprietary rights in the 2 annas share should re-vest in M. Held that the deed of sale and the ikramanah must be regarded as recording one single transaction,—i.e. they must be read together as stating the nature of the transaction entered into upon that date between the plaintiff and the defendant, which on the face of it professed to be a sale of a 2 annas share to the other by the former; and that, in this view, it was clear from the ikramnamah that the proprietary title created by the sale-deed was cut down to nil, and limitations placed upon it which rendered it useless as a proprietary right. Sital Pershad v. Luckmi Pershad, I. L. R., 10 Cal., 30, referred to. MAHAM DAS v. AJUDHIA. I. L. R., 8 All., 452

3. BREACH OF WARRANTY.

8. ——— Suit on warranty.—Knowledge by purchaser of title being doubtful.—A purchaser, aware of the doubtful character of the title to the estate he is about to purchase, is justified in taking a guarantee from the seller, who cannot successfully plead to a suit on the guarantee that the purchaser was aware of the facts which induced him to stipulate therefor. FATHOO, LAL v. RADHIKA DOSS

[3 N. W., 106]

9. ——— Sale of whole title.—Failure of title.—Suit for money had and received.—A vendor legally conveying all his title cannot be sued for money had and received, although the title proved defective. Accordingly, where the plaintiff bought two kharan claims, and sued upon them unsuccessfully.—Held that he could not recover the purchase-money from his vendor's representatives, on the ground that the consideration for the payment had failed. MUHAMMAD MOHIDIN v. OTTATIL UMMACHEE

[1 Mad., 390]

10. ——— Implied warranty.—Warranty of title by vendor or mortgagor.—Right to sue for damages.—A seller or mortgagor must always be held impliedly to warrant the title of the property sold or mortgaged; and if it be found that the title is defective, the vendee or the mortgagee can sue for damages or loss on the breach of implied contract, although there may be no express agreement for title. DWARKA DASS v. RUTUN SINGH

[2 Agra, 199]

11. ——— Description published in advertisement.—Warranty of title.—Misrepresentation.—Fraud, Proof of.—A zemindar (A.) gave certain villages in putni to B. and received consideration-money and rent from him, but B. never got possession of them, nor derived any benefit from the putni, it having been found that the villages belonged to a third party as lakhirajdar, who obtained a decree against A. in a suit to which B. was made a party. A. had published an advertisement setting forth a description of the property, and calling upon intending purchasers to come forward. Held that the advertisement published by A. setting forth a description of the villages was substantially an implied warranty of title and would make him responsible to purchasers deceived by such misrepresentation; and fraud having been shown, the absence of a stipulation to refund would not protect A. from refunding. Held that, in cases like this, it would be a sufficient proof of fraud to show that the fact (of ownership) as represented was false, and that the person making the representation had a knowledge of the fact contrary to it. NILMOHEE SINGH v. GORDON, STUART, & Co. . . . 9 W. R., 371

See KHELVUT CHUNDER GHOSH v. KRISTO GOBIND DEB. . . . 18 W. R., 276

12. ——— Right to sue on warranty of title.—Right to refund of consideration.—A buyer may at once sue on a warranty of title if he can show that the seller has not a good title in accordance with his undertaking, and that he has sustained loss in consequence. Sentia.—It does not follow as a matter of course that on proof of breach of warranty the buyer is entitled to receive back the whole of the consideration-money, or that on its being ascertained that the seller had no title the conditional sale is nullified. SAYEE ALI v. MAHOMED JOWAD ALI

[7 W. R., 196]

13. ——— Covenant against disturbance of possession.—Loss of property by third person enforcing right of pre-emption.—Disqualification of purchaser from buying.—Covenant for good title to convey.—Construction of covenant.—An instrument of sale contained the following condition: "Should any person claim as a co-sharer or proprietor of the property, and assert his claim against the purchaser or raise any dispute of any kind, or if from any unforeseen cause the purchaser be deprived of the possession of the property or any portion thereof, or his possession thereof is disturbed in any way, then I (vendor), my heirs and assigns, shall be liable for the purchase-money, the profits of the property, and costs of litigation." The purchaser having lost the property by reason of a person having a right of pre-emption having sued him to enforce such right and obtained a decree, sued the vendor to recover the costs incurred by him in defending such suit, basing his claim upon the condition set forth above. Held that the suit was not maintainable, as such condition referred to flaws or defects in the vendor's title, and was not applicable to a loss accruing to the purchaser from his disqualification to buy. GOJAM JELANI v. IMDAD HUSAIN. . . . I. L. R., 4 All., 357

4. CAVEAT EMPTOR.

14. ——— Right of purchaser.—Warranty of title.—Hindu law.—Contract.—Sale of land in Bombay.—In England the law gives to the purchaser of land a right to have a good title to it shown by the vendor. No such rule appears to exist in the Hindu law and in contracts between Hindus for the purchase and sale of land in Bombay the intention of the parties must be ascertained from the terms of the agreement, without regard to any implication.

DEYSI GHELA v. JIVARAJ MUKUNDAS

[2 Bom., 430: 2nd Ed., 406]

15. ——— Conditions of sale.—Defect in title previous to title shown by vendor.—When it is provided by conditions of sale of land that the vendor shall not be bound to show any title prior to an instrument of a certain date, the purchaser may insist upon a defect of title appearing ante and before that date, and if it be proved to exist may rescind the contract and recover back earnest-money, interest, and expenses. MANCHALJI PESTANJI v. NARAYAN LAKSHUMANJI

[1 Bom., 77]

16. ——— Land sold without warranty.—Purchaser with invalid title.—Liability of vendor.—In the absence of fraud or express warranty of title in a sale of land, the vendee cannot recover from the vendor the expenses incurred in defending a suit for possession brought against him by a third party having a better title. NEELMOONE SINGH DEO v. GORDON, STUART, & Co.

[1 Ind. Jur., N. S., 356: 6 W. R., 152]

17. ——— Liability of purchaser.—Inquiry as to title.—Eviction after purchase.—By the rule of caveat emptor, the buyer is bound by law to take care of himself and to see that he buys after satisfying himself that there is a good title. The purchaser is bound to look not only to his own title, but to see that he is properly indemnified by the covenants in his deed of purchase; and if he does not choose to protect himself in this manner, he has no remedy: for if a deed of purchase has been once executed, unless there is an eviction by the vendor or some person claiming under him, the purchaser has no right of action against the vendor. GOUR KISHORE SHARMA v. CHUNDER KISHORE DUTT MOJUMDAR

25 W. R., 45

18. ——— Sale of shares deposited with bank for advance.—Depreciation of security.—Objection to disclose position of shares.—Where a contract has been made for the sale of shares deposited with a bank as security for an advance, the vendor is not bound to disclose the fact to the purchaser when there can be no reason to anticipate such a depreciation of value in the shares as would entitle the bank to refuse to transfer. NARAYAN SUCCARAM v. BHANOO DASS

1 Ind. Jur., N. S., 154

19. ——— Fraudulent concealment by vendor of defect of title.—Absence in sale-deed as covenant for title of purchaser.—Right to damages.—In 1881 a Hindu executed a sale-deed of a house in the mofussil. The deed contained no covenant for title. The purchaser having been ejected from a portion of the house under a decree, of which the vendor was aware at the time of the sale, sued the vendor for damages. The Munsif decreed the claim on the ground that the vendor had fraudulently concealed the existence of the decree. On appeal the

5. COMPLETION OF TRANSFER.

20. ——— Oral transfer.—Hindu vendor and purchaser.—Land may pass by mere parol between Hindu vendor and purchaser. MOHESH CHUNDER CHATTERJEE v. ISSUR CHUNDER CHATTERJEE

[1 Ind. Jur., N. S., 266]

21. ——— Want of registration.—Sale complete without payment of purchase-money on registration of deed.—A sale might be complete, and it still might be a condition of the contract that the purchase-money was to be paid afterwards, and the deed in evidence of the contract may not be completed. The bare fact of the deed not being registered would not annul a sale if, by mutual agreement, a sale had already been made. KALEE CHURN GIRRE GOSSAIN v. LALLA MUDDUN KISHORE

[7 W. R., 317]

22. ——— Transfer of ownership of property.—Decree for specific performance of contract of sale.—Conveyance.—In the mofussil of the Bombay Presidency, the transfer of the ownership of immovable property to a vendee who has obtained a decree ordering the specific performance of the contract of sale to himself, does not wait for the execution of a conveyance,—even if the vendor is required, as he seldom is, to execute such a conveyance,—but is effected by the passing of the decree itself, coupled with the payment of the purchase-money. DHONDIBA KRISHNJI PATEL v. RAMCHANDRA BHAGWAT

[I. L. R., 5 Bom., 554]

23. ——— Possession given in execution of decree.—The formal possession given by a Civil Court under an execution operates, in point of law and fact, as between the parties, as a complete transfer of possession from one party to the other. LOKESSUR KOER v. PURGUN ROY

[I. L. R., 7 Calc., 418]

24. ——— Execution and registration of conveyance.—Failure to pay purchase-money and return of conveyance.—D. sold a house to P. and executed a deed of conveyance which was duly registered. The purchase-money, however, was never paid by P., who, consequently, never obtained possession. Shortly after the conveyance had been registered, P. returned it to D. with an endorsement thereon to the effect that it was returned because P. was unable to pay the purchase-money. The right, title, and interest of P. in the house was subsequently attached and sold under a decree obtained against him by the plaintiff. The plaintiff became the purchaser, and sued D. for possession. The lower Courts threw out the claim, on the ground that the property had not passed to P., the sale to him being incomplete. Held, the sale of the house by D. to P. was not incomplete. The deed purported to make an immediate transfer of the ownership of the house to P., and P. accordingly became the owner of the house. The endorsement on the conveyance, not having been registered, could not affect the property. The plaintiff, therefore, as purchaser of the right, title, and interest of P., became legal owner of the house, but subject to all P.'s liabilities; and as D. had a lien upon the house for the amount of the unpaid purchase-money, the plaintiff could not obtain possession without paying off this charge. UMEDIAL MOTIRAM v. DATT BIN GHODINDA . . . I. L. R., 2 Bom., 547

25. ———— Execution of deed of sale.—Failure of purchaser to perform preliminaries to possession.—The vendor of certain immovable property agreed to sell such property, and the purchaser agreed to purchase it on the understanding that the purchaser should retain a part of the purchase-money, and therewith discharge certain bond-debts due by the vendor, for the payment of which such property was hypothecated in the bonds. On such understanding the vendor executed a conveyance of such property to the purchaser. Held, in a suit by the purchaser for the possession of such property in virtue of such conveyance, that, the purchaser not having paid such bond-debts or done anything to account for such part of the purchase-money according to such understanding, the contract of sale had not been completed, and the suit was therefore not maintainable. IKBAL BEGAM v. GHOBIND PRASAD . . . I. L. R., 3 All., 77

26. ———— Default in completing contract of sale.—Partial performance.—In suits arising out of the default on both sides to complete a contract for the purchase and sale of land in the mofussil, the Court should proceed as a Court of Equity, and should look to the acts and conduct of the parties subsequent to the making of the contract as well as the language of the contract itself; and where the contract has been partially performed and the purchaser put into possession of a portion of the land and allowed by the vendor so to continue long after the period fixed for completion of the contract has elapsed, further time should be given by the Court for the performance of the contract in specie. The purchaser's solicitors disapproved of the title, and the purchaser rescinded the contract. The agreement was not registered. Held in a suit to recover the amount of the earnest-money and costs, that, assuming the objections to be reasonable, the purchaser was entitled to rescind the contract. Held, further, that the agreement did not require registration. *SREE-GOPAL MELLICK v. G. CONDITIONAL SALES.

28. ———— Land sold on condition of re-purchase.—Absolute sale.—Where land was sold on a condition of re-purchase, and no time was mentioned in the instrument of sale, Held that the sale had not become absolute, and that the plaintiff, having bought the original vendor's rights, was entitled to maintain a suit for recovery of the land. *GURUSAMY AITAN v. 29. ———— *Deed of conditional sale.—Beng. Reg. XV of 1793.—Beng. Reg. 32. ———— Non-payment of purchase-money.—Intention to pass subject of sale.—Failure to pay consideration, Effect of.—Although ordinarily, in a transaction of sale, it may be reasonable to suppose that the seller does not intend to pass the property to the purchaser until the purchase-money has been paid or secured, it is not an absolute rule of law that the non-receipt of the consideration-money in full entitles a vendor to make void a sale which is otherwise complete. *MOHUN SINGH v. 33. ———— Intention of parties.—Failure to pay consideration, Effect of, after execution and delivery of deed.—The intention of the parties from their acts should be ascertained; and when a deed is executed and delivered to the purchaser, a subsequent default by the purchaser in the due payment of the purchase-money would not, in the absence of fraud, make void the sale, or give any other right to the vendor than a right to sue for the money. Further, if it be proved that the vendor intended to retain possession until full payment, the Court may pass a decree establishing the purchaser's right subject to execution or payment of consideration. *MOHUN SINGH v. January 1876, and the suit was instituted in 1884. It was found that the vendor had been in possession during the whole of that period. The plaintiff produced no evidence in proof of the payment of consideration. Held that, although under ordinary circumstances the party to a deed duly executed and registered who alleges non-payment of consideration is bound to prove his allegation, the fact that the plaintiff and his predecessor had silently submitted to the withholding of possession for upwards of eight years, combined with the continuous possession of the vendor, favoured the allegation of the latter that possession had been withheld because of the non-payment of consideration, and raised such a counter-presumption as to make it incumbent on the plaintiff to give evidence that consideration had in fact passed. Held, therefore, that in the absence of such evidence, and of evidence to explain the fact of the plaintiff being out of possession, the suit failed. ACHOBANDIL KUARI v. MAHABIR PRASAD [I. L. R., 8 All, 641

37. ———— Part payment of consideration.—Right to sue for possession.—Held that non-payment of the consideration-money can be pleaded by the seller, and inquired into by the Court, the admission of the seller at the time of registration before the Registrar being no conclusive proof of payment of the consideration-money, with reference to the practice which obtains of preparing the sale-deed and registering it before payment. Under the ordinary rule of law, a purchaser has a right to sue for possession when a portion of the consideration-money has been paid, unless the contrary be shown to be the intention of the parties, and the seller has a right to sue for the balance of price. *GOOR PRASAD v. The defendants agreed with the plaintiff that they would, immediately upon payment of the purchase-money, execute to the plaintiff and another a proper bill of sale of the ship. The defendants were unable to get a properly registered bill of sale of the ship made out, owing to infirmity of their own title, but were willing, so far as they could, to convey. The plaintiff had made part payment in respect of the price of the ship. Held that the consideration had failed, and that the plaintiff was entitled to a refund of the money paid by him in part payment, and of sums disbursed by him under the agreement on account of the expenses of the ship. *JASSIM BINSAYF v. This rule of equity applies strongly in a case where any person, acting as an attorney, or as a legal adviser, enters into a contract with his client in respect of the subject of litigation or advice. If the purchase be made by a stranger, such a purchaser need not show that the consideration paid by him is a consideration equal to the value of the property; it will be sufficient for the purchaser to show that the sale was made by a person who had authority from the owner to sell; and, unless the seller can establish a fraudulent connivance between the agent employed to sell and the purchaser, the sale will be binding on the seller on proof of authority of the agent to sell. *RUTTA BEBER v. —Undue influence.—Inadequate consideration.—Terms on which deed will be set aside.—Purchase-money declared a charge.—Funeral expenses of Hindu widow declared a charge.—No allowance for repairs and improvements.—C. was the widow of one R., deceased, and from the death of R. until her own death remained in occupation of a house and chawl which had belonged to him. D. was a sister of C.'s, and, shortly after R.'s death, D. and her son B., the first and second defendants, went to live with C. on the said property, and lived with C. and were her only companions until C.'s death. While so living with C., D. and B. advanced to C. at various times, on joint account, various sums of money, amounting to Rs. 500, for purposes such as would have justified C. in pledging the property of her late husband to secure the repayment of the same. C. became very ill, and D. and B., fearing she might be going to die, requested her to take some steps to secure to them the repayment of the sums they had advanced to her. C. thereupon offered to give D. and B. an absolute deed of sale of the said house and chawl in consideration of the said sum of Rs. 500 already advanced to her, and of an additional sum of Rs. 500 then to be paid to her to defray her funeral expenses and the costs of the said conveyance. D. and B. consented, and called in their solicitor to take C.'s instructions and draw up the deed in question, which he accordingly did; and within three days of the said agreement the deed was executed. At that time C. was very ill, and twelve days after the execution of the deed C. died. C. was an illiterate woman, over sixty years of age, and had in this matter no independent professional or other advice. The additional sum of Rs. 500 agreed to be paid to C. was never so paid to her, but after her death D. and her son expended moneys in and about her funeral ceremonies, amounting, as they alleged, to upwards of Rs. 400. The property in question so pledged to them for Rs. 4,000 was worth at least Rs. 500. The plaintiff, one of the heirs of R., sued to set the deed aside and for possession of the said property. Held that the deed of sale must be set aside as obtained under circumstances which amounted to fraud. Held, also, that the advances, amounting to Rs. 500, made to C. by D. and her son B., being made for purposes for which C. would have been justified in pledging the said property, the deed of sale should be set aside only on the terms that the property in question should stand charged with the repayment of the sums so advanced. Held, also, that the property must stand charged with the repayment to D. and B. of such a sum as, having regard to her position and station in life, should be found to be a reasonable sum for the funeral expenses of C. After C.'s death, D. and B. remained in possession of the said property under the deed of sale, and expended considerable sums of money in and about repairs and improvements to the same; and they now claimed that, if the sale was to be set aside, the sums so expended should be repaid to them. Held that no allowance could be made to D. and B. for sums so expended by them, such sums having been expended at a time when D. and B. must be taken to have known that they were fraudulently in possession of the property in question. SADASHIV BHASKAR JOSHI v. 50. ——— Inadequacy of consideration.—Actual or constructive fraud.—Cancellation of sale.—Sales by expectant heirs of reversionary interests.—In the case of a sale by a person, young indeed and in distressed circumstances, but not without advice or means of information, of an estate actually vested in him, but not to be obtained without litigation, the party seeking to set aside the sale must establish the fraud, actual or constructive, which entitles him to relief. It is not sufficient for him to show that he did not receive the full value of the estate to which the result of the litigation might ultimately show him to be entitled. The difference between that value and the purchase-money, if not too disproportionate, may be legitimately taken to represent the difference between certainty and immediate enjoyment on the one hand, and risk, worry, expense, and delay on the other. The exceptional equitable principles which, in a sale by an expectant heir of a reversionary interest, throw upon the purchaser the onus of showing that he gave a fair price, and which, on failure of such proof, entitles the expectant heir to have the sale set aside, have no application in the above case, or in that of every ignorant and improvident person. AZIMUDIN KHAN v. which he (D.) was then possessed, for the price of Rs.4,000. On 30th April 1872 the plaintiff obtained a decree against D., and in execution thereof attached certain immovable property other than the land mentioned in the decree. The defendant R. applied under section 246 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act VIII of 1859), and on the 21st August 1873 procured the removal of the attachment, whereupon the plaintiff brought the present suit to set aside the order of 21st August 1873, and to obtain a declaration that the attached property belonged to D. and was liable in execution. Held that inasmuch as neither the decree of the 30th April 1872, nor the plaint on which it was founded, established or sought to establish any claim against a specific lien upon the immovable property, the subject of the present suit, it was perfectly competent for D., at any time previously to an attachment of the property, to alienate it, and the question for decision as to that property was whether D. had alienated it or not. If the deed of sale by which D. conveyed the property on the 21st August 1871 were merely colourable, and the change of ownership ostensible only and not real,—i.e., if it was the intention of the parties that the alienee should be merely a trustee for D. to shield the property from execution, and that D. should continue to be the beneficial owner of it,—there would not be any alienation, and the deed of sale would be void as against an attaching creditor of D. If, on the other hand, the sale were a real transaction,—i.e., if it was the intention of the parties that the full ownership should pass from the vendor to the vendee,—then the sale would be valid, even though it might have been in the contemplation of the parties that future attempts to attach the property by a creditor of the vendor (not having any specific lien on the property) should be defeated by the sale. Until attachment the creditor has no right to interfere with the power of his debtor to deal with his property. RAJAN HARI v. ARDESHIR HORMUSJI

56. — Creation of lien.—Title.—Notice of charge.—English law as to right of bond fide purchaser for value without notice.—By contract and deposit of title-deeds B. charged certain land in favour of A. as a security in respect of the non-delivery of the title-deeds of an estate bought by A. from him. After the creation of this charge the land was transferred by B. to C. The Sudder Court having decided that the contract was not operative as a mortgage or pledge, even between the parties to it, and that A. had no right of suit against C., to whom the land had been transferred,—Held by the Privy Council, reversing that decision, that the agreement created a lien on the land, and that no positive law was shown to forbid the giving effect to such agreement. The owner of property subject to a lien or charge can in general convey to another no title higher or more free than his own; it lies always on a succeeding owner to make out a case to defend such prior charge. The law in India does not enable a purchaser of land to look only to the apparent title in the Collector's books, or the presumed title of the owner in possession; and it is beyond the province of a Court of Justice to give effect to the title of such a purchaser to the extent of defeating a prior lien or charge. Conceding that a purchaser for value, bona fide, and without notice of the charge, would have an equity superior to A.'s right,—Held that a purchase in good faith by C. had not been proved. sideration, without notice of the prior right of a third person, is not guilty of or party to a fraud upon the rights of a prior purchaser. The Courts of Equity, therefore, will not interfere with his right to the possession, enjoyment, and disposal of the property; and though, subsequently to his purchase, yet he has the right to convey to a subsequent purchaser, who, at the time of such subsequent conveyance, has notice of the prior right of the third person; and such subsequent purchaser will take the property free from the incumbrance, for neither is he guilty of any fraud in accepting what his vendor had a right to convey, nor would the bond fide purchaser without notice be able otherwise freely and completely to dispose of the property which he innocently acquired. On the same principles, any subsequent purchaser, however remote, though having notice, must be protected. Where, therefore, the second defendant, having notice of the plaintiff's equitable mortgage, purchased from one who, also with such notice, had purchased from a bond fide purchaser for value without notice, Held that the second defendant held the property free from the equitable mortgage. *Carter v. 79. ———— Liability of land purchased from Hindu devisee for debts of his testator.—Onus probandi.—PER PONTIFEX, J.—The question how far lands purchased from a Hindu devisee are liable in the hands of the purchaser for the testator's debts, stands on the same footing as a similar question would under the present English law. The creditors of the ancestor or testator may follow his lands into the possession of a purchaser from the heir or devisee, if it can be proved that such purchaser knew (1) that there were debts of the ancestor or testator left unsatisfied, and (2) also that the heir or devisee to whom he paid his purchase-money intended to apply it otherwise than in the payment of such debts. But a purchaser ignorant on either of these points has a safe title, for no duty is cast upon the purchaser from the heir or devisee to inquire whether there are any debts of the ancestor or testator, or to see to the application of his purchase-money, even when there is an express charge of debts by the testator on the devised estate—at least when the devisee is also executor; and in such a case the burden of proof is entirely on the creditor to show that the purchaser from the devisee had notice that the latter intended to misapply the purchase-money. For a purchaser to be affected with constructive notice through his solicitor, the latter himself must have actual notice. GREENEY CHUNDER GHOSH v. MACINTOSH

80. ———— Fraud.—Registration Acts, Effect of.—When a person is proved to have had a knowledge of certain facts, or to have been in a position the reasonable consequence of which knowledge or position would be that he would have been led to make further inquiry, which would have disclosed a particular fact, the law fixes him with having himself had notice of that particular fact. There may be such wilful negligence in abstaining from inquiry into facts which would convey actual notice as may properly be held to have the consequences of notice actually obtained. But if there is not actual notice, and no wilful or fraudulent turning away from an inquiry into, and consequent knowledge of, facts which the circumstances would suggest to a prudent mind, then the doctrine of constructive notice ought not to be applied. Constructive notice may apply as against third persons from a neglect to call for deeds and documents of title, but not to the same extent where a Registration Act is in operation, as it would where no Registration Act prevails. Agra Bank v. Barry, L. R., 7 H. L., 135, followed. ## 81. . . . . Registration.—

Possession.—Registration Acts, Effect of.—English Registry Acts, Stat. 7 Anne, c. 20, s. 1; 2 and 3 Anne, c. 4, s. 1; 6 Anne, c. 35, s. 1; 8 Geo. 2, c. 6, s. 1.—Irish Registry Act, 6 Anne, c. 2, s. 4 (Ireland).—Neither in England nor in Ireland has mere registration been held to amount to notice to subsequent mortgagees or purchasers. In Bombay the Courts have adopted the rule which prevails in America, and have held that registration does amount to notice to all subsequent purchasers of the same property. Possession has been deemed by Hindu and Mahomedan law, as interpreted in the Presidency of Bombay, to amount to notice of such title as the person in possession may have; and any other person who takes a mortgage or other charge upon immovable property without ascertaining the nature of the claim of him who is in possession does so at his own risk. This is the rule in England also. The Indian Registration Acts prior to the year 1864, like the Middlesex Registry Act (Stat. 7 Anne, c. 20, sec. 1); the Yorkshire Registry Acts (Stat. 2 and 3 Anne, c. 4, sec. 1; 6 Anne, c. 35, sec. 1; 8 Geo. II., c. 6, sec. 1); and the Irish Registry Act (Stat. 6 Anne, c. 2, sec. 4, 1c), gave priority of rank to priority of registration. The later Indian Registration Acts—viz., Act XVI of 1864, XX of 1866, VIII of 1871, and III of 1877—proceed upon a different principle. Under them a registered instrument operates from the time at which it would have commenced to operate if no registration had been required or made, and not from the time of its registration, which rule applies both to compulsory and optionally registrable instruments. The earlier decisions, by which registration has in India been permitted to supply the want of possession, may be attributed to this absolute preference so accorded by the earlier Registration Acts to priority of registration. In the reported cases under the Indian Registration Acts passed in and subsequently to 1864, which have not (like the previous enactments) given priority of rank to priority of registration, the Courts have also regarded registration as an equivalent for possession where the instrument earlier in date has been registered, but unaccompanied by possession. The Courts have gone a step further, and have held registration under Act XVI of 1864 and the subsequent Acts to amount to notice; and therefore to atone for the absence of, and to be a sufficient substitute for, possession in the validation of title. The rule, however, that registration is equivalent to possession, cannot be applied to cases where the registration of the instrument earlier in date has been effected subsequently to the execu-

It was registered on the 29th April 1878. He was not put in possession of the property. The defendant purchased the same property on the 1st April 1878, and on the following day lodged his deed of purchase with the Registrar together with the registration fee. It was registered on the 26th May 1878. His purchase was accompanied with possession. In a suit brought by the plaintiff against the vendor and the subsequent purchaser for possession of the property, Held that the registration of the plaintiff's deed of purchase, not having been effected until after the execution of the defendant's deed, could not have operated as notice of the plaintiff's deed to the defendant, and, therefore, could not be equivalent to possession. Held, also, that as the defendant was a purchaser without notice, either actual or constructive, of the plaintiff's prior purchase, and had taken the precaution of obtaining possession, both parties being Hindus and innocent purchasers, the defendant could not be deprived of the benefit of his possession. *HASHA v. ## 84. . . . . San-mortgage in

Gujarat.—Priority.—Priority as between a purchaser at execution sale and prior mortgagee by unregistered san-mortgage.—Plea of purchase without notice.—The general rule in the Presidency of Bombay is that, amongst Hindus, possession is necessary in order to perfect a transfer of immovable property by mortgage or deed of sale as against subsequent incumbrancers or purchasers. The main ground of this rule is that possession is notice to all subsequent intending mortgagees or purchasers of the title of the party in possession. It is, however, the established and judicially recognised custom of Gujarat that possession is not necessary in the case of a san-mortgage to validate it as against subsequent mortgages or purchasers. The necessity of possession being thus dispensed with, it seems to follow that a san-mortgage, in other respects good, is valid as against a subsequent mortgagee or purchaser, whether or not such mortgagee or purchaser has notice of the san-mortgage. To hold that a subsequent mortgagee or purchaser for valuable consideration and without notice of a san-mortgage is entitled to priority over it, would be tantamount to depriving the san-mortgagee of the benefit of the custom that possession is unnecessary. Per MELVILL, J.—Such perfect security is now afforded by registration that there appears to be hardly room for the plea of purchase without notice. Seeing that a purchaser may secure himself against all unregistered mortgages without possession by simply taking possession or registering his conveyance, he is, if he omit to do so, in part delicto with the prior mortgage, and it is difficult to see how he is entitled to any relief. SOBHAGCHAND GULAB CHAND v. 87. — Absence of change of possession.—Hindu law.—Incomplete sale.—According to Hindu law, a change of possession is necessary to complete a sale of corporeal property, in order to prevent successive purchasers from being cheated by successive sales of the same property, and to obviate disputes as to what was really sold. Possession.—Priority.—Registration.—A registered mortgage without possession has priority over a subsequent registered sale and conveyance with possession. By a duly-registered deed, D. mortgaged land to the plaintiff with power of sale. On default made by D., the plaintiff brought a suit for a sale of the mortgaged land; but, pending the suit, D. sold the land to the defendant, who registered his conveyance and entered into possession. The plaintiff subsequently obtained a decree, and at the execution sale became himself the purchaser. In the present suit he sought to recover possession from the defendant. Held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover. His rights as mortgagee included the right of bringing to sale the property as it subsisted at the date of the mortgage. The property having been so brought to sale, the purchaser acquired a right free from any created subsequently to the mortgage and subject to it. SHRINGARPUR v. PETHU

105. ——— Rights of mortgagee.—

Mortgage, Sale without disclosing.—Estoppel.—The three senior members of an undivided Hindu family—the remaining members of which had disappeared—setting forth a ground of necessity, executed to the plaintiff, in November 1870, a mortgage, duly registered, of a piece of land which formed part of the family estate. Certain judgment-creditors of the absent member subsequently attached and sold his share in the said land under their decree. The plaintiff's undivided son purchased it, and in 1872 re-sold his right, title, and interest in it to the defendant's father, without disclosing the fact of his father's mortgage, but without any active fraud on the part of himself or his father to suppress the fact from the knowledge of his purchaser. In 1874 the plaintiff obtained a decree upon his mortgage, and attached the land. In a suit by the plaintiff to establish his right as against all the land included in his mortgage,—Held that the mortgage being, under the circumstances, a valid one, the sale of the absent son's share was subject to the lien created thereby, which lien was not disturbed by the purchase and subsequent sale of the share by the son of the mortgagee. The origin of the son's title was stated in the deed of sale to the new purchaser, who, by the fact of its being a sale of

106. ——— Sale of equity of redemption.—

Right of purchaser.—Parties.—By two deeds, dated respectively the 22nd February 1868 and 7th September 1872, and duly registered, A. mortgaged the lands in dispute to B. for a term of years which expired in 1880. On 10th October 1873 A. executed a raziinama in favour of B., relinquishing all his right in the said lands, and B. next day executed a khablati to Government for the lands, which thenceforward were entered in B.'s name. Previously to the second mortgage and raziinama to B.,—viz., on 21st March 1870,—A. had, by a duly-registered deed, mortgaged the same lands to the plaintiff, who in 1874 brought a suit against A. upon his mortgage and obtained a decree, under which he sold the mortgaged property, and became himself the purchaser thereof. Before and at the time of the institution of this suit, B. was in possession of the mortgaged land, but was not made a party to the suit. In 1877 B. sold the land to C. by a duly registered deed. In a suit brought by the plaintiff against B. and C. to recover possession of the land so purchased by him as above mentioned, at the sale in execution of his own decree,—Held that B.'s possession at the date of the plaintiff's suit upon his mortgage was sufficient to put the plaintiff on inquiry, and to constitute legal notice to him that the equity of redemption was at that time vested in B., and it was therefore the plaintiff's duty to have made B. a party to the suit brought by him against A., who had then alienated the equity of redemption to B.; and not having done so, the plaintiff could not rely, in support of his own title, upon a purchase under his own irregularly-obtained decree, and could not, therefore, stand in a better position as against B. than if his original suit had been properly constituted,—i.e., he was bound to give B. an opportunity of redeeming his mortgage. *NART v. In execution of that decree the property was sold subject to the mortgage, and purchased by B. on the 12th August 1864. Before confirmation of the sale, B., on the 1st September 1864, sold it to C., who, on the 30th March 1877, conveyed it by deed to the plaintiff. On the 27th September 1877 the plaintiff brought a suit for redeeming the property, and at the hearing produced a certificate of sale, dated the 27th

October 1877. The certificate was applied for in May 1877, and issued to C., reciting the sale to B., and the sale by B. to C. The Court of first instance allowed the plaintiff to redeem on payment of a certain sum of money to the defendant. The Assistant Judge, on appeal, reversed the decree of the first Court on the ground that the certificate of sale was not in existence at the date of the institution of the suit, and that, therefore, the plaintiff had then no complete title. On appeal to the High Court,—Held that the plaintiff, having purchased and paid for the equity of redemption, was entitled to redeem, although the certificate of sale was not issued until after the suit had commenced. If a party, whose title is to some extent imperfect, seeks to redeem, and is able to prove a perfect title at the hearing of his cause, he should have a decree for redemption. *Harkisandas Narandas v. After the death of P., his heirs, D. and T., on the 9th July 1869, executed to the plaintiff a san-mortgage of the same house for Rs. 2. That mortgage was neither registered nor accompanied with possession. On the 27th July 1869 D. and T. sold the house to the defendant. The deed of sale was not registered. A part of the purchase-money was applied to the payment of the first san-mortgage, which was then delivered up to the defendant, with a receipt on it by J., who acknowledged to have received from the defendant the amount due on his mortgage. The defendant, however, omitted to take an assignment of that mortgage to himself. The plaintiff sued D. and T. on his san-mortgage of the 9th July 1869, and in 1872 obtained a decree for the recovery of the mortgage-debt out of the mortgaged property. The defendant was not made a party to that suit. The plaintiff attached the house in execution of his decree, but the attachment was raised on the application of the defendant under section 246 of the Civil Procedure Code, Act VIII of 1859. The plaintiff then sued the defendant to establish his (plaintiff's) right to attach and sell the house under his san-mortgage. The defendant answered that he was a purchaser for value, without notice of the plaintiff's mortgage. The plaintiff's claim was dismissed by the first Court, but allowed by the Appellate Court. On special appeal,—Held that the defendant's plea that he was a purchaser for valuable consideration, and without notice of the plaintiff's san-mortgage, would not avail to defeat that mortgage under the established usage of Gujarat in favour of san-mortgages. Held, further, that the defendant, having become entitled by his purchase at least to the equity of redemption in the house, ought to have been made a party to the plaintiff's original suit on his mortgage, and was not bound by the decree in that suit, and was entitled to a reasonable time to redeem the house from the plaintiff's mortgage. *Sobhagchand Gulabchand v. ## 14. PURCHASE-MONEY AND OTHER PAYMENTS BY PURCHASER.

109. —Non-payment of purchase-money.—Tender.—Payment into Court.—Said for specific performance.—Plaintiff had entered into a contract with one of the defendants for the purchase of certain immovable property, and after he made a small advance the contract was written out and registered. The purchaser refusing to pay up the purchase-money unless the vendor paid the costs, or half the costs, of registration, the latter resold the property to a third person. The present suit was to compel the completion of the contract and delivery of the property. Held that the Court was bound to see whether it was or was not the intention that a complete and binding sale should take place, although the purchase-money was not paid. Held, also, that in bringing such a suit, the plaintiff was bound, if he had not previously tendered the money to the defendant, to pay it into Court. MAHADAO BEGUM v. HUBERDOOJ HOSSEIN . . . 15 W. R., 44

110. —Advance of purchase-money.—Lien on purchase.—Repayment.—Said for possession.—B. advanced money to A. for the purchase of an estate. The estate was purchased by A., but it was conveyed to B. Held that before A. could maintain a suit to obtain possession of the land, he was bound to pay or tender the money advanced by B. BHOYRUB CHUNDER SEIN v. ANUNDHOY CHOWDHRAIN . . . Marsh., 494

111. —Right to refund of purchase-money.—Failure to give possession.—Said for purchase-money.—A purchaser of property of which possession was contracted to be given, but the vendor is unable to fulfil the contract, is at liberty to sue for repayment of the purchase-money, and is not obliged to sue for possession of the property. MOHUN LAL v. BEHARIE LAL . . . 3 N. W., 336

112. —Bond fide purchaser.—Refund of purchase-money.—A bond fide purchaser was held to be entitled to a refund of the purchase-money in a case where some dispute having arisen as to the purchase, the matter was referred to arbitration; and it was held that the vendor had no authority to sell. does not apply to such a case. KISHEN MOHUN SHARMA v. RAM CHUNDER DUTT . 3 W. R., 28

113. — Refusal to perform contract.—Omission to repudiate sale.—Suit for recovery of purchase-money.—The defendants had sold certain property to the plaintiff. They afterwards refused to effect mutation of names in favour of the plaintiff, on the ground that he had not paid off a certain mortgage on the property, which he had promised in the contract of sale to do. They did not repudiate the sale or the plaintiff's title under it. Held that the refusal was not tantamount to a rescission of the sale, and that a suit for the recovery of the purchase-money would not lie. SIRAJ-OD-DOWLAH v. NOOR AHMUD . . . 5 N. W., 194

114. — Suit to recover deposit of purchase-money.—Obligation to tender conveyance for execution.—In a suit by a purchaser of immovable property to recover a deposit, paid by him on account of the purchase-money to the auctioneer, the vendor having refused to convey to the purchaser, save by a deed which should describe the premises by reference to another deed, not shown to the purchaser at the auction, and of the contents of which he had not then any notice, Held that the purchaser was not bound to have tendered a conveyance engrossed to the vendor for execution, together with the residue of the purchase-money, before suing to recover the deposit. ESSAJI ADAMJI v. BHIMJI PURSHOTAM . . . 4 Bom. O. C., 125

115. — Illegal sale.—Sale by coparceners without assent of others.—Where a sale by two coparceners in favour of another was set aside, on the ground that the sale by a coparcener without the consent of the others was illegal, Held, on the suit of the vendee to recover the purchase-money from the descendants of the vendors, that the purchase-money was like a debt, and payable by the heirs, in proportion to the shares inherited by each. OOMEDDEE v. CHEDA LALL [2 Agra, 264]

116. — Refund of purchase-money by heir taking after widow.—Held that a party succeeding as heir to an estate, the sale of which, by the widow of the person from whom he inherits, has been set aside, is bound to refund the purchase-money paid to the widow for the purpose of discharging liabilities on the estate. ROOSTUM SINGH v. ADAM SINGH . . . 1 Agra, 291

117. — Failure to register.—Suit for refund of purchase-money.—Set-off.—The plaintiff agreed to purchase land and paid down the purchase-money, taking from the vendor an agreement that if he did not register the conveyance he would return the purchase-money. purchase-money. Held that he was entitled to a refund of the purchase-money. The purchaser who had obtained possession might or might not, according to the particular circumstances of the case, be liable to pay the vendor a reasonable amount for the occupation of the land; but when no set-off is pleaded, the vendor could only claim such amount by a separate action. COUNT OF WARDS v. —A., by deed duly registered, assigned his interest in an indigo factory to B. In the deed was a recital that it had been agreed that B. should take over the dena powna account of the factory as the same stood on the 30th September 1856. C. sued A. and B. jointly to recover rent in respect of lands which had been occupied under a lease from C. with and for the use of the factory, and which was due on the 30th September 1856. B. raised the defence that the debt was not included in a schedule, dated 30th September 1856, signed by A., and which he alleged had been furnished to him by A. as containing a list of the liabilities of the factory. Held, if a trader or other person in this country assigns his stock in trade and effects to another, and such other person enters into a contract with the first to pay the debts of the concern, or a certain portion of such debts, the contract and assignment create a liability to the creditors in whose favour such contract is made, which they may enforce by suit; nor is the creditor bound to elect between his original debtor and the assignee, but he may join them as co-defendants in the same suit. Held, also, per PEACOCK, C. J., and NORMAN and KEMP, JJ. (SEER and SETON-KARR, JJ., dissenting), the case must be remanded to the lower Court to try what was the agreement between A. and B. as to B. taking over the dena powna account of the factory, whether the schedule was an essential part of the contract or not. KEARNES v. left to seek their remedy. KESRI v. GANGA PRASAD . . . . . I. L. R., 4 All, 168

143. ———— Stoppage in transitu.—Lien of unpaid vendors.—Agents for purchase of goods.—Insolvency.—Right of carriers.

—A firm at Cawnpore sent an agent to Satna, plaintiff's residence, to effect purchases in cotton, and the plaintiff, at the instance of the person so deputed, made purchases and supplied funds, both for purchases and for their carriage and insurance, the agent doing nothing but consenting to the arrangements and giving hands on his employer's correspondents in payment. The goods were despatched and insured, but before reaching their destination the firm became insolvent, and the plaintiff proceeded to take possession of them, but was prevented on account of the goods being previously attached by the defendant, a judgment-creditor. It was held on plaintiff's suit that the plaintiff was an unpaid vendor, and had a lien on the goods for the price, and might detain the goods till he received or was satisfied about the payment for the said goods, a completed contract for the sale of the goods notwithstanding. An unpaid vendor, in case of the vendee's insolvency, may stop the goods sold in transitu. Agents for the purchase of goods have a lien on the goods when purchased for the moneys paid and liabilities incurred by them in respect to such purchase, and are not bound to deliver the goods until they are reimbursed or secured for such advances and liabilities, and an agent in this character is in the position of an unpaid vendor. Where the vendor is not otherwise paid than by having received the insolvent's acceptance, he may in the event of the purchaser's insolvency stop the goods, though he have negotiated the bills, and they are still outstanding and not yet at maturity. Whilst the goods sold remain in the hands of the carrier employed to convey them to their original destination, as between buyer and seller, no case of constructive possession arises, unless when the carrier enters expressly into some new agreement, distinct from the original contract for carriage. So also the mere acts of making or sampling the goods, or giving notice to the carrier to hold the goods for the buyer, though done with intention to take possession, do not establish a constructive possession, or affect the right to stop in transitu. Where the right of stoppage in transitu vests in the consignor, it cannot be defeated by the claims of other creditors of the consignee, the unpaid vendor having an older and preferential lien. BRO-LANATH v. Shortly after the granting of the lease the zemindar got a decree against A. by which A.'s ghatwal right was extinguished. In execution of that decree, the zemindar ousted and took khas possession of the mehal. Some years afterwards, the zemindar granted to A. a perpetual mokurrari lease of the same mehal. Held, in a suit against A. instituted by the assignee of B.'s rights in the zur-i-peshgi, that under section 18, Act I of 1877, A. must, out of his present estate in the mehal, make good the zur-i-peshgi. *LOOT NARAIN SINGH v.  —In July 1870, R., the owner of a share of a village, executed in favour of M. an instrument whereby he transferred by sale the share to M. absolutely. In November 1870 M. agreed to re-transfer the share to R., if R. desired, at any time within thirteen years, to re-purchase it, on payment of the sum which M. had paid for it. During the term mentioned in the agreement of November 1870, R. not having taken advantage of the agreement, M. sued, as owner of the share, to enforce the right of pre-emption in respect of the sale of another share of the village. Held that, M. having become under the transfer of July 1870 the out-and-out proprietor of the share, until R. availed himself of the option given him by the agreement of November 1870, the full estate of an owner, carrying with it the right of pre-emption, vested in M., and it was competent for him to enforce such right by suit. *Ramsaran Lal v. The heir of one of the vendors sold his share of such estate to A., and A. sued R. to redeem such share. Held by the Full Bench (STUART, C. J., doubting) that the nature of the transaction between R. and his vendors must be determined by looking at both the conveyance and the agreement, and, both those documents being regarded, the transaction between them was one of mortgage, and the vendors had a right of redemption, and the proviso in the agreement was inequitable and incapable of enforcement against them or their representatives in title. Held, also, by PEARSON, J., that the agreement was not of the nature of a personal contract enforceable only by the original vendors and not by their representatives; that, assuming that a transfer of the property was prohibited by the agreement, R. could not, as implied by the Full Bench ruling in Dookhchore Rai v. Hidayat-oolah, Agra, F. R., Ed. 1874, 5, treat as a nullity the sale which had been made to A., and A.'s right to redeem could not be reasonably denied and resisted; and that a transfer was not positively but only implicitly prohibited by the agreement, R. merely declaring that he would not recognise the transferees as having acquired the equity of redemption or cancel his own sale-deed, and such a declaration was beyond his competence and had no legal effect. *RAM SARAN LAL v. ## 1. GENERAL CASES.

1. — Verdict of majority.—Want of independent opinion.—The law requires a jurymen to exercise his own understanding on the case submitted to him, and to decide on evidence, and not to follow blindly the opinion of his fellows. Where one out of three (in a jury of five) depends on the inspection and inquiries of the other two, the verdict of the three is not that of a legal majority. PETAMBUR JUGI v. NASARUDDY . . . 25 W. R., Cr., 4

2. — Ground for refusing to accept verdict.—Verdict based on voluntary confessions.—Wherever trial by jury exists, the verdict of the jury must be accepted, unless it is manifestly and certainly wrong. A verdict based on voluntary confessions is just as good as a verdict based on the testimony of credible witnesses. It is the province of a jury to decide as to the credibility of witnesses. QUEEN v. WUZIR MUNDUL . . . 25 W. R., Cr., 25

3. — Unanimous verdict.—Further consideration of case by jury.—Dissent by Judge from unanimous verdict.—Procedure.—It is only in a case where the jury are not unanimous that a Court may require them to retire for further consideration. Where a verdict is unanimous, it must be received by the Judge, unless contrary to law. Where a Judge dissents from the unanimous finding of a jury given in accordance with the law, the only procedure open to him to follow is that laid down in the fifth clause of section 263 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. *GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL v. 4. — Dissent from verdict.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, s. 263, cl. 4.—The "dissent" referred to in the 4th clause of section 263 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Act X of 1872) must be such a complete dissent as to lead the Judge to consider it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court. EMPRESS v. BHAWANI . . . I. L. R., 2 Bom., 525

5. — Reference to High Court.—Statement by Judge of offence committed.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, ss. 263, 464.—It is the duty of a Judge in sending up a case to the High Court under sections 263 and 464 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, when he disagrees with a verdict of acquittal, to state the offence which, in his opinion, has been committed. EMPRESS v. SAHAR RAB [I. L. R., 3 Calo., 623; 2 C. L. R., 304]

6. — Questioning jury as to their verdict.—Questions to member of jury as to reasons for verdict.—A Judge ought not to put questions to any of the jury as to his reasons for the verdict he has given. QUEEN v. MEAWAN SHEIKH . . . 20 W. R., Cr., 50

7. — Questions as to grounds for verdict.—Power of Sessions Judge.—PER GASTR, C. J., and PRINSEP, J. (MARKET, J. contra).—The rule laid down in Queen v. Wazir Mandal, 25 W. R., Cr., 23, goes too far. PRINSEP, J. (MARKET, J. contra).—The law does not prevent a Sessions Judge from asking a jury regarding the grounds for their verdict, and such a course is desirable in the ends of justice. See Queen v. Sustiram Mandal, 21 W. R., Cr., 1. EMPRESS v. MUKHUN KUMAR . . . 1 C. L. R., 275

8. — Ambiguity in verdict.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, s. 263.—Under section 263 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1872, a Court was authorised to ask the jury such questions as were necessary to ascertain what their verdict really is; but where the verdict, although perhaps erroneous, is not ambiguous, it is the duty of the Judge to record it without further question. 9. — Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, s. 303.—Although section 303 of the Criminal Procedure Code empowers a Judge to ask the jury such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is, it was never contemplated that, on ascertaining that the jury are not unanimous, the Judge should make minute inquiries to learn the nature of the majority and its opinion, so that he should have the opportunity of accepting or refusing that opinion as a verdict according as it coincides with his own opinion or not. Whatever may be the opinion of the Judge, if he goes so far as to ask the jury what is the exact majority, and what is the opinion of the majority, he ought to receive that verdict without hesitation, and if he differs from

10. — Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, s. 263.—In a case in which the accused was tried on charges of murder, culpable homicide, and causing grievous hurt, the jury acquitted him of murder, but convicted him on the other counts. This verdict was recorded by the Sessions Judge, who then, in accordance with section 263, Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, questioned the jury as to the grounds for their verdict, and the jury eventually intimated their willingness to convict of murder. The Sessions Judge differed from the first verdict of the jury, but as he had recorded that verdict, he doubted whether he could accept the second verdict, and referred the case to the High Court under section 263. Held that section 263 did not apply to such a case as this. There could be no verdict delivered, and no verdict finally recorded, until the last of the questions put by the Judge to the jury was answered; and as it appeared from the answers of the jury that their findings of facts disclosed that the verdict ought to have been one of guilty on the charge of murder, the Judge should have entered the verdict of the jury as one of guilty of murder. The case was accordingly returned to the Judge to enable him to do that, and to pass such sentence as the law directed. It is only when it is necessary, in order to ascertain what the verdict of a jury really is, that a Judge is justified under section 263 in putting questions to the jury. QUEEN v. SUSTIRAM MANDAL . . . 21 W. R., Cr., 1

11. — Special verdict.—Question put by Judge to jury after special verdict.—Penal Code, s. 330.—The prisoners were tried under section 330 of the Penal Code (for voluntarily causing hurt to a girl), and under section 348 (for wrongfully confining her). Circumstances of aggravation were alleged, as lifting up and using a sword, of lowering the girl into a well, and of pricking her with thorns. The jury in their verdict stated that they disbelieved these allegations, and also the charge of illegal confinement, but that they believed that some slaps had been given. The Judge then asked the jury whether they convicted on either, and if so, which head of charge. They answered that they believed the prisoners had beaten the girl, and that they convicted them under section 330. Held that the question put by the Judge to the jury was a proper one, and not one of law. The conviction upheld. Such a case is not governed by the rules of English law as to special verdicts. QUEEN v. HARI PRASAD GANGOOLY [5 B. L. R., 557; 14 W. R., Cr., 59]

Offence proved, though not independently charged.—Code of Criminal Procedure (Act X of 1872), s. 457.—Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 149, 325.—The accused were charged under section 149, coupled with section 325, of the Penal Code, with, while being members of an unlawful assembly, committing grievous hurt. The jury disbelieved the evidence as to the unlawful assembly, but unanimously found two of the accused guilty of grievous hurt under section 325. Held that such verdict was, under section 457 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, legally sustainable, although that offence did not form the subject of a separate charge. Section 467 enables a verdict to be given on some of the facts which are a component part of the original charge, provided that those facts constitute a minor offence. *GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL v. English Law.—Acquitted by jury.—Disagreement by Judge.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act X of 1872) s. 263.—Notwithstanding the large discretionary powers vested in the High Court under section 263 of Act X of 1872, the Court will adhere generally to the principle of the Courts in England,—viz., that the Court will not set aside the verdict of a jury unless it be perverse and patently wrong, or may have been induced by the error of the Judge; and when the Court is asked to do so on the ground that the verdict is against the weight of evidence, the question is, not whether the learned Judge who tried the case was or was not dissatisfied with the verdict, or whether he would have come to the same conclusion as the jury, but whether the verdict was such as reasonable men ought to have come to. *IN THE MATTER OF DAUNUM KAZER, EMPRESS v. 21. ———— Omission to sum up properly.—Ground for setting aside verdict.—The omission of the Judge to sum up the case properly to the jury is an error in law sufficient to justify the setting aside of the verdict. No general rules can be laid down as to when a prisoner is prejudiced by a defective summing up, but in general, if the finding of the jury in such a case is one that an Appeal Court would set aside if the trial had taken place with assessors, the Court will interfere and set the verdict aside. *REG. v. under section 263 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Held that in a case of this kind the High Court will not interfere without the very clearest proof that the jury were mistaken, and that the interests of justice imperatively required the Court to take action under the extraordinary powers conferred upon it by section 263, Code of Criminal Procedure. murder (section 302, Penal Code), culpable homicide not amounting to murder (section 304), and voluntarily causing grievous hurt (section 325), the Sessions Judge at the trial added a further charge of house-breaking by night in order to the commission of an offence (section 457). The jury unanimously acquitted the prisoners of the three original charges, and a majority of the jury (four out of five) acquitted them also of the last charge. The Sessions Judge agreed with the verdict of the jury as regarded the three original charges, and recorded a formal order acquitting and discharging the prisoners on these three charges. He differed from the majority as to the fourth charge, and referred the case to the High Court under section 263 of the Criminal Procedure Code. Held that where (as in this case) the Sessions Judge had approved of a verdict on certain charges, and finally acquitted and discharged the accused as to those charges, the High Court could not under section 263 convict on the facts on these very charges. That section seems to contemplate only a case in which, without recording any order of acquittal or conviction, the Sessions Judge refers the whole case. As there was nothing in this case to show on what grounds the majority of the jury acquitted the prisoners on the additional charge, and as the Sessions Judge agreed with the unanimous verdict as to the three original charges, the High Court presumed that the reason which weighed with the majority of the jury in finding the prisoners not guilty on the additional charge must have weighed with the whole jury in finding them not guilty on all the three other charges, and accordingly the Court could not set aside the verdict of the majority on the last count, without practically finding directly in the teeth of the verdict of the unanimous jury on the first three counts. QUEEN v. UDYA CHANGA

35. ————— Verdict in accordance with charge.—Verdict disagreed with by Judge.—Penal Code, ss. 302, 304, 325.—Reference under s. 307, Act X of 1859.—A prisoner was charged under sections 302 and 304 of the Penal Code, and the Judge at the trial added a further charge under section 325. The Judge in his charge to the jury directed them that in the event of their finding the charges under sections 302 and 304 unsustainable, they might find the prisoner guilty under section 325. The jury unanimously acquitted the prisoner on the charge framed under section 302, and a majority of them acquitted him on the charge framed under section 304; but a majority of them found him guilty on the charge framed under section 325. The Judge disagreed with their finding as regarded the charge framed under section 304, and referred the case to the High Court under section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code. The High Court refused to interfere with the verdict, on the ground that the verdict could not be said to be manifestly erroneous, the Judge having heard the evidence and having expressed his

The Judge, contrary to the provisions of section 269 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, treated the jury as assessors in respect of the charge of murder, and, convicting L. and N. of dacoity, acquitted them of murder. The zemindar received rent for a period of ten years without making any demand of interest in respect of arrears, and without claiming to apply any portion of the payments towards the discharge of interest. The rent not having been paid at the time agreed on,—Held that the landlord's omission to claim interest, instalment by instalment, for the fractional time that the rent was not paid after it became due, did not justify the plea that the interest stipulated for was not due, or warrant the belief that the plaintiff had waived his claim to interest. RUTTY KANT BOSE v. Defendants appealed on the merits, tacitly accepting the finding of the lower Court that notice had been duly served. On appeal, the Subordinate Judge of his own motion took up the question of notice, decided that it had not been duly served, and reversed the decree of the lower Court. Held that the Subordinate Judge was wrong, for seeing that the defendants had not appealed from the finding of the first Court which declared that there had been good service, it might fairly be presumed that they had due notice of the claim to enhance, until evidence sufficient to rebut

An objection that notice of enhancement has not been properly served is not an objection purely of law, but a mixed objection of law and fact, which may be impliedly waived by the conduct of the parties. CHUNDER MOONE DOSSEE v. 17. ———— Agreement come to under mistaken belief.—Agreement to accept provision in satisfaction of claim to maintenance.—Mutual mistake, Effect of.—Suit by son for partition.—Relinquishment of claim.—The plaintiff's father, a member of an undivided Hindu family, signed an agreement by which he agreed to accept a provision in satisfaction of his claim for maintenance. The agreement was signed by reason of a mistaken belief entertained by the plaintiff's father and the other members of the family that there existed an established custom in the family which rendered the property indivisible. Held, in a suit by the plaintiff for a partition of the family property liable to partition, that the agreement having been come to under a mutual mistake, it was no bar to the plaintiff maintaining the suit, for it would not have prejudiced the right of the plaintiff's father if he had chosen to insist upon a partition. SOOBARAMANIA TELAYAR v. SOKKA TELAYAR [5 Mad., 437

18. ———— Agreement to accept portion of property for maintenance.—Suit for full share of property on partition.—In a suit to recover a share of family property, the Civil Judge found that the plaintiff in 1856 waived his right to a share of the family property by accepting a small portion, and dismissed the suit. The plaintiff shared with other members of the family the belief that by established family usage the property was impartible and passed at such succession to the eldest of the co-heirs according to the ordinary law, the other co-heirs being entitled only to a portion for maintenance. Under that belief the plaintiff accepted the allotment made to him in 1856 by the then eldest co-heir of a smaller portion of the property than he would be entitled to on a partition, as a sufficient provision for his maintenance. The plaintiff's younger brother instituted a suit in 1871, and succeeded in resisting the alleged custom, and obtained a decree for his full share. Held (reversing the decision of the Civil Judge) that the plaintiff was entitled to the relief asked for, it not appearing from the arrangement of 1856 that the parties intended the allotment to be in satisfaction and discharge of every right of the plaintiff as a coparcener. SUBBIEM PILLAY v. of Act VIII of 1859. Preliminary objections were taken to the validity of the warrants on which the Sheriff arrested them, on the grounds that the time for execution was not specified in them; and that even had they been originally valid their authority had expired, owing to the delay in bringing up the prisoners. Both objections were overruled. Held that a mere informality in a warrant, such as the omission of the time for execution, only renders it irregular, and does not invalidate it: that advantage having been taken of such irregularity to prejudice the prisoner, affords grounds for an application to the Court to set the warrant aside: and that a mere delay in bringing the prisoner before the Court after his arrest, if not for a considerable period, does not render his detention illegal. 4. ——— Writ of Calcutta Small Cause Court, Form of.—Act XII of 1865.—Fixing substance-money.—A writ of the Calcutta Small Cause Court commanding its "Bailiff to take the body of A. and have him before the Court on the—day of—to satisfy B. in the sum of—debt and costs, ordered and decreed by the said Court on the—day of—to be paid to the said B. with costs of execution, and by virtue thereof to take and convey the said A. to the common jail of the said Court, there to be detained in safe custody for—weeks, or until he shall sooner perform the said order of the Court," is in point of form a sufficient warrant to the jailor to receive and detain A., notwithstanding Act XII of 1865. It was not necessary, in the case of commitment of a debtor to prison by the Calcutta Court of Small Causes, to bring him in the first instance before the Court, as under the provision of Act VIII of 1859, in order to have his substance-money fixed. able, when the Nazirs of the subordinate Courts delegate the duty of executing warrants of arrest, that they should confer the authority in more clear and explicit terms than are expressed by a mere indorsement, and that they should be careful in selecting proper persons to discharge that duty, bearing in mind, as far as circumstances permit, the position and caste of the party to be arrested, so as to avoid, through the medium of Court process, subjecting any such party to personal indignity or offence. Held, further, that it is important that the person chosen should be made acquainted with the contents of the warrant in order that he may be able to inform the judgment-debtor at whose suit and for what amount he is being taken into custody. Where a warrant for the arrest of the judgment-debtor had been executed, and an indorsement thereon, professedly under section 343 of the Civil Procedure Code, was irregularly made by the Nazir Nazir, he not having been "the officer entrusted with the execution of the warrant," Held that such irregularity did not invalidate the arrest. 6. ——— Irregularity in warrant.—Warrant of arrest in execution of a decree only initiated by proper officer.—Civil Procedure Code, 1892, ss. 2, 351.—A warrant issued for the arrest of a debtor under the provisions of section 251 of the Civil Procedure Code, was initiated by the Munsharu of the Court, sealed with the seal of the Court, and delivered to the proper officer for execution. The debtor forcibly resisted the officer, and was tried and convicted, under section 353 of the Penal Code, of assaulting a public servant in the execution of his duty as such. In revision, it was contended, with reference to the requirements of section 251 of the Civil Procedure Code, that the warrant of arrest, having been initiated only, was bad, and the officer could not legally execute it, and consequently no offence under section 353 of the Penal Code had been committed. Held that this contention could not be allowed, and although it was proper that the person signing a warrant should write his name in full, it could not be said that because the signature was confined to the initials of the name, it was not the duty of the officer to execute the warrant. QUEEN- EMPRESS v. JANET PRASAD 1 L. R., 8 All., 333

7. ——— Validity of warrant.—Liability of Nazir.—Escape of judgment-debtor.—The plaintiff sued out a warrant for the arrest of his judgment-debtor on the 4th December 1876. The warrant was lodged with the Nazir on the 16th December and was to be in force till the 4th January 1877. On the 22nd December 1876 the Nazir was informed that the judgment-debtor was already in the civil jail under a writ of execution issued by another creditor. The Nazir then returned the warrant to the Subordinate Judge who had issued it. On the 29th December the Subordinate Judge again sent it to the Nazir's office, where it was duly received by the Nazir's karkun (defendant No. 2). This fact was not reported by the karkun to the Nazir (defendant No. 1) until the 4th January 1877. On the 1st January 1877 the judgment-debtor's debt was paid by Government, and he was released in honour of Her Majesty's assumption of the title of Empress of India. The judgment-debtor thereupon left the district and could not be found, and the plaintiff's warrant remained unexecuted. The plaintiff sued the Nazir and his karkan for allowing for his judgment-debtor to escape. Held that the Nazir ought not to have sent the warrant back to the Subordinate Judge, and that there was no necessity for a fresh order on it until the time for which it had to run had expired. Held also that, according to Act VIII of 1859, as it stood at the end of 1876 and until October 1877, the batta for the maintenance of a debtor could not become payable until he was arrested and brought before the Court, and the latter made the order for his committal to the civil jail. *KASTURCHAND v. A. did not appear on the day appointed, but had an application presented for postponement of the demand for arrears of rent, on the grounds therein stated. On the following day the Magistrate passed the following order: "Whereas the debtor, defendant, has not appeared in person, the summons has not been obeyed; therefore it is ordered that a warrant be issued for the arrest of the defendant." "I appoint you turney (executor) in all matters relating to C," &c. A, recovered from the fever, but died suddenly a year later, without having made any other testamentary disposition of his property. In a suit brought by B, as executor of A, according to the tenor of these documents, against the widow of A, for the purpose of having probate of them granted to him as of the will of the deceased, Held (reversing the judgment of MACPHERSON, J.) that the documents were only intended to have a testamentary effect in the event of A's having died of the sickness he was suffering from at the time of writing, and therefore probate which had been granted by the Court at the original hearing was ordered to be brought in and cancelled. *KAMESEB DOSSEE v. ## 8. CONSTRUCTION.

26. — Rules of construction.—Intention of testator.—Meaning of "purchase."—The rule of construction applicable to a will is that words in general are to be taken in their ordinary and grammatical sense unless a clear intention to use them in another can be collected. If the language of a will is perfectly unambiguous and precise, it cannot be strained for the purpose of giving effect to what possibly might have been the intention of the testator, but is not expressed or implied in the terms of the testament. G., by a clause in his will, gave his wife a life-interest in the house in his possession, and in those which he might afterwards "purchase." In G.'s lifetime his younger brother died, and G. thereby acquired a house by inheritance. Held, there being nothing to show that G. had used the word "purchase" in any other than its ordinary sense, that the language of the will could not be strained in order to give effect to what possibly might have been the testator's desire had he foreseen the death of his younger brother in his own lifetime, but was not expressed or implied in the terms of the testament, and that the house did not pass, under the will, to the testator's widow. *GEORGE v. 27. — Effect of words excluding from inheritance.—Heir-at-law.—A., a Parsi inhabitant of Surat, died there on the 13th February 1879, leaving him surviving the following relations, viz.: A daughter J. (the respondent) by his first wife, who had predeceased him; his second wife Dhanbai, who lived apart from him; his third wife, who had been divorced by him, and whose son d. he did not recognise as his own; and his three sisters D., S., and G., the first-named of whom had been married to K., and whose son E. was the appellant. By his will A. expressly directed that neither his daughter J. nor his widow Dhanbai should take any share of his property, the whole of which he bequeathed to his brother L., who, however, predeceased him. Held that the use of mere negative words, unaccompanied by any effective disposition of his property, could not exclude his daughter J. or his widow Dhanbai from succeeding to their shares of the estate. *ERASHA KAIKHURST v. Among these, the question whether the manager's commission was to be calculated on the gross rental of the estate, or on the income divisible among the sharers, was held to be settled by the indication of the latter mode of calculation in the will. *ORDE v. The testator's widow married a second husband, and they carried on the business of the deceased together. They afterwards separated, and she brought a suit against her husband for a declaration of her right under the will, and for an account from her husband of the profits, &c., of the business during their marriage. Held (reversing the decision of the Court below) that, on the true construction of the will, the stock-in-trade, &c., was not bequeathed to the wife for her sole and separate use independent of any future husband; her husband did not become a trustee for her in respect of such stock-in-trade or the profits of the business, and he was not bound to render an account. *ORD v. Mortmain, Statutes of.—Hospital.—Clause prohibiting alienation.—A testator left his personal property to trustees in trust to pay thereout certain annuities to his son and daughter, and, after bequeathing some pecuniary legacies, devised certain immovable property to the trustees in perpetuity in trust for the support of hospitals in the North-West Provinces, with directions that the surplus income (if any) from his personally during the lives of his children, and on the death of either of them, his or her annuity, and on the death of both of them, the whole income of the personality, should be applied in support of the hospitals. The will also contained a provision that the property should never be sold. In a suit for the construction, and for declaration of the trusts, of the will, it appeared that the income of the personality was not more than sufficient, after payment of the legacies, to pay the annuities to the testator's children, and that the immovable property was greatly in need of repairs and did not produce enough for the support of the hospitals, or to enable the trusts of the will relating thereto to be carried out. Held that the devise for the support of the hospitals was a valid devise, and one to which the Court would give effect, as being a charitable trust within the scope of 43 Elizabeth, Chap. 4. The Statutes of Mortmain not applying to India, the Court will carry out such a trust when the subject is immovable property, just as it would if it had been personal property. Held also that, if the prohibition against sale were a valid one, the Court could not order a sale merely because it would be advantageous to the charity that the property should be sold; but held that the prohibition against sale was void as being repugnant to the devise, and, notwithstanding such prohibition, the trustees had power to sell, or otherwise alienate, the property for the purpose of maintaining the hospitals. Doorga Pooja; to spend suitable sums for the perusal of Mohabharat and Pooran and for the prayer of God during the month of Kartick. Cyprès, Doctrine of.—A testatrix bequeathed the interest of a Government promissory note to "The Calcutta Armenian Orphans' College Funds for the Relief and Enjoyment of the Poor Families, Widows, Orphans, and Schools of the Armenian Nation," to be received half-yearly by the wardens of the funds for the time being. Although there was a charity in Madras, called "The Armenian Orphans' College," there was none in Calcutta or elsewhere answering the description of the Calcutta Armenian Orphans' College, but there were two, and only two, charitable institutions in Calcutta which provided for the relief and enjoyment of the poor families, widows, orphans, and schools of the Armenian nation. Of these, one, the Church of St. Nazareth, distributed money amongst, and gave relief to, the poor families, widows, and orphans of the Armenian community; and the other, the Armenian Philanthropic Academy, educated gratuitously the poor and orphans of the same community. The note was invested by order of the Court, and there had been a large accumulation of interest thereon. The governors of the two institutions concurred in asking that each should receive a moiety of the accrued and future interest of the fund. Held that the cyprès doctrine applied; that the accumulated interest should remain invested; but that the accruing interest on the accumulated fund should be paid half-yearly, one moiety to the wardens of St. Nazareth's Church, and the other to the managers of the Armenian Philanthropic Academy. that a pecuniary legacy, given under the will, had lapsed and fallen into the residue. Prior to the hearing it was agreed between B. and the Administrator General that the costs of the suit should come out of the testator's estate; this agreement was embodied in a consent order obtained on the application of the plaintiff. The suit was dismissed, and this decision was affirmed on appeal. On the question of costs,—Held that the estate of the testator not being before the Court, the agreement as to costs could not be carried out, and that the plaintiff must pay the costs of all parties to the suit. *MALCHUS v. 44. ———— Children.—Domicile.—Rules for interpretation.—Acquisitions to property from rents.—Where a testator has an ascertained domicile, the construction of his will must depend on the law of that domicile; but if no particular law is applicable, the will is to be interpreted by principles of natural justice. In such cases, in applying the rules of Hindu, Mahomedan, or English law to the wills of Hindus, Mahomedans, or East Indian Christians respectively, their particular habits and modes of life may be looked to as a guide to the interpretation. From the context of the will and surrounding circumstances, "children" may be interpreted as illegitimate children. Where by the will the income of estates was left to devices for life, with a gift over of the corpus on their death, and a portion of the income, instead of being divided among the tenants-for-life, was applied to the purchase of other estates,—Held, those estates did not pass to the remaindermen, but formed the absolute property of the tenants-for-life, and passed to their devisees. *BARLOW v. K. K. D. should take the whole of his estate according to the shastras, and enjoy the profits thereof for her life, and that on her death, in the event of a daughter or daughters having been born to him, then she or they, and on the death of her or them, then her or their son or sons (the testator's daughter's sons) should in like manner take and become the owner or owners of the estate according to the shastras; and that in the event of there being no daughter or daughter's son of the testator living at the time of the death of his widow, then his grand-daughter (daughter's daughter) H. D. D. should take the whole estate absolutely from generation to generation (putro poutradi); and that, in the event of no son or daughter being born to the testator after the execution of his will, and of his grand-daughter (daughter's daughter) H. D. D. dying childless, or being a barren or childless widow, or otherwise disqualified, then the whole of his property should go to the Government, to be employed by it for charitable and philanthropic purposes. The main object of the testator B. L. M. in making this disposition of his property was admittedly to exclude R. L. M. from the inheritance. Held that H. D. D., if she survived the testator's widow K. K. D., and was not then a barren or childless widow or otherwise disqualified, would take, not a life-interest, but an absolute estate, to the exclusion of R. L. M. Held, also, that the words "putro poutradi" had generally the effect of defining the estate given as an estate of inheritance, and did not by themselves necessarily denote that the estate given was to be one descendible to heirs male only. Held, also, that in case of H. D. D. not surviving K. K. D., or of her being at the time of the death of K. K. D. for any reason disqualified from taking the estate, then upon the death of K. K. D. the gift to the Government of the reversion to the exclusion of R. L. M. would take effect, and was a good and valid gift. HORI DASI DABI v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL

46. ———— Gift to children on their attaining 21.—Where words of contingency form part of the description of the class of persons to take, as in the case of a gift to those "who shall attain the age of 21," the words must receive their natural construction, and no estate vests in any one till he attains the prescribed age. In such a case there must be something in the context pointing to a different construction, or something in the will inconsistent with the literal construction, to justify a Court in adopting any but the literal construction. In the case of words of contingency occurring in the description of the class of persons to take, a mere gift over is not sufficient to change their meaning. BALLIN v. BALLIN

All the persons named survived the testator. Held that they took absolute interests in the shares named, and that the estate became divisible on the infant son of D. attaining majority. *ELLOKASSE DOSSEE v. 43. ————— Vesting of estate in executor.—Directions to executors, Effect of.—A testatrix, after appointing certain persons to be executors of her will in respect of the whole of her property, directed that they should "take possession of the whole of her property, and keep the same under their protection;" that they should pay out of her estate the charges of interment, &c.; that they should repair four houses annually out of the income thereof, having let them out to hire, and, after paying taxes and ground-rent, divide the proceeds every three months between the testatrix's two sons; that the executors should not give the rents to the creditor, because the bequest of the income to the sons was "not an entire gift to them, but a mere provision for their support." The will proceeded as follows: "Should my son M. happen to die before the demise of his wife, then I give the share of M. to his widow H. M., &c., and after the death of H. M., should my son M. not have left any legitimate male child, then I give the above share to my son J., &c. After the death of M. (and his wife), should he have left legitimate male children, such male children shall in the same manner receive the income once in every three months till they attain the age of 21 years, and then the amount of their share shall be divided into equal portions, and each of them having become the owner of his portion shall receive the same from my executors; but if *H. them having received his share in equal proportion as a legacy from me, shall enjoy the same." M., and H. M. his wife, died without having left any children; J. died in the lifetime of M. A., and one of the sons of G. died without leaving children in the lifetime of H. M. Held, firstly, that the direction to the executors to lease the property indefinitely and out of the income to make repairs, pay taxes and ground-rent, and apply the rent to the maintenance of the sons, was sufficient to vest the legal estate in the trustees. Secondly,—that such estate was an estate in fee. Thirdly,—that the children of G. took equitable estates in remainder in fee, defeasible in case of their death in the lifetime of the first taker for life, in which event there was substituted a devise to their children in fee. Fourthly,—that the children of G. took as tenants in common, and not as joint tenants, and therefore, that as there was nothing from which cross remainders between the children of G. could be implied, the share of A. reverted to the heir-at-law of the testatrix. Fifthly,—that wherever any estate in fee is devised to a trustee in trust without any limitation of the estate of the cestui que trust, the latter takes the beneficial estate in fee. *SHIBCORE v. 49. ————— Gift to children.—A testator, after providing for payment of debts, &c., directed that the whole of his property should be disposed of and the proceeds placed in the Oriental Bank, with power to the executors to invest the same in mortgages, and to leave existing mortgages untouched. The will then contained this direction: "That a monthly stipend of £15 be paid to my daughter E. S. for her own benefit, and £20 for the benefit of her two children (during their minority), and in the event of the demise of any of the said children occurring, the sum of £10 to cease rateably as being the allowance for each child; that on each of the children attaining their age of majority, I request that my executors pay to each of them severally and proportionably the full amount of interest accruing from my estate (the existing provision for my two daughters to continue during their natural life), and after their demise the said interest in like manner to revert to their heir or heirs in succession." Held, firstly,—that a direction to pay a monthly stipend to E. S. and M. D. respectively was simply a charge upon the testator's estate to pay the said stipends to E. S. and M. D. for their respective lives. Secondly,—that E. S. and M. D. were severally entitled during the lifetime and minority of their children to a monthly stipend of £10 in respect of each child, such payment to cease upon the death of each child or on its attaining majority, till which latter event the said children took no interest under the will. Thirdly,—each child upon attaining its majority took a share of the residue, proportioned to the number of children then living, and a contingent proportionate interest in the shares of each of the other children which would become vested on the death of each one dying under twenty. Fourthly,— the limitation of the gift "during their natural life and after their demise, the said interest in like manner to revert to their heir or heirs in succession," did not prevent the children from taking their several shares absolutely under the will. See Simble.—The rule in Will's case, 6 Rep., 17, is not applicable to personality. *AGNEW v. 50. ——— Absolute gift.—Restriction on legatees.—Enjoyment.—Residuary estate.—Where a testator leaves a legacy absolutely as regards his estate, but restricts the mode of the legatee's enjoyment to secure certain objects for the benefit of the legatee, and where such objects fail, the absolute gift prevails, and does not fall into the residue of the testator's estate. Therefore, where a testator gave legacies to certain of his grandsons and granddaughters, but nevertheless declared that such legacies should be held upon trust (as to the legacies to the grandsons) to invest the same and to apply the income during the minority of the legatee towards his maintenance and education, and upon his attaining the age of 21 years to pay him the income during his lifetime, and after his death to pay such income unto the widow of such grandson, and after the death of both of them to transfer the capital unto the child or children of such grandson as being a son or sons should attain the age of 21 years, or being a daughter should attain that age or marry, in equal shares as tenants-in-common; and where the testator especially provided as to the legacy left to one grandson that upon the happening of certain events it should be paid to his other grandchildren, —Held that the gift to the grandsons were absolute, and that the subsequent provisions were simply a qualification of the gifts for the benefit of the legatees; and that, therefore, upon the death of one of the grandsons unmarried, his legal representative was entitled to the legacy left to him. ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL OF BENGAL v. T., and having first made his will in the English form, whereby, after declaring that he had already made sufficient provision for his son G. M. T., and that G. M. T. was to take nothing under the will, he gave all his property to trustees, upon trust, as to the personal estate, "to collect and get in the same" with certain specified exceptions, and thereout to pay his funeral expenses and debts, "and such legacies as were not by the will postponed in payment;" and to invest the residue, and out of the annual proceeds of such investments, so far as the same would extend, to pay certain annuities and postponed legacies as they became due, and to pay such surplus income as might from time to time exist to the person entitled to the beneficial enjoyment of the real property or the surplus rents or profits thereof, with an ultimate trust, after all the legacies and annuities had been satisfied, for the person or persons entitled to the beneficial enjoyment of the real property. And as to the realty, upon trust, until all the debt and legacies had been paid, and all the annuities had fallen in, to receive the rents, and thereout in the first instance to pay the unsatisfied legacies and annuities, and to pay the surplus rents to the person or persons for the time being to whom the real estate (subject to the devise to the trustees) was given by the will. And as a first charge on the net income of the real property (after satisfying the expenses of establishments), the testator directed the trustees to pay Rs. 30,000 per annum to the person for the time being entitled to the beneficial enjoyment of the real property or the surplus income thereof. He further directed them, after all the annuities and legacies had fallen in and been satisfied, to convey the real estate, so far as the then condition of circumstances would permit, unto and to the use of the person entitled, under the limitations contained in the will, to the beneficial interest therein. The first limitation was to J. M. T. for life. At the end of the limitations of the real estate, the will contained the following proviso: "Provided always, and I hereby declare that, if any devise, or tenant-for-life . . . shall permit or suffer the said property so devised and limited as aforesaid, or any portion thereof, to be sold for arrears of Government revenue, or shall, after attaining his majority, cease to keep up in a due state of repair, and to use as his residence in Calcutta, the said baithalkhanna, house and premises where I now reside, and make use of and enjoy my library, horses, carriages, farmyard, furniture in the said house, and jewels, gold and silver plates, &c., in any use or possession, then, and immediately thereupon, the devise and limitations in this my will contained and declared shall wholly cease and determine as to him, and the person next in succession to him under the limitations aforesaid shall not succeed," as if the person committing a breach of such conditions had then died. The testator died in August 1868. In December 1868 his son G. M. T. instituted a suit for the purpose of avoiding and setting aside the trusts and limitations of the will, except so far as they were for payment of debts, legacies, and annuities. This suit was dismissed on the 1st of April 1869. G. M. T. appealed, and on the 1st September 1869 the Appeal Court declared him to be absolutely entitled to the personality, subject to the trusts for payment of debts, legacies, and annuities, and entitled, on the death of the defendant J. M. T., the tenant-for-life, to the realty. J. M. T. and others claiming under the limitations in the will, appealed to the Privy Council; and G. M. T. filed a cross-appeal, in which he claimed that the gift of the life-estate to J. M. T. ought to be declared void. By the order of Her Majesty in Council, which was dated the 9th August 1872, and which arrived in Calcutta in September 1872, all the limitations after the limitation to J. M. T. were declared void and inoperative, and it was further declared that J. M. T. was beneficially entitled to a life-interest in the realty, and also in the personality directed to be conveyed or converted into a fund, subject to the payments in the will directed to be made, and to the provisions in the will not thereby declared to be void; and also, until the legacies and annuities fell in and were satisfied, to Rs. 500 a month out of the net rents of the realty, and also to the surplus rents of the same and the surplus interest of the personality; and that, upon the failure or determination of J. M. T.'s life-interest, G. M. T. was entitled as heir-at-law to the real and personal property. The proviso for cesser was not among the provisions of the will which were declared void. J. M. T. was one of the trustees under the will. After the testator's death the business of the estate continued, as theretofore, to be carried on in a portion of the baithakhana house; and J. M. T., who had a family dwelling-house of his own, used, up to November 1863, to attend at the baithakhana daily for the transaction of business. In November 1869 J. M. T. quarrelled with his co-trustees, and ceased to go to the baithakhana. In April 1870 he demanded from the other trustees that possession of the baithakhana should be given to him, and upon their insisting on the right to occupy the portion of the baithakhana used for the purpose of the estate business, sued them for possession. In July 1870 a decree for possession was made in his favour. The trustees appealed, and ultimately, in July 1871, the Appellate Court made a declaration that it was consistent with the trusts of the will that J. M. T. should enter into possession; and the trustees were ordered to deliver to him possession of the baithakhana, except the portion of the ground-floor occupied for the business of the estate. After obtaining his decree, J. M. T. found that the baithakhana was in a very bad state of repair, and called upon the trustees to have proper repairs executed. On their refusal to do so, except under direction of the Court, J. M. T., in December 1871, brought a suit to compel them to effect necessary repairs: the trustees contested the suit, but in March 1872 a decree was passed directing them to make the repairs. Subsequently repairs were begun, which were completed in October 1872. In a suit by G. M. T., alleging that J. M. T. had committed a breach of one or more of the conditions contained in the proviso for cesser, by not residing in the baithakhana house and by neglecting to keep it in repair, and had thereby incurred a forfeiture of which the plaintiff was entitled to take advantage.—Held, that the clause containing the provisions for cesser and shifting of the estate was intended to come into operation as a whole and not piecemeal, and; therefore, that until J. M. T. came into full beneficial enjoyment of the life-estate given him by the will, or at all events until he became entitled to the surplus rents, the time had not arrived when that clause was intended to apply. Held, further, that, assuming that such time had arrived, the action of the plaintiff in contesting the right of J. M. T. under the will, to occupy the baithakhana house and premises, debarred him from claiming that effect should be given to the clause of forfeiture for non-residence. Even apart from any action by the plaintiff, the conduct of the trustees in disputing the right of J. M. T. to possession of a portion of the baithakhana house, and refusing to repair, would suspend the operation of the forfeiture clause until October 1872, inasmuch as it prevented him until that time from obtaining such a possession as was contemplated by the forfeiture clause. The forfeiture clause was not brought into operation by the judgment and order of the Judicial Committee of 9th August 1872. Held, on the evidence, that J. M. T. had complied with the conditions as to residence. GANENDRO MOHUN TAGORE v. JETTENDRO MOHUN TAGORE . . . . . 12 B. L. R., 1

On appeal to the Privy Council.—Held that as the clause provided for the cesser and determination of the life-interest of J. M. T. in the event of the conditions in it not being performed, his interest, notwithstanding the conditions over had been declared to be void, would cease when that event happened. Held that the clause could not be construed so as virtually to defeat it, and therefore it must be held to be operative before the trusts of the will were at an end, and J. M. T.'s estate perfected by a conveyance. But held on the evidence that there had been no breach of the condition contained in the clause. The delay in not residing before October 1872 was not unreasonable. Where, in a condition of residence, no manner or period of residence is prescribed, but residence simply, and without definition, exclusive residence is not supposed to be meant; in such cases the occasional use of a house and keeping an establishment in it with the intention of again using it as a residence, is a sufficient compliance with the condition. *GANENDRO MOHUN TAGORE v. Exercise of power—Marriage settlement.—A testator, after giving certain specific bequests, disposed of his property as follows: "I request that the interest of my property, invested in Government securities, be disposed of from time to time as follows:—First,—to my dear son A. two shares; to my two dear daughters B. and C. each one share; the interest to be paid to them quarterly or half yearly as may be most convenient. Second,—I request that these shares shall not be transferable during their lifetime. Third,—at the demise of any of my children without issue, any such share to be divided in the above proportion to the survivors. Fourth,—in the event of issue, they may bequeath their share to any one of their children they may select, subject to the above conditions." C. married in 1874, and, by a settlement made in consideration of the marriage, her share was assumed to be assigned to trustees upon certain trusts. In 1875 C. and her husband made the following joint will: "We do hereby constitute the survivor of us to be executor or executrix in our estate and sole heir of the same, together with the child or children begotten in our marriage." C. died shortly after the execution of the above will leaving one child. In a suit by C.'s husband and the trustees of the settlement of 1874 for the administration of the testator's estate and for the construction of his will.—Held that the settlement of 1874 could not operate upon C's share in consequence of the direction of the testator, that it should not be transferred in the lifetime of C, and that the plaintiffs took nothing under the settlement. Held, also, that the power of appointment given by the will of the testator had not been properly exercised by the joint will, and that the child of C, took the whole of her mother's share. *FURBER v. The principle of the decision in Lainson v. Lainson, 5 De Gex, M. & C., 754; 18 Beav., 1, held applicable to a will made by a Hindu testator. A talookdar, whose talook was entered in the third of the six lists prepared in conformity with section 8 of "The Oudh Estates Act," I of 1869, devised his estate by a will, which was not registered, to one of his wives for life, and after her death to his younger son by her. Held, as a consequence of the above rule, that it was not necessary to decide, upon a claim by the elder son as heir-at-law, whether the widow, as a person "who would have succeeded to an interest" in the talook, if the talookdar had died intestate, would have been within the exception, in reference to the effect of non-registration of will contained in section 13 of the same Act. AJUDHIA BAKSH v. M. H. (who had attained her 18th year) had a vested interest in the legacy subject to be divested upon her dying at any time unmarried, and further, subject to an executory trust in favour of her children in the event of her marrying at any time, and therefore that she was not entitled to have the capital of the legacy paid to her. the age of 25 years, when I request the aforementioned gentlemen (my wife being dead), their heirs or executors, will divide, or cause to be divided, into shares agreeably to the number of our surviving children, giving to the boys two shares and to each of the girls one, or to their lawful issue or husband, the whole of my estate, each child to be put in possession of his or her share when they shall respectively attain the age of 25 years; and whenever either of my daughters shall enter into the holy state of matrimony, I request that a proper settlement may be made upon her and her children, and in the event of either of my children departing this life without leaving husband, wife, or lineal descendants, his or her share shall be divided equally amongst our other children or their lawful issue; but on no account shall any division of the principal of my estate take place till after the death of their mother. Held (reversing the decision of PURAN, J.) that after the mother's death, each child took a vested interest on attaining the age of 25 years,—that is, at the time when possession is to be given,—and not an interest subject to be divested in the event of the child dying without husband, wife, or lawful issue. *TAYLOR v. 56. ——— Gift over on legatee's death "prior to division" of the estate.—Gift not void for uncertainty.—Act X of 1865 (Succession Act) ss. 73, 91, 106.—A testator directed his trustees and executors to hold his real and personal estate upon trust, to sell the real estate either together or in parcels, and either by public auction or private contract, and to call in, sell, and convert into money such part of his personal estate as should not consist of money, and to divide the said moneys, and the ready money which might belong to such estate, amongst the several persons named in the schedule to the will, and to pay the same to them in the shares and proportions therein mentioned, as and when they should respectively attain the age of 21 years in the case of males, or, in the case of females, when they should respectively attain that age or marry. He directed that, in the event of any of such persons dying in his life-time, or at any time thereafter "prior to the said division," leaving lawful issue, such issue should be entitled to the share which their deceased parent would have taken. One of the legatees who had attained the age of 21 years at the testator's death, died five months after him, before payment of the legacy, and left lawful issue. Held that the legacy vested in interest in the legatee at the testator's death, but that the legatee having died prior to the division of the estate, it became divested; that the "division" of the testator's estate meant, in this will, the ascertainment of the amounts allotable to the share of each legatee, after the conversion of the estate into money; and that the gift over in favour of the legatee's issue was not void for uncertainty, but took effect. Johnson v. M., to realise the latter sum and pay it to the M. O. Society, for S. M., in terms of the regulations of the Society." Held that the bequest was prima facie for the benefit of the daughter. That, having regard to the regulations of the M. O. Society, the bequest was a gift for the benefit of the Society generally. That if the will had given the mother the interest for life, instead of saying it had been given, it would have vested. That the interest vested in *S. The rest of the servants will be paid for life only." Held that these words constituted a bequest, and were not merely the expression of a wish. Also, that the bequest was not one of legacies payable out of a specified sum and no other; the statement that the monthly payments to be made amounted to one third of the sum received monthly by the testatrix, not limiting the source of the legacies. *SULEMAN KADR v. the same day as the deed, S. declared that he ratified and confirmed the deed, subject to such provisions as were contained in his will, which were that the trustees should not charge the fund for the maintenance of those who should not live in the family dwelling-house and for the appointment of new trustees. Held, first, upon the authority of Willson v. Pyott, 2 Ves. Jun., that the powers of the trustees (under the deed) did not cease on the death of S., and that the directions in the will, although not strictly within the words, amounted to a good appointment in equity, so that instead of the trustees of the deed conveying the property on the death of S. to his son, they should contrive to hold subject to the trusts of the deed as modified by the will. Secondly,—that the words “in such a manner as may procure the daily worship,” &c., meant in such manner as shall be sufficient to procure the daily worship, &c., and that the trustees were not authorised to apply such portion of the trust funds as they in their discretion might think fit, but only such portion as was reasonably sufficient for those purposes. A. and B. both died before the eldest of the testator’s nephews or nieces attained 21 or married. In a suit instituted by the widow and executrix of A. to have it declared that the above bequests were void under sections 101 and 102 of the Succession Act, and the testator died intestate as to the residue of his estate, and that she as executrix of A. was entitled to receive a one-third share of the said estate, and the accumulations thereof,—Held that the legatees took vested interests subject to be divested on death before the contingencies mentioned in the will happened; that the period of distribution alone was postponed; and that the bequests were valid. See—Section 98 of the Succession Act applies only to vested interests. *MASEYK v. ## WILLS ACT (XXV OF 1839).

s. 8.—Application of Act.—East Indians domiciled out of the jurisdiction of High Court.—The Wills Act, XXV of 1839, applied to the wills of East Indians, whether domiciled within or beyond the testamentary jurisdiction of the High Court. HOGG v. GREENWAY. . . . 2 Hyde, 3

Held, on appeal, the Wills Act only applied where the High Court had an exclusive jurisdiction analogous to that of the Ecclesiastical Court in England. It did not apply in the case of a person who was not entitled by birth or domicile to have applied to him the actual law of England. Therefore it did not apply to the case of an East Indian testatrix (the illegitimate daughter of a Mahomedan woman) who resided and died outside the limits of the ordinary civil jurisdiction of the Court. *GREENWAY v. 3. — Withdrawal with consent of defendant.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—Right to bring fresh suit.—A plaintiff filed a plaint for an account to be taken. The plaintiff withdrew the plaint, without the permission of the Court to withdraw from the suit, with liberty to bring a fresh suit. This was done for the purpose of a submission to arbitration under a deed mutually executed between the plaintiff and defendant. The deed was not acted upon. Held, reversing the decision of MACPHERSON, J., that the plaintiff was not debarred by section 97 of Act VIII of 1859 from bringing a fresh suit to establish the agreement for reference to arbitration, and also for the account, which was a relief to which he was entitled. The section only applied to cases where the plaintiff withdraws from the suit without the consent of the defendant. JUGGOSUND CHATTERJEE v. WATSON & Co. . . . . Bourke, A. O. C., 182

4. — Withdrawal of claim under

s. 230, Act VIII of 1859.—Right to bring subsequent suit.—In a suit to recover the possession of land of which the plaintiff had been dispossessed in execution of a decree against the first defendant, it appeared that the plaintiff had applied within one month from the date of his dispossession to the Court from which the process of execution had issued under section 230 of the Code of Civil Procedure, setting up his title, and it was numbered and registered as a suit under the section. Before the claim came on for hearing, the plaintiff was allowed by the Court to withdraw the proceeding, with liberty to bring a fresh suit upon the claim set up. The plaintiff subsequently brought the present suit. Held that the former proceeding was a suit within the meaning of section 97 of the Code, and liberty having been given on its withdrawal before decree to bring another suit, the present suit was well brought. produce evidence to support his claim. MEDDUN RAM DOSS v. ISRAEL ALI CHOWDHURY

[21 W. R., 291]

7. ————— Discretion of Court.—Power to interfere with discretion on appeal.—Where, after issue joined, the plaintiff was permitted to withdraw his suit, with liberty to sue again, —Held that to allow withdrawal and fresh suit at that stage was a discretion to be exercised with great caution, but the discretion having been exercised it could not be interfered with on appeal by the Judge. OMESH CHUNDER MUNDUL v. THAKOR DOSS MOOKERJEE . . . 23 W. R., 345

8. ————— Withdrawal before final judgment.—Discretion of Court.—Power to interfere with discretion on appeal.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—A lower Appellate Court had no power to interfere with the discretion of a first Court under section 97, Act VIII of 1859, in allowing a plaintiff, whether before or after the settlement of issues and before or after the acceptance of evidence upon the issues, at any time before final judgment, to withdraw from the suit with liberty to bring a fresh suit in the same matter. *RAM KANYE DUTT v. 11. ————— Failure to prove case.—Dismissal of suit.—Procedure.—The power to dismiss a suit, with liberty to bring a fresh one for the same matter, is limited to cases where the suit fails by reason of some point of fact: such liberty should not be given where, after issue joined, the plaintiff has failed to make out his case. *WATSON v. # WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT—continued.

13. ————— Ground for allowing withdrawal.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—Inability to prove claim.—Where a plaintiff asked for permission to withdraw his plaint saying that it would be out of his power to adduce the evidence, which he pointed out as existing in certain records, within the period fixed by the Court for hearing the case, the Court was competent, under section 97, Act VIII of 1859, to grant him permission to withdraw the suit. POHESH NARAIN ROY v. SCRIPU SOODYDER DEBER . . . 16 W. R., 100

14. ————— Involuntariness of evidence.—In a suit by one of several sharers of certain mortgaged property for contribution on account of payments made by the plaintiff to prevent foreclosure, the Court on appeal thought the plaintiff ought have produced better evidence, but his claim being a good one, it allowed him to withdraw the suit with leave to bring a fresh one. KATKON KOONWAR v. HULDOOT NARAIN SINGH [20 W. R., 133]

15. ————— Compromise of suit on appeal.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—Subsequent suit on compromise.—A suit founded on a compromise, which was entered into when special appeal was withdrawn, was not barred by section 97, Act VIII of 1859, as it was not a suit for the same matter within the meaning of that section; but if the compromise was duly made by the parties thereto, and if its terms have been broken, a party to it is entitled to maintain a suit to enforce it. GOLAB SINGH v. CHEDA SINGH . . . 3 Agra, 135

16. ————— Private agreement.—Restoration of suit.—Where a plaintiff filed a petition withdrawing his claim unconditionally, the suit should be at once struck off the file. If the defendant had entered into some private agreement and did not fulfil the same, it might give a new right of action to the plaintiff for enforcing that agreement, but was no reason for setting aside the petition for withdrawal of the suit as null and void. SUPMISHEN BAHADOOR v. MAHOMED ALI BEG . . . 2 Agra, 153

17. ————— Suit for possession.—Subsequent suit for rent.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—There was nothing in section 97, Act VIII of 1859, to prevent a suitor from instituting a claim for possession, and afterwards bringing one for rent. RAMKISHORE MUNDLE v. MOORAD MUNDLE [W. R., 1864, Act X, 67]

18. ————— Suit for possession after release from attachment in execution in another suit.—Civil Procedure Code, 1877, s. 97.—A claim to attached property made under Act VIII of 1859, section 246, was dismissed, and the claimant, in the year 1875, instituted a regular suit against the decree-holder under the provisions of that section. The decree-holder then released the property from attachment, and the plaintiff withdrew his suit. The same property was afterwards, in the year 1873, attached again and sold in execution of the same decree. Held that a subsequent suit for possession of the property against the purchaser at the execution sale was not barred under section 97 of Act VIII of 1859. Esdea Chunder Singh v. Shama Churn Bhittol, 11 Moore's L.A., 7, cited. MUKHODA SOONDURY DASI v. RAM CHURN KARMAKAR

He filed a fresh suit in the same cause of action in 1866. Held that he was not debarred from doing so, as the provisions of section 97 of the Code of Civil Procedure did not apply. VINAYAK JOSHI v. JANARDAN JOSHI

[7 Bom., A. C., 23]

20. ——— Nature of fresh suit.—Fresh suit filed upon a different title in existence at date of former suit.—Civil Procedure Code (XII of 1859), s. 373.—Practice.—The plaintiffs, who were an English joint stock company registered under the English Companies Act of 1862, sued the defendant as a past member of the bank, upon a balance order of the High Court of Justice in England, dated 24th February 1881, to recover the sum of £878-3. In August 1882, the plaintiffs had filed a previous suit against the defendant to recover the said sum of £878-3. That suit was based upon a call order, dated 11th November 1880, which it sought to enforce. By an order made in that suit on 7th April 1883, the plaintiffs were permitted to withdraw it, with liberty to bring a fresh suit for the same cause of action. The present suit to enforce a balance order, dated the 24th February 1881, was filed on 11th February 1885. It was contended on behalf of the defendant that the present suit being based upon an order which was in existence at the date of the previous suit, the plaintiffs could not now sue upon it; that the plaintiffs could not abandon the title upon which they claimed in the first suit, and set up a different title in the second. Held that the plaintiffs were not precluded from bringing the second suit upon the balance order, and that the suit was properly framed. LONDON, BOMBAY, AND MEDITERRANEAN BANK, v. BURJOET SOBAHI LIWALLA . . . I. L. R., 9 Bom., 346

21. ——— Withdrawal of suit by next friend.—Suit on behalf of a minor.—Civil Procedure Code (Act VIII of 1859), s. 97.—Fraud.—Where a Court has reason to believe that a suit is lawfully brought by a party who has a right to bring it on behalf of a minor, any withdrawal of the suit by that party would have precisely the same effect as the withdrawal of a suit by a person of full age. But where a person acting for a minor has fraudulently withdrawn the minor's suit under section 97 of Act VIII of 1859, without obtaining leave to bring a fresh suit, and by such withdrawal an absolute statutory prohibition is imposed on the minor from bringing a fresh suit, it is open to the minor to relieve himself from the consequences of the fraud in one of three ways,—viz., (1) by an application to the Court in the suit in which the withdrawal took place; (2) by a regular suit to set aside the judgment founded upon the withdrawal; or (3) by bringing a fresh suit for the same purpose, and setting up the fraud as an answer to the statutory bar. ESHAN CHUNDA SAFOOI v. NUNDAMONI DASSEE . . . I. L. R., 10 Cal., 357

22. ——— Withdrawal wrongly allowed.—Arbitration.—High Court's powers of revision.—Civil Procedure Code, ss. 2, 373, 386, 622.—Practice.—Notice to show cause.—Amendment of plaint.—An order under section 379 of the Civil Procedure Code permitting the withdrawal of a suit, with liberty to bring a fresh one, not being made appealable by section 588, or being a "decree" within the meaning of section 2, is not appealable. When the plaintiff in a suit applies for permission to withdraw it, with liberty to bring a fresh one, such permission should not be granted without the defendant being served with notice to show cause why such permission should not be granted. L., claiming as heir to H., a deceased Hindu, sued K., his widow, and G., a minor represented by his mother and guardian B., to have the adoption by K. of G. set aside and for certain other reliefs. The matters in difference in the suit were referred to arbitration, and an award was made in favour of the defendants. The plaintiff preferred objections to the award. Before these were disposed of K. died. The Court of first instance subsequently allowed the objections and set aside the award. The minor defendant then applied to the High Court for revision of the order setting aside the award. This application was rejected on the ground that the order might be impugned on appeal from the decree in the suit. The plaintiff subsequently applied for permission to withdraw the suit, with liberty to bring a fresh one, on the ground that K. having died, he was entitled to possession of the immovable property left by H. This permission was granted. The minor defendant applied to the High Court for revision. Held that it might have been a very good ground for allowing the plaintiff to withdraw the suit that K., the adoptive mother of the minor defendant, had died pendente lite, had no arbitration proceedings taken place in the course of the suit; but when the parties had referred their differences to arbitration, and an award had been made in favour of the defendant, and had been set aside, and an application for revision of the order setting it aside had been refused, on the ground that the matter could be made the subject of appeal from the final decree in the suit, permission to withdraw the suit and bring a fresh one should not have been granted. The minor defendant might be seriously prejudiced by such a course, and the suit had not abated against him by the death of K., while on the other hand a decree in the suit, if in his favour, would decide the litigation, and if in favour of the plaintiff, would not prevent his bringing a suit for possession on the separate cause of action which had arisen. Stahlschmidt v. Walford, L. R., 4 Q. B. D., 217, referred to. The High Court refused to allow the plaintiff in the suit to be amended, by the addition of a claim for possession of the property left by H. KALIAN SING v. LEKHRAJ SINGH

[I. L. R., 6 All., 211]

23. — Costs.—Power to award costs.—Withdrawal without leave.*—The High Court has no power, under the Civil Procedure Code, to award costs to the defendant when the plaintiff withdraws not having asked leave to do so with liberty to bring another suit for the same matter. BRASS v. TIRUVENGADA PILLAI . . . 1 Mad., 247

24. — Costs.—Power to award costs.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.*—Where the plaintiff applied, under section 97, Act VIII of 1859, to be allowed to withdraw from the suit, with liberty to bring a fresh suit for the same matter, the Court refused the application. Another application for leave, simply to withdraw from the suit, was granted, the Court dismissing the suit with costs. BRASS v. TIRUVENGADA PILLAI 1 Mad., 247, dissented from. HOSSAIN BIBI v. PERI KHANUM [I. B. L. R., O. C., 45]

25. — Costs.—Form of order.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—A plaintiff who is permitted to withdraw from his suit under section 97, Act VIII of 1859, must pay the defendant's costs. On such withdrawal, the proper order to be recorded is not one of dismissal, but one simply permitting the plaintiff to withdraw the suit, with liberty to bring a fresh suit for the same matter on payment of costs or otherwise as the Court may direct. DOUCERT v. WISS . . . 1 W. R., 322

26. — Costs.—Payment of costs not made condition precedent to fresh suit.—Power to stay suit.*—A, having brought an action against B., was allowed to withdraw, with leave to bring a fresh suit, and was also ordered to pay the costs. Held, that the payment of the costs not having in terms been made a condition precedent to bringing a fresh suit, the Court had no power to stay proceedings in the fresh suit, on the ground that the costs had not been paid. CHITTO v. MUZZUE HOSSAIN [2 Hyde, 212]

27. — Costs.—Small Cause Court.—A Small Cause Court is not bound to allow a plaintiff to withdraw a suit, on the ground that he has received payment from one of the defendants in the suit, that attempt to withdraw having been made after the plaintiff had succeeded in getting a judgment against two defendants which had been set aside by the Court on various grounds, and a new trial ordered. In such a case the Court may permit the withdrawal of the suit upon the terms of plaintiff paying the first defendant's costs. RAMA CHANDRA SHASTRY v. PAPU AITAN . . . 3 Mad., 27

28. — Withdrawal of appeal.—Power of Appellate Court.*—An Appellate Court has authority to permit an appeal to be withdrawn. RAM PERSHAD OJHA v. BHUBHAI KOONWAR [9 W. R., 328]

29. — Permission of Court.—Notice of withdrawal.*—An appellant has no right to withdraw an appeal, which has been regularly registered, without the permission of the Court. Where the appellant had given notice of the withdrawal of the appeal before the day of the hearing, and notice of withdrawal had been given to the respondent, but not until costs had been incurred, —Held that the appellant was not at liberty to withdraw the appeal, and the Court ordered that the appeal be set down for hearing. KAREEM BEE v. BHEGAM BEE . . . 3 Mad., 268

30. — Withdrawal of suit on appeal.—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 37.—Power of Appellate Court.*—Under section 37, Act XXIII of 1861, the High Court, upon appeal from a Judge sitting in the exercise of the ordinary original jurisdiction of the Court, had power, before pronouncing final judgment in appeal, to permit the plaintiff to withdraw from the suit with liberty to bring a fresh suit. GREGORY v. DOOLEY CHAND [14 W. R., O. C., 17]

31. — Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—Exercise by Appellate Court of powers under s. 37, Act XXIII of 1861.—Where application was made for leave to withdraw a suit, with leave to bring a fresh one, it being contended that the fact of a notarial protest on inland bills, and of their being in the hands of the holder without signature, was proof of dishonour; and further, that defendant being a Hindu, there was no necessity for notice of dishonour,—the Appellate Court, reversing the decision of the Court below, granted the application under the power given by section 37, Act XXIII of 1861. BOMBAY CITY BANK v. MOONSHI HUREYDOSS . . . Bourke, A. O. C., 99

32. — Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—The plaintiff having sued, and the issues having been laid down as though the suit was for separate possession, the decree of the lower Court for joint possession was set aside, with leave to plaintiff, under Act VIII of 1859, section 97, to bring a fresh suit for joint possession. JAGGANNATH DEB NAZIR v. MOHIBOOLLAH [17 W. R., 164]

33. — Appellate Court, Powers of.—Discretion, Exercise of.—Civil Procedure Code, 1852, ss. 573, 582.*—Where, on appeal from a decree dismissing a suit, the Appellate Court, being of opinion that the plaint was informally drawn and its allegations regarding the cause of action not sufficiently specific, gave the plaintiff permission, under section 373 of the Civil Procedure Code, to withdraw the suit, with leave to institute a fresh one. —Held, per STRAIGHT, J., that with reference to the terms of section 582 of the Civil Procedure Code, the Appellate Court had power to avail itself of the provisions of section 373, and therefore had a discretion to make the order allowing the plaintiff to withdraw the suit and institute a fresh one. Gregory v. Dooley Chand, 14 W. L., O. C., 17; and Khatoun Koonwar v.

*Hurdoot Narain Singh, 20 W. R., 183, referred to. Also per STRAIGHT, J., that it could not be said that the Appellate Court in this case had exercised its discretion so unreasonably or erroneously as to compel the interference of the High Court with it in appeal. Per TRELL, J., that it might be taken that the Appellate Court, though not so stating in express terms, meant to set aside, and did set aside, the decree of the Court of first instance, regarding it as a decree which could not have been rightly made and must be set aside, by reason of the radical defect in the plaint, the basis of the suit and the decree; and that, in this view, there was no legal objection to the exercise by the Appellate Court of the discretionary power of Chapter XXII of the Code. 34. — Applications for execution of decree.—Civil Procedure Code, s. 374.—Withdrawal of application.—The rule laid down in section 374 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1852)—that where a suit is withdrawn with leave to bring a fresh suit, the plaintiff shall be bound by the law of limitation in the same manner as if the first suit had not been brought—does not apply to applications for execution. *Pirjade v. 35. — Revocation of withdrawal. —Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 97.—A plaintiff who has withdrawn from his suit is at liberty to rescind the act of withdrawal at any time before final judgment. Section 97 of the Civil Procedure Code was held to be inapplicable to a case where the plaintiff rescinded after two days, a petition he had presented of withdrawal from his claim. The last clause of that section contemplated cases in which the withdrawal is not revoked. RAMBHUKOS LALL v. GOPER BEEBEE . . . 6 N. W., 66

6. ———— Application for summons to cite witnesses.—A party is entitled at any stage of the case before hearing to apply for a summons to cite witnesses without reference to the number of such applications which he may have previously made, and it is the duty of the Court to comply with such application, if any time be left before the hearing of the cause. *ANURUP CHANDRA MUKHOPADHYA v. 7. ———— Power to summon witnesses.—Settlement of issues.—Act VIII of 1859 conferred no authority upon a Judge to issue summonses to witnesses to attend on the settlement of issues. The written statements must be prepared with great care and deliberation, so as to dispense altogether with oral evidence at the settlement of issues. ANUND CHUNDER BANERJEE v. WOOMESH CHUNDER ROY
 [1 Ind. Jur., O. S., 15; 1 Hyde, 147]

The subsequent Codes, however, expressly provide for the attendance of witnesses at a settlement of issues: see section 159, Civil Procedure Code, 1882.

8. ———— Discretion of Court to summon witnesses.—A Judge's discretion in not compelling the attendance of witnesses named by one of the parties, must be exercised on reasonable grounds distinctly stated in the judgment. OZEER MAHOMED v. BYDNATH DOSS CHOWDHRY

9. ———— Selection of witnesses by Court.—It is not right for the lower Court to select five out of twenty witnesses tendered for examination. It is the bounden duty of the Judge to receive all the evidence tendered, unless the object of summoning a large number of witnesses clearly appears to be to impede the adjudication of the case, or otherwise to obstruct the ends of justice. RAMDHAN MANDAL v. RAJPALEB PARAMANIK
 [3 B. L. R., Ap., 10]

10. ———— Power to refuse to summon witness.—A Court has no power to refuse to summon witnesses when expressly requested by a party to do so unless the witnesses are required to be summoned in such a manner, or in such numbers, as clearly indicates a vexatious desire of obstructing the course of justice. RAM PHUL PANDY v. WAHED ALI KHAN . . . 14 W. R., 66

11. ———— Refused to summon witnesses.—Reasons for refusing application to enforce attendance.—It is not incumbent on a Court to give detailed legal reasons for its refusal to comply with an application to enforce the attendance of a party to a suit as a witness. SIDDHESHWER DEBIA v. DEENDUNDOO KOONDOL . . . 6 W. R., 65

12. ———— Preliminaries to summoning witness.—Materiality of evidence.—Before the Court makes an order compelling the attendance of a party to the suit, it must be satisfied that his evidence will be material. GOPAL CHUNDER HAZRAH v. MOHESH CHUNDER BANERJEE . . . 21 W. R., 44

13. ———— Summoning plaintiff as witness.—Reasons for summons.—Duty of Court.—Materiality of evidence.—A Court is bound, before summoning a plaintiff to give evidence, to record the reasons of its being satisfied that the evidence of the plaintiff is essential to the defendant's case. Where, however, the Court does not give reasons for being satisfied that the presence of the plaintiff is necessary, it does not follow that the defendants had failed to satisfy the Court that there was sufficient ground for the application. MAKOND ADIF v. SUTTOORGHUN ADIF
 [17 W. R., 507]

14. ———— Application to summon witnesses.—Witnesses declared unnecessary by Court.—Where on a case coming on for hearing before a Court to which it had been remanded, the Judge observed that the evidence of witnesses would be unnecessary, the declaration was held to have sufficiently justified the plaintiffs in making no further application for a summons on their witnesses. RAMJEWUS SINGH v. RADHA PERSHAD SINGH
 [16 W. R., 109]

15. ———— Undertaking to bring witnesses.—Practice.—On the 12th October 1870 the plaintiff applied to the Court for subpoenas to his witnesses. The Court refused to grant them, on the ground that the plaintiff had himself originally undertaken to bring his witnesses. (The Court had fixed the 28th October 1870 for the final hearing of the plaintiff's case.) Held that the plaintiff's failure to bring his witnesses was no sufficient reason for depriving him (the plaintiff) of his right to have subpoenas issued, if he found himself unable to bring his witnesses or to detain them till they could be examined, although it might possibly be, under certain circumstances, a reason for not waiting for them, if the plaintiff's case had been in other respects finished before they could be examined. *PANDURANG ANAI v. ## 2. SUMMONING WITNESSES—continued.

18. ——— Time for summoning witnesses.—Duty of Court.—The Civil Procedure Code neither expressly nor implicitly declares that witnesses must be summoned before the day fixed for the first hearing of the suit. So long as the hearing merely stands adjourned, and so long as the party who wishes to summon witnesses has not closed his case, the Court is bound to summon them, unless it appears that the application is made so late that the witnesses cannot be reasonably expected to attend in time to be examined before that party's case closes. ISRO CHUNDER RABOO v. DUNLOP

17. ——— Ground for refusal to summon witnesses.—Obligation of Court to assist party.—Delay in giving names of intended witnesses.—Where an appellant delayed to give in the names of his witnesses, but would yet have been within reasonable time to secure their attendance on the day of hearing if summonses had been sent through different posts by the railway.—Held that the lower Appellate Court was bound to have directed the issue of the summonses, and to have given every assistance to the party asking for them, all additional expenses being paid by such party. PEARER MOHUN MOOKERJEE v. MADHUB CHUNDER GHOSAL

[9 W. R., 489]

18. ——— Omission of proper steps to obtain attendance of witnesses.—Where some of the witnesses (defendants) in a suit had been examined, and plaintiff petitioned the Court to have the remaining defendants examined as witnesses, he was held not to have taken the necessary steps required by law to enforce their attendance, because he did not make any special application to the Court, or show sufficient grounds in support of his petition. RAM TUKUL THAKOOR v. OODIT NARAIN SIKHI

[12 W. R., 36]

19. ——— Procedure under Dehkan Agriculturists Act, XVII of 1879, s. 7.—Right of defendant to call witnesses.—The plaintiff sued, under section 3, clause (e) of Act XVII of 1879, for money due on a bond dated the 8th September 1877. The defendant, though duly summoned, did not appear on the day fixed in the summons, which was for the final disposal of the suit. The Court, therefore, proceeded with it ex parte. The defendant, being subsequently summoned and examined as a witness under section 7 of the Act, admitted the bond sued upon, but pleaded part-payment of the plaintiff's claim. He then applied to the Court that his witnesses should be summoned, and that their evidence be taken in support of his allegation. The Subordinate Judge was of opinion that he (defendant) was not entitled to offer the evidence. On his referring the case to the High Court.—Held that it was his duty to summon the witnesses named by the defendant. DUTCHAND v. DHONDI

Ground for refusal to summon witnesses—continued.

—In all cases in which parties apply for a summons to compel the attendance of witnesses, or a summons to produce documents, or apply to have a document sent for under section 137 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Court ought not to refuse such application merely because in its opinion the witnesses cannot be present, or the documents cannot be produced, before the termination of the trial. KRISHNA CHURN BALSACK v. PROTAP CHUNDER SURMA

[I. L. R., 7 Calc., 560]

21. ——— Ground for adjournment of suit.—Delay in making application to summon witnesses.—Discretion of Court.—If a party applies for summons to witnesses so late that he cannot bring the witnesses on the day of hearing, it still remains in the discretion of the Court to decide whether or no the case should be adjourned. A Munsif is bound under the Procedure Code to issue summonses to witnesses when asked for. ABDOOT KADIR v. ABIN MIRDA

22. ——— Civil Procedure Code, 1882, ss. 159 and 167.—Summoning witnesses.—Delay in serving summonses.—Under section 159 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882), parties are entitled to summonses for their witnesses at any time before the final hearing, but if there has been delay and want of diligence in consequence of which witnesses, not having been served in good time, are not present, the Court may properly refuse to adjourn the hearing. *KALI AHMED v. [I. L. R., 9 Bom., 308]

23. ——— Power to dismiss suit.—Dismissal of suit on ground of there not being time after filing of list to summon witnesses.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 149; 1877, s. 159.—The 20th of March 1877 having been fixed for the final hearing of a suit, the plaintiff, on the 17th of March, and the defendant on the 19th, filed their lists of witnesses to be summoned. Both lists were ordered merely to be put up with the record. When the suit came on for hearing, it was dismissed on the ground that, when the plaintiff filed his list there was not sufficient time left to summon the witnesses. Held that the Judge was not justified in dismissing the suit on this ground, unless he found that it would have been absolutely impossible to secure the attendance of the witnesses, had the summonses been granted on the 17th instant. Section 149 of Act VIII of 1859, and section 159 of Act X of 1877, discussed. RAJENDRO NARAIN NROGI v. KUMUD NARAIN BHUP

36. ———— Duty of parties.—Issue of attachment.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, s. 168.—Where witnesses do not appear on summons, it is for the parties to move the Court, not for the Court to proceed, ex motu, to further the production of the witnesses, though the Court may issue attachment under section 168, Code of Civil Procedure, if it is shown that the witnesses are absconding or keeping out of the way. BACHMAN v. KISHORE DOSSEE 6 W. R., 235

40. — Application for process against absconding witness.—Ground for not granting application.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, ss. 159, 168.—On application being made under sections 159 and 168 of Act VIII of 1859 for issue of process against an absconding witness, the Court if satisfied (as it was bound to be) that the witness had absconded, and that he was a material witness ought to grant the application unless the applicant had placed himself in such a position by his conduct, that it would be inequitable to grant it. *RAJOO SINGH v. 41. — Notice of proclamation.—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, ss. 159 and 168.—Service of proclamation.—The proclamation issuable under section 162, Act VIII of 1859, could not be legally affixed to the wall of a defaulting witness. and tendered fifty-eight witnesses to prove that fact. The Zillah Court having taken the depositions of thirty of these witnesses refused to permit the remaining twenty-eight to be examined, on the ground that as they were going to prove the facts deposed to by those already examined, it was unnecessary to take their depositions, and ultimately decided in favour of the plaintiff. The defendants appealed to the Sudder Court, which refused to examine the witnesses rejected by the Zillah Court, and affirmed the decree of that Court. On appeal to Her Majesty in Council, the Judicial Committee remitted the case back to the Sudder Court, being of opinion, that the refusal by that Court to permit the examination of the witnesses tendered was irregular, and that no decision could be come to upon the merits under such circumstances. 59. ——— Examination of witnesses by Appellate Court.—Courts should in all cases exercise the powers with which they have been entrusted by the law in the examination of witnesses, if they see that they are not properly examined through the incompetency of those who have the management of the suits. If the Munsif fails to take proper evidence, the Appellate Court should not decide the case on such evidence as there is, but having the power to call for further evidence under section 355, Act VIII of 1859, it should take proper means for making the evidence complete. RAM-GATI v. MITTARI BANER . 1 B. L. R., S. N., 20 [10 W. R., 280]

[I. L. R., 4 All., 249]

61. ——— Irregularity in examination of witness.—Witness for plaintiff examined in absence of defendant or his pleaders.—Irregularity.—Objection not taken in time.—Evidence Act, s. 167.—The examination of a material witness of the plaintiff, in the absence of the defendant, his vakil having been removed, and no other vakil then acting for him, is such an irregularity as, if objected to at the proper time, would be fatal to the reception of such evidence. But where no objection was urged during the trial, or until an appeal was interposed, the Judicial Committee held that the objection came too late and could not be sustained, as, notwithstanding such irregularity and miscarriage, that fact did not taint the whole proceedings so as to prevent the plaintiff recovering upon the other evidence which was sufficient to establish his case. But although the other evidence rendered the evidence improperly admitted immaterial, the Judicial Committee, as there had been an irregularity in the Court below in affirming the judgment, refused to give the costs of the appeal. BOMMARATU BAHADUR v. RANGASAMY MUDALI

[6 Moore's I. A., 232]

62. ——— Evidence given without cross-examination and without opportunity of cross-examination.—Evidence given when a party never had the opportunity either to examine or to cross-examine the witnesses, or to rebut their testimony by fresh evidence, is not legally admissible for or against him, unless he consents that it should be so used. *GORACHAND SIKRAH v. 63. ——— Evidence to contradict witness.—Contradiction of witness to collateral questions.—Right to call evidence to contradict.—The rule limiting the right to call evidence to contradict witnesses on collateral questions excludes all evidence of facts which are incapable of affording any reasonable presumption or inference as to the principal matter in dispute, the test being whether the fact is one which the party proposing to contradict would have been allowed himself to prove in evidence. GULAM ALI BIN KAZI ISMAIL v. AGA KHAN . 6 Bom., O. C., 83

64. ——— Evidence of experts.—Proof of signatures.—In a suit for arrears of rent for 1273 at an enhanced rate, plaintiff relied upon an agreement said to have been executed by defendant in that year. The Assistant Collector found that the agreement had not been executed by defendant. On appeal, the Judge called an expert who proved that the signatures of the attesting witnesses were not all genuine, and the decision of the Assistant Collector was affirmed. Held that the Judge was wrong in calling for and acting upon the evidence of the expert. BINDESSUREE DUTT SINGH v. DONIA SINGH [9 W. R., 88]

65. ——— Consent to be bound by particular witness.—Evidence not legally admissible.—An a priori consent to abide by the testimony of a certain witness cannot bind the consenting party to hearsay testimony, but only to such evidence as is legally admissible, i.e., evidence as to such facts as the witness can directly speak to. *LUCKEEMONEE DOSSEE v. 66. ——— Witness sworn in particular manner.—Where the plaintiff rested his claim solely on the deposition of the defendant to be taken by his placing his hand on a particular text of the Koran, and the defendant not being examined in that way but in the usual way, did not prove the claim.—Held that the Court was not right in allowing the plaintiff to examine further witnesses and to reopen her case. MAHOMED SALEH v. MUBRAMOONISSA . 10 W. R., 284

67. ——— Plaintiff agreeing to be bound by defendant's evidence.—Statements obviously untrue.—Where the defendant on examination makes statements which amount to nothing and are manifestly untrue, the plaintiff cannot be bound by them, even though he had agreed to be bound by what the defendant said. *GOOROOOESS ROY v. 72. ——— Recall of witnesses.—Omission to give opportunity for cross-examination.—A Court of first instance decreed a case ex parte in favour of the plaintiff, and at a rehearing did not recall the plaintiff's witnesses, whom, therefore, the defendant had no opportunity to cross-examine, and again gave a decree for the plaintiff. The lower Appellate Court rejected the evidence of plaintiff's witnesses, and reversed the decree. Held that the Court of first instance should have recalled the plaintiff's witnesses, and given the defendant an opportunity of cross-examination. RAM BAKS LALL v. A party to a suit tendering himself as a witness, and declining without lawful excuse to answer questions put on cross-examination, was liable to be dealt with under section 169 of the Civil Procedure Code. [1 N. W., 162: Ed. 1873, 241]

7. CONSIDERATION AND WEIGHT OF EVIDENCE.

75. ——— Credibility of witnesses.—Power to set aside decision on evidence.—The credibility of witnesses is a matter altogether for the Court of first instance and the Court which hears a regular appeal; and if these Courts are satisfied that the witnesses are not to be believed, their decision cannot be set aside by the High Court on special appeal, even though upon a general view of the case it should think that, if it had tried the case originally, it might have come to a different conclusion. GOUREE PERSHAD KOONDGO v. PRANANATH SUMRAH*

[10 W. R., 365]

76. ——— Mode of testing credibility.—Several witnesses to same facts.—In examining evidence, with a view to test whether several witnesses who bear testimony to the same facts are worthy of credit, it is important to see whether they give their evidence in the same words, or whether they substantially agree, not, indeed, concerning in all the minute particulars of what passed, but with that agreement in substance, and that variation in unimportant details, which are usually found in witnesses intending to speak the truth, and not tutored to tell a particular story. NANA NARAIN RAO v. HURREE PUNTH BRAO*

[Marsh., 436: 9 Moore's I. A., 96]

77. ——— Witnesses called to support case giving evidence contrary to it.—A party who calls a witness to give evidence on his behalf is not necessarily bound by his evidence; but if the evidence is at variance with the truth of his case (e.g., if a witness called to prove execution of a document swears that it was not executed and has the means of knowing the fact), it throws a suspicion on the case which renders the clearest testimony necessary to establish its truth. FUZZELUN BEEBEE v. OMDAH BEEBEE*

10 W. R., 469

78. ——— Credit on other matters of witnesses supporting a false case.—Although it does not necessarily follow that where a witness gives evidence on a particular fact in a case and that fact is found against his evidence, he is to be entirely disbelieved on the other parts of the case he has spoken to, yet where witnesses who were not merely giving an opinion upon an isolated fact in the case, but came into Court to prove the whole case

[18 W. R., P. C., 523]

79. ——— Ground for refusal to consider evidence.—Non-production of best evidence.—The principle that a plaintiff is bound to produce the best evidence in his power was held not to justify a Judge in omitting to consider the weight and legal effect of the remaining witnesses, when plaintiff had failed to produce the most important witness. LATORE MISTREE v. AGAMUDEE NUSHYO

[14 W. R., 462]

80. ——— Mode of weighing evidence.—Consideration of motives for bringing a suit.—Where the evidence in support of a case is doubtful, the Court, in weighing that evidence, may properly take into consideration the motives imputed to the plaintiff as having induced him to sue. BRICK v. FUZZED ALI

3 N. W., 303

81. ——— Estimating value of evidence.—Witness swearing affirmatively to fact.—In estimating the value of evidence, the testimony of a person who swears positively that a certain conversation took place, is of more value than that of one who says that it did not. *CHOWDHRY DEBY PERSAD v. 82. ——— Credit of witness, a servant or dependant of plaintiff.—The circumstance of a witness being a servant or a dependant of the plaintiff does not of itself disentitle him to credit. SHOOTUL CHUNDER KULLRAH v. KOYLAST CHUNDER MAL

14 W. R., 23

83. ——— Rejection of evidence unnecessarily and unjustifiably.—Held by NORMAN, J., that the Judge was not at liberty to reject, as matters which he could wholly leave out of consideration, any of the evidence before him in a case where the witnesses were unimpeached in their general character and uncontradicted by any testimony on the other side, and where there was no improbability in the facts which they related, and that the probative force arising from concurrent testimony was the compounded ratio of the probabilities of the testimonies taken singly. RADHA KANT DED v. KIRMA DOSSEE

7 W. R., 105

84. ——— Evidence of witnesses found unreliable in criminal case.—A Judge was held to have done wrong in throwing out the evidence of witnesses tendered by the defendant in a civil action merely because they have been found untrustworthy when examined with reference to a charge of breach of trust against the same defendant in a criminal case. *LALL CHAND ROY v. 86. ——— Evidence of truth of witness.—The observation that the evidence of a witness proves too much is not rebutted by the suggestion that it cannot be supposed that the witness was suborned, for, if he was possessed of common shrewdness, he would not have overdone the thing and then have given rise to such an objection. *SOORIAN ROW v. The Magistrate of the district objected to this proceeding of the Sessions Judge, contending that it was "contrary to law." The Sessions Judge referred the question, whether or not his proceeding was contrary to law, to the High Court. *PER STUART, C. [4 B. L. R., Ap. 78: 15 W. R., Cr., 15]

25. ——— Criminal Procedure Code, 1861, s. 186, 262.—Section 186 of the Code of Criminal Procedure referred to cases under Chapter XII, which were triable by the Court of Session, and not to cases under Chapter XV, which were triable by a Magistrate. To the latter cases section 262 applied. BOIDDONATH BANTA v. BHEEDOO DOSS . . . . . 9 W. R., Cr., 3

26. ——— Right of accused to have witnesses summoned.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1872, s. 363.—Under section 363, Code of Criminal Procedure, a prisoner was entitled, as a matter of right, to have any witnesses named in the list which he delivered to the Magistrate, summoned and examined. *QUEEN v. 27. ——— Criminal Procedure Code, 1861, s. 253.—Under section 253 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1861, it was imperative on the Magistrate to summon the witnesses named by the prisoner. QUEEN v. MUDSOODEN

[2 N. W., 148]

28. ——— Summoning witnesses for accused.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act XXV of 1861), s. 253.—Per AINSLEE, J.—In a trial under Chapter XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code, the Magistrate was not bound, under section 253, to summon any witness whom the accused might require. It was only discretionary with him to do so, and in the circumstances of the present case, he exercised his discretion rightly in refusing to summon the witnesses asked for. Per PAUL, J. (differing).—The right of an accused to have witnesses for his defence summoned during the pendency of the trial is an ordinary and natural right, and this right was not taken away, but affirmed, by section 253; the Magistrate was bound to summon the witnesses, though it was discretionary with him to adjourn the trial. In the present case, treating it as a matter of discretion only, the Magistrate was wrong in refusing to summon the witnesses required. QUEEN v. BHOLANATH MOOKERJEE

the issue of a second summons to such witness, with reference to section 359 of Act X of 1872, on the ground that such application was not made in "good faith." Held that the provisions of section 359 of Act X of 1872 were clearly inapplicable to the case as it stood before the Magistrate on the 18th April, and he was bound to make a further attempt—the first attempt seemed to have been made in due order—to secure the attendance of the absent witness. *EMPRESS v. 39. ———— Witnesses for defence.

—Refusal by Magistrate to summon witnesses under Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, s. 216.—Witnesses summoned by Sessions Court.—Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, ss. 291, 540.—Upon the commitment of certain persons for trial before the Sessions Court for offences under the Penal Code, each of the prisoners, under section 211 of the Criminal Procedure Code, gave in a written list of the persons whom he wished to be summoned to give evidence at the trial. On each of these lists the name of a particular person was entered, who objected under section 216 to being summoned, on the ground that the summons was desired for vexatious purposes only, and that there were no reasonable grounds for believing that any evidence he could give would be material. Upon this objection, the committing Magistrate passed an order requiring the prisoners to satisfy him that there were reasonable grounds for believing that the objector's evidence was material, and, having heard arguments on both sides, passed an order refusing to issue the summons. The only ground stated by the Magistrate for this order was that he thought the reasons assigned for the application to have the objector summoned were insufficient. Subsequent to the order, and before the trial in the Sessions Court had begun, the Sessions Judge, upon an application filed on behalf of the prisoner, passed an order directing that the objector should be summoned to give evidence. The order assigned no reasons, and was passed in the absence of the objector or of any person representing him, and without notice to show cause being issued to him. The objector applied to the High Court for revision of the order on the ground that the Sessions Judge had no jurisdiction to make it. Held that when a Magistrate refuses, under section 216 of the Criminal Procedure Code, to summon a witness included in the list of the accused, he must record his reasons for such refusal, and such reasons must show that the evidence of such witness is not material; that the ground stated by the Magistrate, viz., that the reasons assigned for the application to have the objector summoned were insufficient, did not show that the evidence was not material; that the Sessions Judge had jurisdiction to make the order complained of; and that, even if he had not, it would not, under the circumstances, be desirable to interfere with his order in revision. PER STRAIGHT, J., that section 540 is not the only provision of the Criminal Procedure Code which confers on a Sessions Judge powers of the kind exercised by him in this case. Under section 231, though the summoning of witnesses by an accused through the medium of the Sessions Judge is not a matter of right, yet the Judge has an inherent power, if he thinks proper to exercise it, to sanction the summoning of other witnesses than those named in the list delivered to the committing Magistrate. IN THE MATTER OF THE PETITION OF THE RAJAH OF KANTIV

41. — Omission to take steps to summon witnesses.—A complainant in a case who mentioned the names of several witnesses on his behalf was requested to produce them on a certain date. The Public Prosecutor is not bound to call any witnesses who will not, in his opinion, speak the truth or support the points he desires to establish by their evidence; but in such circumstances he should explain to the Court that this is his reason for not calling those witnesses, and he should offer to put them in the box for cross-examination by the accused at their discretion. A Magistrate should not of his own motion discharge the witnesses for the prosecution until the accused person has exercised or waived the right of cross-examination given him by the section. When it becomes necessary to adjourn the hearing the Magistrate should in all cases enquire of the accused if he desires to exercise his right of recalling the witnesses for the prosecution, or consents to the discharge of all or any of them. If the accused consents to their discharge, and they are discharged accordingly, he is not entitled to have them re-summoned as a matter of right. Where it became necessary to adjourn the hearing, and the Magistrate did not call upon the accused to exercise his right under the section, and there was no sufficient proof that the accused consented to the discharge of the witnesses for the prosecution, it was held that the accused was entitled to have the witnesses, whom he desired to cross-examine at the further hearing, re-summoned. Quere.—If the Magistrate before granting an adjournment called upon the accused to exercise his right of recalling the witnesses for the prosecution, and the accused refused to do so at that time, whether the Magistrate would thereupon be at liberty to discharge the witnesses. *QUEEN v. The rule followed in Eshenchunder Singh v. Shamacharn Bhutto, 11 Moore's L. A., 7; Mohammed Zahoore Ali Khan v. Butta Koer, 11 Moore's L. A., 468; and Narainee Dossee v. Narroohurry Mohuto, Marsh, 70, that a plaintiff must be held to the state of facts and equities alleged and pleaded by him in his plaint, or involved in or consistent therewith, applies also to the case made on the pleadings by a defendant. Therefore, where the defendant in a suit in ejectment averred in his written statement that the land in dispute was in fact his, but had previously to 1865 been encroached on by the plaintiff, who, in 1865, was about to erect a building thereon, and that the defendant then, in order to avoid litigation, compromised the dispute by payment to the plaintiff of a sum of money, and purchased the land, and had since then remained in possession of it,—Held that the only defence open to the defendant was that of purchase, and that he could not be allowed at the trial to prove a case of continuous user and posses-took place in execution of a decree, and it was proved by custom that the zemindar's right extended to one fourth of the sale-proceeds in cases of involuntary sale,—Held that the zemindar had a right to recover the fourth share of the proceeds of sale from the judgment-creditor, who in truth reserved the sale price. The zemindar's right attached to the sale-proceeds, and was a prior charge upon the proceeds.

7. ——— Custom.—Right to share of sale-proceeds.—Calculation of amount.—Zemindari hug.—Where by custom the zemindar is entitled to a quarter share of the sale-proceeds as his hug zemindari, he is entitled to recover it on the occasion of sales, either absolute or originally conditional, but subsequently becoming absolute by foreclosure, from the vendor and the purchaser, and the latter cannot be discharged from his liability by proving that he has paid all, including zemindar's dues, to the former, it being incumbent on him to see that the zemindar is satisfied in respect of his dues.

Held, further, that, under the circumstances, the plaintiffs, the zemindars, were entitled to one fourth from Rs50, the principal amount repayable, and not from the amount ascertained at the time of foreclosure to be due to the mortgagee, including interest, inasmuch as the deed made no provision for payment of any sum as interest.

8. ——— Sale in execution of house in mohalla.—Wajib-ul-urz.—Liability of auction-purchaser.—Right of zemindar to hug-chakaram.—The zemindars of a certain mohalla claimed from the purchaser of a house situated in such mohalla, which had been sold in execution of a decree, one fourth of the sale-proceeds of such house, such purchaser being the holder of such decree. Such suit was based upon the terms of the wajib-ul-urz. That document stated, inter alia, that, when a house in such mohalla was sold, a cess called chakaram was received by such zemindars "according to the understanding arrived at between the seller and the zemindars." Held that such zemindars were not entitled under the terms of the wajib-ul-urz to one fourth of the sale-proceeds; that the decree-holder, because he happened to have become the auction-purchaser, could not be regarded as the "seller," and it was only the "seller" who was liable; that the terms of the wajib-ul-urz were applicable only to private and voluntary sales and not to execution-sales; and that, under these circumstances, the suit must be dismissed.

APPENDIX.

ABATEMENT OF SUIT.

Appeal.—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, s. 366.—Application by legal representative to carry on appeal.—The appellant's father having died during the pendency of an appeal lodged by him, a notice was served upon the appellant's two adult brothers; but they having failed to apply within sixty days, the appellant, who was a minor, applied several months afterwards to be put on the record in his deceased father's place as his legal representative, which was done. The Assistant Judge who heard the appeal was of opinion that, in consequence of the omission on the part of the brothers of the appellant to apply, the appeal abated, and he passed an order accordingly. Held that the application having been made by the minor son within the time limited by law, the order of abatement made by the Judge was wrong. Although the complete legal representation vested in the minor son and his two brothers, section 366 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) only required an application to be made by a person claiming to be the legal representative, in order to prevent an order of abatement being made. If neither of the brothers was willing to have his name placed on the record, the respondent was entitled to have them made defendants, so that they might be bound by the decree. The minor son could then proceed alone with the appeal. BHUKAJI RAMCHANDRA v. PURSOTAM

ABETMENT.

Penal Code, s. 107.—Act I of 1879 (Stamp Act), s. 61.—Abetment of making an unstamped receipt.—A debtor, having paid a sum of money to his creditor, accepted from the latter an unstamped receipt promising to affix a stamp thereto. Held that this did not constitute abetment, within the meaning of section 107 of the Penal Code, of the offence of making an unstamped receipt. Empress v. Bahadur Singh, Weekly Notes, All., 1885, p. 30, distinguished. Empress v. Janki, I. L. R., 7 Bom., 82; and Empress v. Bhairon, Weekly Notes, All., 1884, p. 37, referred to. QUEEN-EMPRESS v. MITTHU LAL

ACCOMPLICE.

See CASES UNDER APPROVER.

1. Corroboration.—Evidence of accomplices.—It is an established rule of practice that an accomplice must be corroborated by independent evidence as to the identity of every person whom he impeaches. Reg. v. Malapat, 11 Bom., 196; and Reg. v. Nanku, I. L. R., 1 Bom., 478, followed. QUEEN-EMPRESS v. KRISHNAIAH

ACCOMPLICE.—Corroboration—continued.

2. Evidence of accomplices.—Observations on the necessity of requiring corroboration, in material particulars, of the evidence of an accomplice. Queen-Empress v. Ram Saran, I. L. R., 8 All., 306, referred to. QUEEN-EMPRESS v. IMDAD KHAN

[I. L. R., 8 All., 120]

3. Evidence of accomplices.—Act I of 1872, ss. 114 (b), 133.—The law in India, as expressed in section 133 and section 114 of the Evidence Act, and which is in no respect different from the law of England on the subject, is that a conviction based on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice is not illegal,—that is, it is not unlawful; but experience shows that it is unsafe, and hence it is the practice of the Judges, both in England and in India, when sitting alone, to guard their minds carefully against acting upon such evidence when uncorroborated, and, when trying a case with a jury, to warn the jury that such a course is unsafe. There must be some corroboration independent of the accomplice, or of a co-confessing prisoner, to show that the party accused was actually engaged directly in the commission of the crime charged against him. A second accomplice does not improve the position of the first, and, if there are two, it is necessary that both should be corroborated. The accomplices must be corroborated not only as to one but as to all of the persons affected by the evidence, and corroboration of his evidence as to one prisoner does not entitle his evidence against another to be accepted without corroboration. R. v. Webb, 6 C. & P., 595; R. v. Dyke, 8 C. & P., 261; R. v. Addis, 6 P. D., 853; and R. v. Wilkes, 7 C. & P., 273, referred to. The possession of property taken from a murdered person is not adequate corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice charging such person in possession with participation in the murder, though it would no doubt be corroboration of evidence that the prisoner participated in a robbery, or that he had dishonestly received stolen property. In the trial of R. S., and M. upon a charge of murder, the evidence for the prosecution consisted of (i) the confession of P., who was jointly tried with them for the same offence; (ii) the evidence of an accomplice; (iii) the evidence of witnesses who deposed to the discovery in R.'s house of property belonging to the deceased; and (iv) the evidence of witnesses who deposed that, on the day when the deceased was last seen alive, all the prisoners were seen together near the place where the body was afterwards found. Held that there was no sufficient corroboration of the statements of the accomplice or of the co-confessing prisoner P. *QUEEN-EMPRESS v.
